Tiny Effigy In Clay

Ancient Indian Pottery Found

By HARRY STEWART

A unique archaeological discovery — the head, torso and arm of a clay effigy — has been recorded by three members of the Aboriginal Explorers Club.

The find was made by Richard S. Thompson, 2212 Ohio Ave., James Monte, 339 Commerce St., Wellsville, and James Woodrow of Fife Rd., Wellsville R. D., while excavating an Indian rock shelter of the Ollie Campbell farm off Route 267 near Glenmoor.

THE PIECES are the first such artifacts discovered in this section of the Ohio Valley. They have been dated between 900 A. D. to before 1600 A. D. by an official at the Pittsburgh Carnegie Museum.

Thompson, secretary of the Aboriginal Club, said effigies of human faces and figures made of clay are very rare this far northeast of Columbus and downriver from Pittsburgh.

He discovered two different torsos in the shelter. Monte found the head and the arm was discovered by Woodrow. All were in close proximity.

The head and one of the torsos apparently match, along with the arm, and are from the same effigy. They are medium tan, while the second torso is much darker, almost black.

The arm fits perfectly across the chest section, as if in a resting position.

THEY APPARENTLY were fired in some manner and the workmanship on the torso is extremely fine. If all the pieces had been found and put together, the entire statue probably would be four to six inches long.

Fine lines can be seen on the clay where the artist has used some sort of crude tool in the molding before it was fired.

There is an absence of grit usually utilized by the aboriginals in making pottery, but none of the pieces shows any sign of crazing or cracking. The head is rounded, with a finely chisled nose, very slanted eyes and rather thin lips. The hips and thigh section of the torso give every appearance of those of a woman, but the head appears to be that of a man.

The figurine overall would do credit to any modern - day artist, the finders said.

IT WAS first thought that the pieces were part of a pipe. Pipes with human heads and animal heads were made by the Hopewell Culture.

Don Dragoo, director of the Department of Man at Carnegie Museum, established the antiquity of the sections, according to Thompson.

Thompson said Dragoo lauded the discovery very highly. It is believed that the statue was made by Monongahela Indians. This culture represents a northward thrust of the Mississippi Culture and possibly could have been carried to this section by a hunting party.

Further evidence indicating the effigy was carried to the site is the lack of rubbed or polished stones, which indicates the inhabitants did very little work at the shelter, apparently using it as a base for hunting operations.

Earlier man who did actually reside full-time at the shelter had little time for any craft work, as he was continually busy searching for food.

The statue fragments were found with several pot shards which contained shell temper of the type used by this culture.

Thompson said very few figures are ever found in rock shelters. They usually are located in mounds and with burials. They are believed to have some religious meaning.

The Monongahela people probably were the best and most highly skilled in various arts and crafts, making many useful and attractive tools, weapons and ornaments of bone and pottery. They practiced agriculture which helped provide them with food during the year, thus leaving them time for other activities such as their crafts.

In explaining the operation of the excavation, Thompson and Monte said the area beneath the rock shelter was laid out in squares. Each member was then assigned a square in which to dig. Harry R. Cline of Wellsville R. D. was in charge.

THOMPSON made his find in "Square 4" while Monte was working in the next section.

Thompson's section was located at the back of the shelter. The torso was found between two rocks which were setting up edgewise and was about 21 inches under the surface. The head was only a few feet away.

The excavating crew included Harold A. Dawson, Cline, Harry M. Cline, James Woodrow, Thompson, Ray Simoni and Monte.

The area has been completely excavated. A total of 218 hours were spent on the project, which was started a year ago.

As the earth was cut away in thin layers, evidence was found of various cultures at different levels. The type of pottery shards provide the necessary clues for dating the time period in many instances.

Projectile types also provide excellent clues.

The shelter also yielded various pieces of shell, bone awls, jaw fragments, rubbing stones, arrow points, animal bones, flint chips, scrapers and other artifacts.

HEAVY WATER erosion and damage made it extremely difficult to date the cultural levels and time periods at the site. Therefore, most of the date was made by the pottery.

The club said 10 per cent of the debris deposits belonged to ceramic-making groups.

The find is being used by the Beaver Valley Chapter of the Pennsylvania Archaeological Society for its newsletter and will be recorded also in the Pennsylvania society bulletin. Records also will be made for the Carnegie Museum.

27 Freedom Riders Convicted, Remain Voluntarily In Jail

Jail Hunger Strike Threatened By Six Riders In Alabama

By The Associated Press

The first 27 "freedom riders" convicted during the current drive to desegregate Deep South bus facilities remained voluntarily in a Mississippi jail today while 6 others threatened a jail hunger strike in Alabama.

The legal action in Jackson, Miss., apparently had little effect on the determination of Negro leaders, however. Statements issued in a number of cities indicated a stepped up campaign was being planned with more riders expected to head South shortly.

The 27 convicted of breach of the peace in Jackson elected to remain in jail, at least for the present, rather than post bond or pay fines.

City Judge James Spencer told the riders their conduct "flagrantly disobeyed the law" shortly before he imposed $200 fines and 60-day jail terms Friday. But he suspended the jail terms at the request of the prosecution.

Defense attorney Wiley Branton of Little Rock, Ark., contended officers herded the 27 into a waiting room for white persons when they arrived from Montgomery, Ala., Wednesday in what he described as a "plot to arrest them."

At Montgomery, 6 of 11 riders arrested on charges of breach of the peace when they attempted to get integrated service at a bus station lunch counter were still in jail.

The chaplain at Yale University and four others from Eastern colleges were released under $1,000 cash bond each and flew to New York, explaining final exams begin next week.

Before leaving they held a news conference at the home of the Rev. Ralph D. Abernathy, a Negro integration leader who is among the six in jail. The home was heavily guarded by National Guardsmen.

George B. Smith, a Negro law student at Yale, said Abernathy had been denied permission to

New Groups Raise Funds On Tractors

Latin Nations Join U.S. Citizens To Ransom Prisoners

WASHINGTON (AP) — Fund raising groups in more than half the countries of Latin America have joined U. S. citizens in efforts to buy tractors to ransom 1,200 rebel prisoners held by Cuba.

This is part of evidence reaching Washington that Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro has suffered a serious propaganda setback as a result of his offer of tractors for prisoners.

Other evidence comes from comments by Latin American newspapers and public speakers which are in striking contrast to the stream of anti-U.S. utterances received here many times in the past.

The 10 prisoners Castro paroled a week ago to arrange a deal in the United States are slated to return to Havana today.

They carry a message from a U. S. committee promising to supply the tractors if Castro frees the captives.

However, the group headed by labor leader Walter Reuther, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt and Dr. Milton S. Eisenhower, brother of former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, wants to send a technical committee to Havana to work out details and obtain assurances that the prisoners actually will be released.

Castro has yet to reply to a telegram sent early this week containing the Reuther group's acceptance.

In Detroit, headquarters of the Tractors for Freedom Committee, contributions to the tractor fund are beginning to come in, but have not been totaled.

Reuther, president of the United Auto Workers, told a Philadelphia audience the committee had received two $25,000 contributions.

Information available in Washington indicates that tractor fund raising drives are under way in 11 of the 20 Latin lands south of the border.

Democrats Plan To Back Kennedy At Capital Affair

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some 6,000 Democrats rally tonight behind President Kennedy, under attack from Republicans for his support of the tractors trade and for new spending proposals.

Kennedy himself had top billing at the $100-a-plate dinner celebrating his 44th birthday two days early. The sale of 6,000 tickets promised a sizable reduction of the party's $2 million debt.

Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson, House Speaker Sam Rayburn, D-Tex., former President Harry S. Truman and other party notables are to speak on a program to emphasize that Democrats are united behind Kennedy in advance of his trip to Europe next week.

Kennedy leaves after the dinner for his Hyannisport, Mass., summer home. From there he will go to Boston Monday night for another birthday dinner. Returning to Hyannisport, he will fly to New York Tuesday to speak that night at a Cancer Fund dinner.

Tuesday night, accompanied by Mrs. Kennedy, he will fly to Paris for conferences with President Charles de Gaulle. From there he will go to Vienna for informal talks June 3-4 with Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

The Kennedys will fly to London June 5, where they will meet the queen and Kennedy will talk with Prime Minister Harold Macmillan.

The Democratic National Committee arranged to get reports from Chairman John M. Bailey and other party workers at a midday session in advance of tonight's sinner. Bailey announced he would call for appointment of a committee to begin consideration of a site and date for the party's 1964 convention.

Committee aides said there were no plans for formal replies to fresh Republican attacks launched against Kennedy.

Arraignment Scheduled In Slaying Of 2

Negro Confesses Killing Woman, Cites Pal On Other

PLAINFIELD, N.J. (AP)—One of the two young Negro suspects in the rape-slaying of two middle-aged women has admitted one murder and accused his cohort of the other, according to police.

The suspects—Lorelle Parks, 22, of Plainfield and Joseph Maxey, 23, of Dunellen—were to be arraigned on murder charges at 5 p.m. today.

The signed statement by Parks climaxed nearly a full day of questioning Friday. The alertness of a taxi driver and a Scotch Plains policeman helped locate Parks and Maxey within hours after the double slaying was discovered.

The dead women were Mrs. Elliott C. Ewell, 49, of Westfield and Mrs. Robert Tyson, 50, of Plainfield, both socially prominent. Mrs. Ewell was the wife of the executive vice president of the Mack Truck Co. of Plainfield; Mrs. Tyson's husband is a New

Patrol Reports 5 Mishaps In County In 24-Hour Period

A Mahoning County man was injured when his car rammed the rear of a tractor-trailer truck early this morning in one of five separate accidents listed Friday and today by the State Highway Patrol at Lisbon.

Officers said Stearl Carroll, 32, of Beloit suffered contusions and abrasions of the face, right elbow and knee when his car hit the rear of the moving rig at 2:30 a.m. today on Route 14 a half mile west of the Pennsylvania line.

Carroll was headed west when he came up behind the truck driven by Anthony Dionisi, 39, of Warren, Mich. The car was demolished. Carroll, who was treated at Salem City Hospital, was cited for reckless operation.

A young cow was killed in a mishap Friday night at 8:25 on Route 344 about a mile and a half west of Leetonia.

Seniors To Get Awards

Presentation of the Laura Vodrey Memorial and Hi-Tri scholarships and an address by Dr. Dwight L. Arnold, professor of education at Kent State University, will highlight the 87th annual commencement of East Liverpool High School Monday night at 8 in Memorial Auditorium.

The scholarship awards will be presented by Supt. Ralph W. Betts following Dr. Arnold's talk. The theme of the address will be "Looking Ahead."

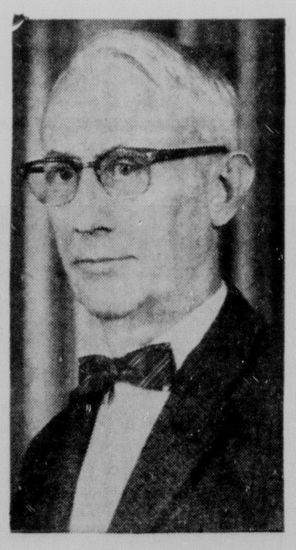
THE VODREY scholarships are worth $500 for each of two years while the Hi-Tri awards are valued at $300 each. Other graduates who have received scholarships also will be recognized.

The commencement program will open with the prelude, "Intermezzo from Folk Suite."

As the graduates enter the auditorium in caps and gowns, the ensemble will play "March Processional" for the processional.

The invocation will be given by the Rev. Lawrence Tomb, pastor of the First Free Methodist Church, after which Principal George Hargraves will introduce Dr. Arnold.



DR. D. L. ARNOLD
He'll Speak Monday Night.

Dr. Arnold is widely known as an authority in guidance and counseling, and his major responsibility at KSU is training guidance counselors for high schools.

He has appeared before many groups on youth development, guidance and counseling, and also has spoken on problems of mental health.

A MEMBER of the KSU faculty since 1946, he was director of guidance and research for the Youngstown Board of Education, and held a similar post in Lakewood schools from 1935 to 1942.

A graduate of Otterbein College where he majored in philosophy and sociology, Dr. Arnold received his master's degree in 1931 and his doctorate in 1939, both from Ohio State.

He is an associate member of the American Psychological Association and holds its diploma in counseling psychology. Active in the Ohio Education Association, he was president in 1955.

A native of Oregon, he served as pastor of rural churches for seven years and also has been a high school teacher of English, history and speech.

Road Deaths Rise Slowly

Holiday Motorists Take To Highways

By The Associated Press

Traffic deaths mounted slowly as motorists took to the road in the early hours of a weekend which for some would extend through Tuesday's Memorial Day holiday.

Adding to normal travel are those who for various reasons can include Monday to make the period a four-day weekend.

The weather refused to cooperate with those planning spring outings, however, and spread unseasonable cold temperatures over much of the nation.

The National Safety Council made no estimate of highway fatalities for the four-day period but said extraordinary travel on Memorial Day alone could produce 100 deaths, 30 more than the average on a nonholiday Tuesday.

The last midweek Memorial Day was in 1957 when the holiday fell on Thursday. That period, also extending 102 hours, saw 413 traffic deaths, 134 drownings and 113 miscellaneous for a total of 660.

Young Father Rescued From 30-Foot Well

FREDERICKSBURG, Va. (AP) —A young father trapped at the bottom of a 30-foot well 16 hours was freed early today and rushed to a hospital.

Ralph W. Burgess, 19, was hauled up the 36-inch wide shaft by rescuers at 6:15 a.m. after rescuers freed his foot. Doctors at the scene said he was in good shape despite spending the night in mud up to his waist.

Auto Racer Writes Before Tragic Death

Tony Bettenhausen was killed May 12 during a qualifying run for the Indianapolis 500-mile auto race.

Before his death he had prepared an article, "I Live With Danger", for the Family Weekly, which The Review offers each Saturday.

In it, Bettenhausen recounts his close calls on the track and how he escaped them. "No matter how dangerous this occupation looks," he wrote, "it is the livelihood I chose. People can't expect me to give up racing any more than a bullfighter would run from the biggest bull."

Parade, Exercises Set

Program Is Completed For City Memorial Rites

The program was announced today for the city's Memorial Day program to be held Tuesday afternoon at 3:30 in front of City Hall

The main program will be in front of City Hall although other activities are planned during the day by veterans organizations and auxiliaries.

The program will follow a parade at 2 which will move through downtown streets to City Hall. A gold star mother will place a memorial wreath in front of the honor roll at City Hall at 2:30. The program gets under way an hour

City Stores Asked To Display Old Glory

At the request of the Joint Memorial Day Committee, the East Liverpool Merchants Association today asked merchants whose stores are along the route of the Memorial Day parade to display the flag Tuesday.

The parade will form on Bradshaw Ave. and move along Walnut St., E. and W. 5th Sts., Jackson St. and E. and W. 6th Sts. to Broadway, where it will disband.

Parks Chilled As Mercury Drops To 35

The long Memorial Day weekend began on a chilly note with a near - freezing low of 35 degrees this morning and only a slight warming trend is expected through Tuesday.

One park pool delayed a scheduled opening but another went ahead although doubting that any swimmers would appear.

Some parts of Northeastern Ohio had snow flurries Friday afternoon as the Canadian cold front moved across the lakes.

A resident of Maplewood reported a trace of snow this morning and Hookstown was reported to have had flurries yesterday.

Edwin Copeland, U. S. weather observer at Millport, reported a sub-freezing low of 29 degrees last night.

He said such a low is unusual for this time of the year but it has been as cold several nights this month. He said crops and plants" are becoming used to the cold" and there probably was no damage from the freeze.

Tonight's low range will be less cool — 36 to 44. Sunday will be cloudy and a little warmer.

Road Deaths Rise Slowly

Holiday Motorists Take To Highways

Traffic	44

By The Associated Press

Traffic deaths mounted slowly as motorists took to the road in the early hours of a weekend which for some would extend through Tuesday's Memorial Day holiday.

Adding to normal travel are those who for various reasons can include Monday to make the period a four-day weekend.

The weather refused to cooperate with those planning spring outings, however, and spread unseasonable cold temperatures over much of the nation.

The National Safety Council made no estimate of highway fatalities for the four-day period but said extraordinary travel on Memorial Day alone could produce 100 deaths, 30 more than the average on a nonholiday Tuesday.

The last midweek Memorial Day was in 1957 when the holiday fell on Thursday. That period, also extending 102 hours, saw 413 traffic deaths, 134 drownings and 113 miscellaneous for a total of 660.

Auto Racer Writes Before Tragic Death

Tony Bettenhausen was killed May 12 during a qualifying run for the Indianapolis 500-mile auto race.

Before his death he had prepared an article, "I Live With Danger", for the Family Weekly, which The Review offers each Saturday.

In it, Bettenhausen recounts his close calls on the track and how he escaped them. "No matter how dangerous this occupation looks," he wrote, "it is the livelihood I chose. People can't expect me to give up racing any more than a bullfighter would run from the biggest bull."

City Stores Asked To Display Old Glory

At the request of the Joint Memorial Day Committee, the East Liverpool Merchants Association today asked merchants whose stores are along the route of the Memorial Day parade to display the flag Tuesday.

The parade will form on Bradshaw Ave. and move along Walnut St., E. and W. 5th Sts., Jackson St. and E. and W. 6th Sts. to Broadway, where it will disband.

Parks Chilled As Mercury Drops To 35

The long Memorial Day weekend began on a chilly note with a near - freezing low of 35 degrees this morning and only a slight warming trend is expected through Tuesday.

One park pool delayed a scheduled opening but another went ahead although doubting that any swimmers would appear.

Some parts of Northeastern Ohio had snow flurries Friday afternoon as the Canadian cold front moved across the lakes.

A resident of Maplewood reported a trace of snow this morning and Hookstown was reported to have had flurries yesterday.

Edwin Copeland, U. S. weather observer at Millport, reported a sub-freezing low of 29 degrees last night.

He said such a low is unusual for this time of the year but it has been as cold several nights this month. He said crops and plants" are becoming used to the cold" and there probably was no damage from the freeze.

Tonight's low range will be less cool — 36 to 44. Sunday will be cloudy and a little warmer.

Gets 'Go-Home Fever'

Assembly Speeds Work

By DUANE E. CROFT
Review Staff Correspondent

COLUMBUS, Ohio — When the Ohio General Assembly returns Wednesday from its long Memorial Day holiday, the biennial "go-home fever" of springtime probably will have reached epidemic proportions.

For weeks there has been talk of possible dates for adjournment. Most members favored a working windup around mid-June, while more skeptical observers of the legislative process claimed that was just wishful thinking.

House Speaker Roger Cloud, R-Logan, however, now says it may not be far beyond that—say the third week in June. That would put the formal adjournment date in the second week of July.

Pace May Quicken

Naturally, any deadline for finishing up work depends somewhat on the amount of work to be finished up. It is legislative legend that the load can be diminished at an astonishingly rapid pace in ratio to the desired time left in which to do it.

So the big question on this Memorial Day weekend is what HAS to be done. Anything else is not worth worrying about as the "go home fever" nears its critical stage.

What HAS to be done falls generally into two categories: "Absolute musts" and "desirable musts."

It is conceivable that even some of the bills in the latter pigeonhole can be dropped by the wayside if time runs out.

Appropriations a 'Must'

In the first category, of course, are the appropriations bills which provide the money for the state's operations during the next two fiscal years.

The major money bill—the operating budget—has passed the House, where it got its most careful inspection by the House Finance Committee, and now is undergoing further study by the Senate Finance Committee. It should be ready for floor action in the upper chamber very shortly.

The capital improvements bill was sent to the House by the administration last week. Some argument is expected on it, but GOP leaders by this time have a pretty clear idea of just what they'll be able to allow for major building projects.

Discuss Sundry Claims

Third major money bill is the sundry claims measure, which includes amounts paid on liability to citizens who are prohibited from suing the state.

Also listed by Cloud as "absolute musts" are the school foundation program, under which subsidies are allocated for public schools, and an upgrading of rates employers pay for unemployment compensation—deemed necessary to keep the jobless pay fund solvent.

Those five matters must be taken care of to keep the state going for the next two years, Cloud says. Beyond them, the speaker lists about a dozen subjects which he puts into the "desirable musts" category.

College vs. Branch

One is education beyond the high school, which has had its ups and downs as legislators debated the relative merits of community junior colleges, university branches and technical institutes. The Senate has revived a once-dead community college proposal which is likely to get some revamping in the House.

Money has been allocated in the general appropriations bill and legislation passed the House Thursday for a state program to retrain workers who have been replaced by industrial automation. The Republican leadership of the Assembly gives this high priority status to pave the way toward curing Ohio's chronic unemployment.

The GOP chieftains have worked with Democrats in seeking bipartisan agreements on several pet subjects of Gov. Michael V. DiSalle.

Conspiracy Considered

These include criminal conspiracy, conflict of interest, lobbying bills. Whether all of them will complete the route to the law books in the time remaining is uncertain at this point.

Abolition of sales tax stamps could be put in that list, too. Cloud in past years has been a sponsor of such proposals, and DiSalle's administration has added momentum to the move. The House passed an abolition bill last week and the issue now is in the Senate's lap.

Cloud hopes the Assembly will take action this time to give local governments some voice in the issuance of liquor permits in their areas. There has been a good deal of wrangling over how to accomplish that without risking a return to the pre-prohibition evils of too much local control.

Senate to Act on Numbers

Three stiff bills aimed at cracking down on numbers and sports betting rackets in Ohio were put through the House as a package but have been going through the Senate mill at a leisurely pace. Cloud expects they will beat the adjournment date.

A proposal to revamp the state's approach to charging relatives for care of mental patients was passed by the House in March after much hard committee work but still is in the Senate Finance Committee. The speaker says he has been assured it will move on in due time.

A bill to allow the Ohio Civil Rights Commission to tighten up enforcement of the state's 80-year-old ban on racial discrimination in public places went through the House like a spring breeze, has hit a snag in a Senate committee but is likely to go on the statute books.

Highway Safety Up

Cloud says he is also particularly interested in a group of highway safety measures, including establishment of a research center at Ohio State University, requiring seat belt brackets on new cars, providing police protection for motorists on private property such as shopping centers and stricter school bus inspection.

That leaves, among Cloud's dozen "desirable musts," the bill to carve out the 24th congressional district to which Ohio will be entitled starting in 1963.

Political opinions on the fate of that effort are as numerous and varied as the 88 counties who send representatives to Columbus. The only safe prediction is "wait and see."

Naturally, the subjects listed here do not include many other measures of routine and noncontroversial nature that already have been or are likely to be passed. Neither do they include hundreds of bills that never had a real chance.

Only about 25 per cent of the measures introduced ever make the grade in a normal session.

Any bills that haven't made a big stride forward by this time probably will wind up in the other 75 per cent by the time the "go-home fever" epidemic is cured.

Riders

telephone his wife since his arrest Thursday.

"Those who remain in jail, beginning with the evening meal, have planned to start a fast which will continue until he is allowed to call his wife," Smith said.

The Rev. William S. Coffin Jr., the Yale chaplain, termed the arrests completely illegal. He also said a Yale faculty member sent down $7,000 for use as bond money, but declined to name the faculty member.

Coffin, who is a member of the President's Youth Corps Advisory Council, told newsmen after spending 28 hours in jail that "While I have been in jail I have had time to think of every Peace Corps man and woman, whether they come from the North or South, and particularly those going to Tanganyika, the Philippines and Colombia. They will have to bear the burden of Montgomery, Ala."

Also released on bond were the Rev. Gaylord B. Boyce, assistant professor of religion at Yale; Dr. David E. Swift, professor of religion at Wesleyan University, Middletown, Conn., and Dr. John Maguire, assistant professor of religion at Wesleyan.

Meanwhile, there was every indication that there would be no letup in the rides and their objective of ending travel discrimination.

In New York, Roy Wilkins, executive secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, urged Negro students to defy segregation when traveling through the South on their summer vacations.

Marvin Rich, director of community relations for the Congress of Racial Equality, told a newsman in New York the rides are but one step of a Negro drive to wipe out discrimination entirely in the United States.

The Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee issued a call in Atlanta for immediate intensification of the rides and other activities to eliminate bus and railway station segregation in the Deep South.

Negro integration leader Martin Luther King Jr., head of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, met with key associates in Atlanta to map plans for segregation-testing bus trips on a large scale. However, he urged a temporary lull—but no cooling off—in the rides.

At Little Rock, the school board announced plans to desegregate four junior high schools and the city's last remaining all-white high school. Arkansas Gov. Orval Faubus termed the action a "surrender by degrees to the NAACP." The board acted under a federal court directive that school integration be expanded.

York stockbroker and former Mack executive.

The women's bodies were found along with the Ewells' white Cadillac in which they had been abducted. Mrs. Ewell's body, stripped from the waist down and with her red silk dress pulled up over her head, was found crumpled under the front of the car. Detectives said she had been run over more than once as she apparently tried to flee.

Mrs. Tyson's body was found inside the car. Clothing also had been torn from her.

Detective Capt. Ernest Phillips said Parks had signed a statement admitting he strangled Mrs. Tyson after having relations with her. Parks accused Maxey of causing the death of Mrs. Ewell, Phillips said.

"He (Parks) said he had relations with her (Mrs. Tyson) first and the killing was done in a fit of passion," Phillips said.

Phillips said this story seemed "more likely" than Parks' earlier statements naming Maxey as "the perpetrator of both of these murders."

According to Parks, Phillips said, Maxey took Mrs. Ewell out of the car and ran the Cadillac back and forth across her head five or six times.

Maxey, however, claimed he never saw the women and never was in the Cadillac, Phillips said.

Phillips said both Parks and Maxey had been drinking prior to the murders of which they are accused.

Police arrested Parks and Maxey as a result of tips from Scotch Plains patrolman John Trembicki who spotted the pair in Maxey's black 1951 Chevrolet around midnight and jotted down the license number, and cab driver Wilbur Morris, who said he witnessed the abduction of the two women.

The Ewell auto was found nosed into underbrush in a deserted field.

Banking In Round Comes To New York

NEW YORK (AP) — Banking in the round has come to New York.

Operations at the Sixtieth and Lexington branch of the Chemical Bank New York Trust Co. are now being conducted in quarters remodeled on a circular plan. Not only is the layout of the main business office round, but the staircases are circular, as is the elevator shaft casing. It's efficient, say bank officials, as well as attractive.

Deaths and Funerals

H. C. Taylor Claimed At 52

Herbert C. Taylor of Minerva, former foreman at the Globe Brick Co., died suddenly of a heart attack Friday at 12:30 p.m. while shopping in Canton. He was 52.

He was employed at the Globe Brick Co. in Newell from 1939 to 1949 and headed Plant No. 1 for two years.

He moved to Minerva from Toronto about eight years ago. He was a former superintendent for the Follansbee Steel Co. in Toronto. He was associated in the finishing department at Kolcast Industries while residing in Minerva.

He was born in New Cumberland in 1909 and was a member of the Presbyterian Church.

He leaves his widow, Mrs. Lillian Lawhun Taylor; three sisters, Mrs. H. M. Garee of Minerva, Mrs. Frank Ward of Toronto and Mrs. Evelyn Springer of New Cumberland, and three brothers, Lawrence T. Taylor of Toronto, Jack D. Taylor of Morgantown and J. Harold Taylor of Weirton.

Services will be held Monday at 3:30 p.m. at the Clarke Funeral Home in Toronto by the Rev. Milton Davis of Minerva and the Rev. William Watterman of Bayard. Burial will be in New Cumberland Cemetery.

Friends may call at the Bartley Funeral Home in Minerva tonight from 7 to 9, and at the Clarke Funeral Home in Toronto Sunday from 7 to 9 p.m.

Charles H. Butler

Charles H. Butler, 83, a native of Independence Township, Beaver County, died Wednesday at 1:30 p.m. at a hospital at Ft. Pierce, Fla., where he resided.

He was born in September 1877. He was a retired superintendent of buildings and grounds at Indiana (Pa.) State Teachers College and at one time was a school teacher in Beaver County. He had resided in Florida since 1943.

He leaves two daughters, Mrs. Kay C. Fleming of Huntingdon, Pa. and Mrs. E. S. Neeley of Silver Spring, Md.; a sister, Mrs. Clara Morrow of Aliquippa; a brother, Thomas Butler of Indiana, Pa., and four grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

Services will be held Wednesday at 2 p.m. at the Welch Funeral Home in Hookstown by the Rev. Howard Eshbaugh, pastor of the Mt. Olivet United Presbyterian Church in Independence Township. Burial will be in Mill Creek Hill Cemetery, near Hookstown.

Friends may call at the funeral home Monday evening and Tuesday afternoon and evening.

Mrs. Anna Stepic

Mrs. Anna Stepic, 88, a former resident of Weirton, died Friday at 10:55 a.m. at the Lancia Rest Home in Steubenville, where she was a patient for eight years. She had been in failing health the past three weeks.

She was born March 18, 1873, in Yugoslavia and came to Weirton in 1921. Her husband, Matthew Stepic, died in 1936.

She is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Ralph Drazic of Butte, Mont.; three sons, Walter Stepic of Warren, Joseph Stepic of Yugoslavia and Matt Stepic of Chester, and seven grandchildren and six great-grandchildren.

A Requiem High Mass will be sung Monday at 9 a.m. at the St. Paul's Catholic Church at Weirton by Fr. William J. Lee. Burial will be in Brooke Cemetery in Wellsburg.

Friends may call at the Schwerha Funeral Home in Weirton after 7 tonight.

Traffic

struck by a car driven by John Hileman of Leetonia, when it ran onto the highway from a field. It was owned by John Simmon of Leetonia R.D. 1.

No one was injured in a collision of cars driven by Don Curren, 20, of Rogers R.D. 1 and Isadore Bernstein, 60, of Youngstown Friday at 6:15 p.m. on Route 20 about three and a half miles north of East Liverpool.

Bernstein's car was struck in the rear by Curren as he slowed for traffic. Officers said Curren also had started slowing, but a brake line burst, allowing his car to bump the rear of the other.

Clyde Jacobs, 71, of East Liverpool R.D. 2 was cited for reckless operation following a two-car crash on Route 30 three miles south of Lisbon Friday at 9 a.m.

Officers said Jacobs was headed south when he made a left turn in to the path of a car driven by Judy Bowersock, 18, of Lisbon R.D. 2. The girl's mother, Mrs. Gladys Bowersock, 53, suffered a bruised arm. She was treated by a local physician.

Nichola Carano, 31, of Campbell escaped injury when his car ran into a ditch on Route 7 about five and a half miles south of Rogers yesterday at 6 a.m.

City Youth Injured In 'Dozing' Accident

A 19-year-old youth was injured slightly early this morning when he dozed at the wheel of his car and it struck a utility pole on St. Clair Ave., police were told.

Clark W. Hager Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Jones, 610 Inez Ave., reported the mishap to police at 4:40 a.m. and then went to City Hospital where he was treated for a forehead laceration and possibly injury of the left arm.

Hager told police he was headed north about 25 miles an hour when he fell asleep and the 1951 hardtop struck the pole, about 75 feet north of the intersection with Gardendale Ave.

The left front of the car was damaged.

A 16-year-old Chester youth told police his car was struck by another at Dresden Ave. and Smith St. late Friday night but in the confusion he was unable to secure the name of the other motorist.

Michael A. Lantz, 556 Indiana Ave., said he was headed south on Dresden when the other car pulled from the traffic lane on the left and hit the left rear fender of his car.

Lantz said he was unaware his car had been struck until he glanced into his rear mirror and saw the unidentified motorist stop. Lantz said he drove around the block and returned to the scene but the motorist had driven away.

How Can I?

By ANNE ASHLEY

Q. What can I do about brittle, cracked, or split fingernails?

A. This trouble can often be due to over-frequent applications of nail polish and remover. When the nails chip excessively, remove all nail polish, treat with petroleum jelly and hand lotion, leave all polish off for a number of days—and watch your nails recover.

Q. What can I do when bluing has left a stain on some of my white material?

A. Soak the material in a strong ammonia and water solution, or in kerosene, and wash with naphtha soap in lukewarm water, rinsing thoroughly afterwards.

Q. How can I preserve the gloss on white-painted furniture and other articles?

A. By washing these articles with a mild soap and some milk mixed in.

House Speaker Roger Cloud, R-Logan, however, now says it may not be far beyond that—say the third week in June. That would put the formal adjournment date in the second week of July.

Pace May Quicken

Naturally, any deadline for finishing up work depends somewhat on the amount of work to be finished up. It is legislative legend that the load can be diminished at an astonishingly rapid pace in ratio to the desired time left in which to do it.

So the big question on this Memorial Day weekend is what HAS to be done. Anything else is not worth worrying about as the "go home fever" nears its critical stage.

What HAS to be done falls generally into two categories: "Absolute musts" and "desirable musts."

It is conceivable that even some of the bills in the latter pigeonhole can be dropped by the wayside if time runs out.

Appropriations a 'Must'

In the first category, of course, are the appropriations bills which provide the money for the state's operations during the next two fiscal years.

The major money bill—the operating budget—has passed the House, where it got its most careful inspection by the House Finance Committee, and now is undergoing further study by the Senate Finance Committee. It should be ready for floor action in the upper chamber very shortly.

The capital improvements bill was sent to the House by the administration last week. Some argument is expected on it, but GOP leaders by this time have a pretty clear idea of just what they'll be able to allow for major building projects.

Discuss Sundry Claims

Third major money bill is the sundry claims measure, which includes amounts paid on liability to citizens who are prohibited from suing the state.

Also listed by Cloud as "absolute musts" are the school foundation program, under which subsidies are allocated for public schools, and an upgrading of rates employers pay for unemployment compensation—deemed necessary to keep the jobless pay fund solvent.

Those five matters must be taken care of to keep the state going for the next two years, Cloud says. Beyond them, the speaker lists about a dozen subjects which he puts into the "desirable musts" category.

College vs. Branch

One is education beyond the high school, which has had its ups and downs as legislators debated the relative merits of community junior colleges, university branches and technical institutes. The Senate has revived a once-dead community college proposal which is likely to get some revamping in the House.

Money has been allocated in the general appropriations bill and legislation passed the House Thursday for a state program to retrain workers who have been replaced by industrial automation. The Republican leadership of the Assembly gives this high priority status to pave the way toward curing Ohio's chronic unemployment.

The GOP chieftains have worked with Democrats in seeking bipartisan agreements on several pet subjects of Gov. Michael V. DiSalle.

Conspiracy Considered

These include criminal conspiracy, conflict of interest, lobbying bills. Whether all of them will complete the route to the law books in the time remaining is uncertain at this point.

Abolition of sales tax stamps could be put in that list, too. Cloud in past years has been a sponsor of such proposals, and DiSalle's administration has added momentum to the move. The House passed an abolition bill last week and the issue now is in the Senate's lap.

Cloud hopes the Assembly will take action this time to give local governments some voice in the issuance of liquor permits in their areas. There has been a good deal of wrangling over how to accomplish that without risking a return to the pre-prohibition evils of too much local control.

Senate to Act on Numbers

Three stiff bills aimed at cracking down on numbers and sports betting rackets in Ohio were put through the House as a package but have been going through the Senate mill at a leisurely pace. Cloud expects they will beat the adjournment date.

A proposal to revamp the state's approach to charging relatives for care of mental patients was passed by the House in March after much hard committee work but still is in the Senate Finance Committee. The speaker says he has been assured it will move on in due time.

A bill to allow the Ohio Civil Rights Commission to tighten up enforcement of the state's 80-year-old ban on racial discrimination in public places went through the House like a spring breeze, has hit a snag in a Senate committee but is likely to go on the statute books.

Highway Safety Up

Cloud says he is also particularly interested in a group of highway safety measures, including establishment of a research center at Ohio State University, requiring seat belt brackets on new cars, providing police protection for motorists on private property such as shopping centers and stricter school bus inspection.

That leaves, among Cloud's dozen "desirable musts," the bill to carve out the 24th congressional district to which Ohio will be entitled starting in 1963.

Political opinions on the fate of that effort are as numerous and varied as the 88 counties who send representatives to Columbus. The only safe prediction is "wait and see."

Naturally, the subjects listed here do not include many other measures of routine and noncontroversial nature that already have been or are likely to be passed. Neither do they include hundreds of bills that never had a real chance.

Only about 25 per cent of the measures introduced ever make the grade in a normal session.

Any bills that haven't made a big stride forward by this time probably will wind up in the other 75 per cent by the time the "go-home fever" epidemic is cured.

How Can I?

By ANNE ASHLEY

Q. What can I do about brittle, cracked, or split fingernails?

A. This trouble can often be due to over-frequent applications of nail polish and remover. When the nails chip excessively, remove all nail polish, treat with petroleum jelly and hand lotion, leave all polish off for a number of days—and watch your nails recover.

Q. What can I do when bluing has left a stain on some of my white material?

A. Soak the material in a strong ammonia and water solution, or in kerosene, and wash with naphtha soap in lukewarm water, rinsing thoroughly afterwards.

Q. How can I preserve the gloss on white-painted furniture and other articles?

A. By washing these articles with a mild soap and some milk mixed in.

Rancher Is Unarmed But 'Pops' A Bobcat

HILAND, Wyo. (AP) — Ted Neff, a Hiland rancher, surprised a large male bobcat while inspecting his rangeland on horseback recently.

Neff was unarmed — except for a bottle of soda pop in each pocket.

He fired one — and missed.

The second bottle popped the bobcat square between the eyes.

While the cat was temporarily dazed, Neff recovered the first bottle and finished the job.

Deputy Has Friends Even After Arrests

NEW PHILADELPHIA, Ohio (AP) — Deputy Sheriff Charles Malterer apparently has a way of making friends even when he makes an arrest.

There were 17 prisoners in Tuscarawas County Jail, many taken into custody by Malterer, when the deputy's wife gave birth to twins.

The inmates took up a collection and bought flowers for their captor's wife.

York stockbroker and former Mack executive.

The women's bodies were found along with the Ewells' white Cadillac in which they had been abducted. Mrs. Ewell's body, stripped from the waist down and with her red silk dress pulled up over her head, was found crumpled under the front of the car. Detectives said she had been run over more than once as she apparently tried to flee.

Mrs. Tyson's body was found inside the car. Clothing also had been torn from her.

Detective Capt. Ernest Phillips said Parks had signed a statement admitting he strangled Mrs. Tyson after having relations with her. Parks accused Maxey of causing the death of Mrs. Ewell, Phillips said.

"He (Parks) said he had relations with her (Mrs. Tyson) first and the killing was done in a fit of passion," Phillips said.

Phillips said this story seemed "more likely" than Parks' earlier statements naming Maxey as "the perpetrator of both of these murders."

According to Parks, Phillips said, Maxey took Mrs. Ewell out of the car and ran the Cadillac back and forth across her head five or six times.

Maxey, however, claimed he never saw the women and never was in the Cadillac, Phillips said.

Phillips said both Parks and Maxey had been drinking prior to the murders of which they are accused.

Police arrested Parks and Maxey as a result of tips from Scotch Plains patrolman John Trembicki who spotted the pair in Maxey's black 1951 Chevrolet around midnight and jotted down the license number, and cab driver Wilbur Morris, who said he witnessed the abduction of the two women.

The Ewell auto was found nosed into underbrush in a deserted field.

Banking In Round Comes To New York

NEW YORK (AP) — Banking in the round has come to New York.

Operations at the Sixtieth and Lexington branch of the Chemical Bank New York Trust Co. are now being conducted in quarters remodeled on a circular plan. Not only is the layout of the main business office round, but the staircases are circular, as is the elevator shaft casing. It's efficient, say bank officials, as well as attractive.

telephone his wife since his arrest Thursday.

"Those who remain in jail, beginning with the evening meal, have planned to start a fast which will continue until he is allowed to call his wife," Smith said.

The Rev. William S. Coffin Jr., the Yale chaplain, termed the arrests completely illegal. He also said a Yale faculty member sent down $7,000 for use as bond money, but declined to name the faculty member.

Coffin, who is a member of the President's Youth Corps Advisory Council, told newsmen after spending 28 hours in jail that "While I have been in jail I have had time to think of every Peace Corps man and woman, whether they come from the North or South, and particularly those going to Tanganyika, the Philippines and Colombia. They will have to bear the burden of Montgomery, Ala."

Also released on bond were the Rev. Gaylord B. Boyce, assistant professor of religion at Yale; Dr. David E. Swift, professor of religion at Wesleyan University, Middletown, Conn., and Dr. John Maguire, assistant professor of religion at Wesleyan.

Meanwhile, there was every indication that there would be no letup in the rides and their objective of ending travel discrimination.

In New York, Roy Wilkins, executive secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, urged Negro students to defy segregation when traveling through the South on their summer vacations.

Marvin Rich, director of community relations for the Congress of Racial Equality, told a newsman in New York the rides are but one step of a Negro drive to wipe out discrimination entirely in the United States.

The Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee issued a call in Atlanta for immediate intensification of the rides and other activities to eliminate bus and railway station segregation in the Deep South.

Negro integration leader Martin Luther King Jr., head of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, met with key associates in Atlanta to map plans for segregation-testing bus trips on a large scale. However, he urged a temporary lull—but no cooling off—in the rides.

At Little Rock, the school board announced plans to desegregate four junior high schools and the city's last remaining all-white high school. Arkansas Gov. Orval Faubus termed the action a "surrender by degrees to the NAACP." The board acted under a federal court directive that school integration be expanded.

Deaths and Funerals

H. C. Taylor Claimed At 52

Herbert C. Taylor of Minerva, former foreman at the Globe Brick Co., died suddenly of a heart attack Friday at 12:30 p.m. while shopping in Canton. He was 52.

He was employed at the Globe Brick Co. in Newell from 1939 to 1949 and headed Plant No. 1 for two years.

He moved to Minerva from Toronto about eight years ago. He was a former superintendent for the Follansbee Steel Co. in Toronto. He was associated in the finishing department at Kolcast Industries while residing in Minerva.

He was born in New Cumberland in 1909 and was a member of the Presbyterian Church.

He leaves his widow, Mrs. Lillian Lawhun Taylor; three sisters, Mrs. H. M. Garee of Minerva, Mrs. Frank Ward of Toronto and Mrs. Evelyn Springer of New Cumberland, and three brothers, Lawrence T. Taylor of Toronto, Jack D. Taylor of Morgantown and J. Harold Taylor of Weirton.

Services will be held Monday at 3:30 p.m. at the Clarke Funeral Home in Toronto by the Rev. Milton Davis of Minerva and the Rev. William Watterman of Bayard. Burial will be in New Cumberland Cemetery.

Friends may call at the Bartley Funeral Home in Minerva tonight from 7 to 9, and at the Clarke Funeral Home in Toronto Sunday from 7 to 9 p.m.

Charles H. Butler

Charles H. Butler, 83, a native of Independence Township, Beaver County, died Wednesday at 1:30 p.m. at a hospital at Ft. Pierce, Fla., where he resided.

He was born in September 1877. He was a retired superintendent of buildings and grounds at Indiana (Pa.) State Teachers College and at one time was a school teacher in Beaver County. He had resided in Florida since 1943.

He leaves two daughters, Mrs. Kay C. Fleming of Huntingdon, Pa. and Mrs. E. S. Neeley of Silver Spring, Md.; a sister, Mrs. Clara Morrow of Aliquippa; a brother, Thomas Butler of Indiana, Pa., and four grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

Services will be held Wednesday at 2 p.m. at the Welch Funeral Home in Hookstown by the Rev. Howard Eshbaugh, pastor of the Mt. Olivet United Presbyterian Church in Independence Township. Burial will be in Mill Creek Hill Cemetery, near Hookstown.

Friends may call at the funeral home Monday evening and Tuesday afternoon and evening.

Mrs. Anna Stepic

Mrs. Anna Stepic, 88, a former resident of Weirton, died Friday at 10:55 a.m. at the Lancia Rest Home in Steubenville, where she was a patient for eight years. She had been in failing health the past three weeks.

She was born March 18, 1873, in Yugoslavia and came to Weirton in 1921. Her husband, Matthew Stepic, died in 1936.

She is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Ralph Drazic of Butte, Mont.; three sons, Walter Stepic of Warren, Joseph Stepic of Yugoslavia and Matt Stepic of Chester, and seven grandchildren and six great-grandchildren.

A Requiem High Mass will be sung Monday at 9 a.m. at the St. Paul's Catholic Church at Weirton by Fr. William J. Lee. Burial will be in Brooke Cemetery in Wellsburg.

Friends may call at the Schwerha Funeral Home in Weirton after 7 tonight.

'Blindness' Is Just Soot On His Glasses

MIDHURST, England (AP)—When a small oil-fired boiler exploded in front of him at nearby Trotton, 55-year-old George Ayling thought he had been blinded.

He blundered about in panic, stubbing his toes and bruising his shins.

"I could not see," he said later—"then it turned out it was only my glasses blackened by soot."

struck by a car driven by John Hileman of Leetonia, when it ran onto the highway from a field. It was owned by John Simmon of Leetonia R.D. 1.

No one was injured in a collision of cars driven by Don Curren, 20, of Rogers R.D. 1 and Isadore Bernstein, 60, of Youngstown Friday at 6:15 p.m. on Route 20 about three and a half miles north of East Liverpool.

Bernstein's car was struck in the rear by Curren as he slowed for traffic. Officers said Curren also had started slowing, but a brake line burst, allowing his car to bump the rear of the other.

Clyde Jacobs, 71, of East Liverpool R.D. 2 was cited for reckless operation following a two-car crash on Route 30 three miles south of Lisbon Friday at 9 a.m.

Officers said Jacobs was headed south when he made a left turn in to the path of a car driven by Judy Bowersock, 18, of Lisbon R.D. 2. The girl's mother, Mrs. Gladys Bowersock, 53, suffered a bruised arm. She was treated by a local physician.

Nichola Carano, 31, of Campbell escaped injury when his car ran into a ditch on Route 7 about five and a half miles south of Rogers yesterday at 6 a.m.

City Youth Injured In 'Dozing' Accident

A 19-year-old youth was injured slightly early this morning when he dozed at the wheel of his car and it struck a utility pole on St. Clair Ave., police were told.

Clark W. Hager Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Jones, 610 Inez Ave., reported the mishap to police at 4:40 a.m. and then went to City Hospital where he was treated for a forehead laceration and possibly injury of the left arm.

Hager told police he was headed north about 25 miles an hour when he fell asleep and the 1951 hardtop struck the pole, about 75 feet north of the intersection with Gardendale Ave.

The left front of the car was damaged.

A 16-year-old Chester youth told police his car was struck by another at Dresden Ave. and Smith St. late Friday night but in the confusion he was unable to secure the name of the other motorist.

Michael A. Lantz, 556 Indiana Ave., said he was headed south on Dresden when the other car pulled from the traffic lane on the left and hit the left rear fender of his car.

Lantz said he was unaware his car had been struck until he glanced into his rear mirror and saw the unidentified motorist stop. Lantz said he drove around the block and returned to the scene but the motorist had driven away.

Hookstown Services Set

South Side American Legion Post 952 will hold Memorial Day services Tuesday at the post home near Hookstown, followed by a parade and dedication of the Hot Stove League baseball field.

Outdoor services will be held at 11 a. m. at the post home. The parade will include Legionnaires, the South Side High School Band, members of Hot Stove League teams, Boy Scout Troop 496 and fire trucks of Hookstown, Shippingport and Lawrenceville.

The parade will march to the field on 168 between Hookstown and Shippingport. A ball game will follow. Refreshments will be available.

There will be a family coverdish dinner for Legion members and their families in the evening at the post home.

The Legion service will include the call to order by William Cooper, commander; prayer by Charles L. Custer, chaplain; taps by Eugene Vallecorsa, remarks by Cooper, prayer by Custer, a solo by Mrs. Fay Septer, accompanied by Mrs. L. H. Wager.

"Concord Hymn" by Miss Sue Wells, music by the South Side High School Band directed by Howard Howarth, remarks by Mrs. Ruth Trimble, auxiliary president, a solo by Mrs. Septer, "In Flanders Field," by Miss Sandra Leeper and Miss Sandra Doak.

"Gettysburg Address" by Steven Septer, an address by the Rev. H. H. Bish, pastor of the Bethel Methodist Church, remarks by Cooper, a memorial period of silence, "The Star Spangled Banner" by the audience, adjournment by Cooper and benediction by Rev. Bish.

The post's Memorial Day committee includes Steve Belich, Fred Stroud and Frances Doak. Hookstown Police Chief Virgil Septer also assisted in the plans.

Parks

postponement of plans to open Tomlinson Run State Park's outdoor swimming pool today, N. T. Holbrook park superintendent, reported.

The pool along State Route 2 near Pughtown has been filled and the first swimmers were scheduled for a dip at noon today.

Holbrook said opening date of the pool will be Tuesday at noon, although the park is now open for picnickers, boaters and anglers. A youth group from Youngstown will stay at the park this weekend in the group camp cabins.

Holbrook's staff for this summer — if it ever arrives — will include Vincent Monseau of Weirton, chief lifeguard; Robert Koper of Weirton and Tom Hindes of Chester, assistant lifeguards; Charles Miller of Pughtown, and Mildred Virden of New Cumberland, bathhouse attendants, Mrs. Wayne Stouffer, cashier.

At Thompson Park, the pool was filled and ready for the first patron this afternoon.

William Bell, park manager, said "we don't expect any swimmers but it will give the staff some training and we may sell a few hot dogs."

The Lisbon State Highway Patrol reported traffic was growing somewhat heavier this morning with the first surge of holiday travel. Most of the increase was noticed in southbound traffic from the Cleveland and Warren areas.

The Wintersville State Highway Patrol near Steubenville said traffic was about normal. Heavy travel is anticipated Tuesday night.

Pennsylvania State Police at Rochester and Carnegie reported traffic moderate with little if any increase.

Family Wound

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y. (AP)—Patrolman Albert Edwards felt a sharp pain in his leg when he stepped out of the police car. His wife had left a needle in his trousers after sewing up a small rip. The needle broke as he tried to remove it, and he was admitted to Memorial Hospital.

postponement of plans to open Tomlinson Run State Park's outdoor swimming pool today, N. T. Holbrook park superintendent, reported.

The pool along State Route 2 near Pughtown has been filled and the first swimmers were scheduled for a dip at noon today.

Holbrook said opening date of the pool will be Tuesday at noon, although the park is now open for picnickers, boaters and anglers. A youth group from Youngstown will stay at the park this weekend in the group camp cabins.

Holbrook's staff for this summer — if it ever arrives — will include Vincent Monseau of Weirton, chief lifeguard; Robert Koper of Weirton and Tom Hindes of Chester, assistant lifeguards; Charles Miller of Pughtown, and Mildred Virden of New Cumberland, bathhouse attendants, Mrs. Wayne Stouffer, cashier.

At Thompson Park, the pool was filled and ready for the first patron this afternoon.

William Bell, park manager, said "we don't expect any swimmers but it will give the staff some training and we may sell a few hot dogs."

The Lisbon State Highway Patrol reported traffic was growing somewhat heavier this morning with the first surge of holiday travel. Most of the increase was noticed in southbound traffic from the Cleveland and Warren areas.

The Wintersville State Highway Patrol near Steubenville said traffic was about normal. Heavy travel is anticipated Tuesday night.

Pennsylvania State Police at Rochester and Carnegie reported traffic moderate with little if any increase.

Family Wound

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y. (AP)—Patrolman Albert Edwards felt a sharp pain in his leg when he stepped out of the police car. His wife had left a needle in his trousers after sewing up a small rip. The needle broke as he tried to remove it, and he was admitted to Memorial Hospital.

When We Go To The Moon

If President Kennedy knew why some of his countrymen are less than eager to put a man on the moon and bring him back alive, he would know why other parts of his schedule for progress are sticky, too.

When we go to the moon, if that's what we're going to do, it should be solely because we want to do it, not because we are trying to keep up with the Russian Joneskies.

That is equally true of all the other things being proposed in the name of national progress. Keeping up with the Russian Joneskies is not progress unless the Joneskies are going in the same direction.

If all our space experts, scientists, national defenders and other competent authorities had agreed it was the moon or else, that would be the cue for a knucklehead citizenry to shut up and sit down. But these people, themselves, are in wild disagreement about the moon project.

THE TRUTH is their disagreement on the subject is typical of disagreement on just about everything being proposed under the Kennedy progress project. That is why the whole program is turning out to be sticky.

It starts with the wise old heads in the President's Democratic party. Even some of the crustiest loyalists scream with alarm occasionally when some new dimension is added to progress—the way Sen. Fulbright, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee screamed over the Cuban tractors.

Intraparty criticism never comes when it would be damaging, but President Kennedy has been embarrassing his own party stalwarts with a bland assumption that progress is what he says it is and all who say nay are unprogressive.

But the argument that the United States must do thus and so because the Russians have done it or are said to be getting ready to do it is threadbare.

Americans would prefer to be told, for a change, that they should do thus and so because it would be good for the United States.

DECISION-MAKERS in the Kremlin never tell their comrades that the Soviet Union had better start hustling more groceries because that's the way it's done in the United States. Russians take the decision-makers' word for it that whatever they think is best. That is the prime weakness of the Soviet system.

As Americans, we are open to conviction about sending a man to the moon. But we have to be convinced, just as we have to be convinced about the newest schemes to make farmers happy and the newest schemes to make the National Educational Association happy.

This is deliberative government. Political scientists like it, but it is a great nuisance to people impatient with deliberation. Among these are people who seem to believe in government by reaction—wait for the Soviet Union, then try to catch up.

When we go to the moon, let's go because it's our idea, not the idea of someone in the Kremlin or someone guessing what the Kremlinites will think of next to conceal from their comrades that their life on earth is so bad they might as well be living on the moon.

Ransom, Thy Name Is Tractors

It is a fair question, or will be sometime, to ask why Fidel Castro asked for tractors as ransom payment for invasion prisoners. He could have asked for food, which Cubans need. He could have asked for heavy machinery. Why tractors?

Pending an answer from Walter Reuther, president of United Automobile, Aircraft and Agricultural Implement Workers of America (UAW), or from Mrs. Roosevelt, Dr. Milton Eisenhower, Premier Castro, or someone else who might know, many of us are fascinated by the turn of events in this issue.

At first, there was no issue. Everybody thought the invasion prisioners should be ransomed. But a few days later a vigorous issue had been joined and what had been regarded as a reasonable assumption didn't seem reasonable any more. Three things were wrong.

First, it was not reasonable to believe Castro would give up his prisoners under any circumstances. He would negotiate about them in the hope of winning certain advantages, then wind up the negotiations in a burst of recriminations against the United States and execute the prisoners anyway.

Second, it was not reasonable that Americans should pay ransom to Castro's government lest they lay down a precedent for all kinds of ransom proposals in the future. The Reuther-Roosevelt-Eisenhower committee—Tractors for Freedom Committee—was a quasi-public organization with White House sanction. The precedent would be strong.

Third, it was evident that by making Castro choose between executing 1,200 of his own countrymen who had tried to topple his government and letting them live his American critics had him bent over a barrel. He would lose either way. If the prisoners lived, they would be alive to attack him again someday, and if they were executed they would be martyrs to his brutalitarian rule.

But by far the greatest thing wrong with trading tractors for Cuban prisoners was the fact it was ransom. It was appeasement. And from Castro's point of view it was a form of acknowledgment that he was in a position to think appeasement would look attractive. On closer examination, it looked as ugly as Castroism itself has been looking since it adopted the hammer and sickle as its emblem.

The Looking Glass

It takes an outsider to paint a true picture of a city's or a nation's character.

Mr. F. Lewis Alder of Chester, whose British background enabled him to view America objectively upon his arrival here, related to the Kiwanis Club this week some of the aspects of our way of life which amused, pleased or dismayed him.

There are many area men and women who, as tourists or servicemen, had similar surprise reactions when visiting Great Britain. Remember the cold rooms, the damp weather, the bad roads, the warm beer, the richly green countryside, the atmosphere of history that seemed to touch almost everything?

Fresh and sincere viewpoints of America, such as Mr. Alder's, are always welcome.

No One Ever In Doubt

Only a remote possibility exists that Ohio's flag is going to be changed, despite a proposal in the General Assembly to do so. Legislators are hearing no clamor for a change of design, and they know if they moved in that direction they would hear a clamor to keep their meddlesome hands off the flag now in use.

It made its first appearance in 1901 on the Ohio building of the Pan-American Exposition at Buffalo, though it was not legally recognized until the following year.

The undisputed fact that most Ohioans are not familiar with it would be true of any state flag. But in the instance of Ohio's flag, there is a more important undisputed fact. Those who are familiar with the Ohio flag never have to look twice to know what it is. Its forked pennant design, the white circle and 17 stars signifying that Ohio was the 17th state to enter the Union and the three red and two white stripes have no counterpart. Ohio's flag is unique.

Other state flags may be better suited for hanging on walls, but no other flag, except Old Glory, makes a braver sight atop a mast, whipping in the wind and gleaming in the sun. There is no more reason to think about changing it than to think about changing the name of the state.

The Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

'It took a horse only a few minutes longer than a taxi to get across town in New York the other day. But a dog team or guy on a pogo stick can beat 'em both. Getting through a Gotham street from river to river is not a trip, it is a combination saga, safari and experiment in psychiatry.

No man should attempt it unaccompanied by a physician, a nurse, touring philosopher and at least two good books. (One will not be an ample test. Even "Gone With the Wind" can be finished before journey is half over.)

Natives in right mind do not attempt the feat. It is largely tried by visitors, to whom these suggestions are made:

1. Before starting across town leave a letter to nearest relative and send some identification data to Missing Persons Bureau. It will be helpful to have party of friends gather and wish you bon voyage. Two extra dry martinis will establish courageous mood but six are recommended for complete trip.

2. Negotiating the first block, rehearse yourself in patience. Get rid of idea laws against huge trucks blocking street mean a thing. Don't try to leave taxi, crawl under truck and sneak into taxi ahead. It only adds to choas.

3. Do your swearing in second block to get profanity out of system. As you enter third block you can be sure you will have time to shave, change clothes, recite Declaration of Independence and read last six presidential messages on State of Union.

4. Approaching fourth block you must be ready to boost spirits through song. Sing along with choas.

You should have a song sheet with crosstown traffic theme song "It May Be For Years And It May Be Forever."

Other appropriate numbers are "In Sweet Bye and Bye," "Roaming in the Gloaming," "Leave a Light in the Window Tonight," "With a Little Bit of Luck," and "The First Hundred Hours Are the Hardest."

5. Equipment. One oxygen tank, a keg of tranquilizers and two cases of beer. Pemmican will help. If you start crosstown trip in spring, carry winter clothing to be on safe side.

KHRUSHCHEV took U.S. ambassador to Vienna ice show preceding discussion of presidential conference. It set the mood, no doubt.

Drivers Courtesy Week is latest highway special and if any courtesy is observed a great many autoists will cause accidents through sheer amazement.

It is denied that Mrs. Kennedy gave President a four-hole golf course for birthday. But if JFK has been practicing his backswing around the house the First Lady could be excused for such a gift as a safety measure.

The Power Of Faith

by Howard Brodie

"By this shall all men know that ye are my disciples, if ye have love one to another."

Southern ladies inspired Memorial Day when they strewed flowers on the graves of both Union and Confederate dead in 1863, easing the bitterness of the Civil War. Northerners at first glorified Union victory, but their hearts mellowed: "The thought could not but come to us that there were graves lying southward above which bent a grief as tender and sacred as our own. Invisibly we dropped unseen flowers upon these mounds," said Thomas Aldrich. The ceremonies at Gettysburg became a celebration of unity: "The Union has become not merely a physical union of States," Herbert Hoover once said, "but rather a spiritual union in common ideals of our people." Franklin D. Roosevelt said, "It was an inspired prophet of the South who said: 'My brethren, if we know one another, we will love one another' . . . We are all brothers now in a new understanding."

'Negro Movement Killed By Castro'

By Victor Riesel

It came swiftly from the Soviet administered Cuba Radio Mambi. It came, as you would expect, from those who broadcast to Latin America such descriptions of President John Kennedy as "the emperor himself. . . . Illiterate the First . . . a solemn liar . . . that little scoundrel. . . ." and "throw the Kennedys . . . into the sea."

Victor Riesel

The broadcasts from Havana, approved by a Russian "interventor," said baldly that the "Ku Klux Klan is no more, no less, than a department of the U.S. government, such as the U.S. State Department, for instance."

Everywhere across the world the troubled air is filled with Communist contrived venom being poured into our self-inflicted wounds. But Castro and the Caribbean section of the international Communist movement which controls him are the last and least of those who can be gleeful over our self-torture.

The Fidelistas, guided by the Soviets, have destroyed the status and organizational life of the Cuban Negroes — and demeaned them in the effacement.

THIS REPORT comes from none other than Juan Rene Betancourt. It was this learned counsel and author who was appointed "interventor" — authoritative director — of the Federation of Negro Societies in Cuba, in the early hours of the Castro "revolution."

There were 356 Negro workers' and social groups then. Mr. Betancourt was to reorganize the regional federations. He was to call a national convention of Negro societies so they could be reactivated after the disruption of the fall of one government and the coming of new power.

But Betancourt was — and is —anti-Communist. Soon he discovered what this could mean where there is a disciplined set of cadres operating from a central headquarters amid the chaos of a people attempting to readjust itself.

He began reorganizing Negro groups in the province of Pinar del Rio. There he had found 27 societies. Only four were controlled by Communist party members. Yet they so disrupted him that he had to call thrice for a convention.

THE COMMUNISTS first charged he had no authority to summon a parley. After he outmaneuvered them in those early days they warned they would appear with armed gangs. He planted his own guards at the doors.

He prevented the Communists from showing up with either guns or credentials from non-existent Negro groups.

They are predictable, those Communists, and the pattern was repeated in other provinces. But eventually Betancourt did reorganize.

It was still too early for the Soviet cadres to shoot down the opposition. So the Communist press and radio assaulted him.

Finally they flatly announced, after he had visited Castro, that he had turned in his resignation. Actually he had simply gone to report.

THEN THE PARTY moved in after they had resigned for him. They kept the headquarters of the National Federation of Negro Societies operating for some three months.

"Then," said Betancourt, "they distributed the furniture among themselves and abolished the local (in Pinar del Rio). Provincial Federations (of Negro groups) had no better luck. They have all disappeared."

They disappeared as the Communists took over the government itself. The Negro societies no longer were permitted an income. In earlier days they received funds from the government.

In these latter days, the societies found that, instead of receiving money from Havana, they had to contribute to Havana's support.

THE NEGROES now, for example, must, under special directives, even run public dances every Saturday and Sunday. The proceeds at first went to the agrarian reform institute.

But "more recently," the dance money has had to go for "arms, planes and industrialization."

Not only have the Negro workers' and social societies been strangled — their leaders no longer have any status. There are none in any government posts as in the past. "The Cuban Negro," says Betancourt, "is today further removed than ever from the government payroll."

While Castro was wiping out the organized Negro societies and status of individual leaders, he was boasting during his United Nations tour de farce in New York that Cuba was a "terrestrial paradise."

In that Castro paradise no Negro now owns a hotel, a business, a store or commercial enterprise of any kind. Of the 156 Negro societies, virtually all are gone.

"One can truthfully say," says Betancourt, "and this is without the slightest exaggeration, that the Negro movement in Cuba died at the hands of Sr. Fidel Castro."

Nuclear Test Ban

By Raymond Moley

The efforts of well-meaning people to stop nuclear testing have agitated British party controversies and our own government for years.

The result was a so-called agreement to halt tests for an indefinite time. But so far as Russia is concerned, the agreement to stop the tests is worth nothing, and the fear about the tests has been greatly overstressed.

In our well-meaning efforts we have lost a vital advantage.

President Eisenhower probably agreed to the mutual agreement to ban tests because he hoped thereby to usher in a real disarmament program.

President Kennedy has followed the same pattern of wishful thinking and has sent Arthur H. Dean to Geneva in the same forlorn hope.

Some very interesting advice has been made public recently in Chicago, in statments by one of our most competent experts in the field, Francis B. Porzel of the Armour Research Foundation of the Illinois Institute of Technology.

So far as the alarm over the danger of fallout is concerned and the impossibility of detecting cheating by the Soviet, Mr. Porzel repeats what he said at Geneva three years ago:

"The fallout from all testing to date is 10,000 times too small to produce a detectable change in the human body. Fallout radiation is only one per cent of the natural background radiation — the radiation that we are bombarded by all of our lives."

HE NOTES further that he, himself, probably absorbed far more roentgens of radiation during monthly physical tests, from chest X-rays, while working some years ago at Los Almaos than he did working on the site with atomic bomb explosions.

Moreover, he makes clear that an agreement with the Soviet to stop tests is absolutely meaningless. Mr. Porzel pointed out at Geneva in 1958 that he could completely contain a one or two kiloton nuclear explosion in a steel ball 50 feet in diameter with walls only three inches thick, filled with graphite and soot. An explosion in such a container inside a building would not be noticed by people on the sidewalk outside. Nor would scientists in the community who might be watching for the explosion be aware of it.

Thus, we are unable to know whether the Russians are or have been carrying on secret testing, despite the Soviet government's promise to cease.

Test Of Consistency

By David Lawrence

School Practices May Violate Religion Stand

The Kennedy administration now faces the acid test of consistency with respect to its announced willingness to go to the courts to assure civil rights for all citizens irrespective of race or creed or color.

David Lawrence

For, if it is unconstitutional, as President Kennedy has stated, to give federal funds to elementary and secondary schools where religion is taught, then the latest piece of evidence which shows what is happening in a large number of public schools presents a challenge to the Department of Justice.

In the May-June issue of "Religious Education," the official publication of the Religious Education Association — an organization in which all creeds are represented — there has just appeared the results of a survey conducted by R. B. Dierenfield, associate professor of education at Macalester College, St. Paul, Minn.

His article, entitled "The Extent of Religious Influence in American Public Schools," is based on the answers to a questionnaire recently sent to 4,000 public-school superintendents in all parts of the country. Some of the questions and replies are as follows:

Q. Are Gideon Bibles distributed in your school system? Results: 42.74 per cent yes; 57-26 per cent no.

Q. Are baccalaureate services conducted in connection with high school graduation? Results: 86.84 per cent yes; 13.16 per cent no.

Q. Are homeroom devotional services held in the schools of your system? Results: 33.16 per cent yes (all schools in the system); 17.06 per cent yes (some schools in the system); 49.76 per cent no.

Q. Is Bible reading conducted in the schools of your system? Results: 41.74 per cent yes; 58.26 per cent no.

Q. Are religious holidays observed by any kind of activities in the schools of your system: Results: Christmas 87.92 per cent; Easter 57.92 per cent; Thanksgiving 76.75 per cent; others 8.04 per cent.

Q. In your school system are any public school classes held in church buildings: Results: 7.76 per cent yes; 92.24 per cent no.

Q. Are there any members of religious orders teaching in the public schools of your system: Results: 5.7 per cent yes; 94.4 per cent no.

SEVERAL QUESTIONS were asked as to how far teaching about religion should go, and the author's summary reads in part as follows:

"Many of the practices which are employed by school systems to deal with religious influence might be called into question in the light of legal decisions on the subject.

"The American public school cannot be charged with being a godless institution. Religious influence does exist in the schools in varying kinds and amounts, depending on the section of the country and size of community. This report has covered only the highlights of information gathered by the survey. It does provide facts and figures to replace surmise and uncertainty about what public school systems do in handling religious influence."

The survey also indicates that religious influence in public schools plays a larger part in predominantly Protestant sections of the country.

The subject is pertinent today because, in the pending bills before Congress to render federal aid to education, the administration seems to think it's all right to provide government funds for colleges and universities, even though sectarian, but not to such schools at the elementary and high school level.

A FEW DAYS AGO the Supreme Court of the United States added to the puzzlement on the subject by declining to review a Vermont case in which, although a 1915 state law provides that, where there is no public high school in the district, tuition grants shall be furnished for attendance at schools "to be selected by the parents or guardians of the pupil" — and that these tuition payments may be made directly to the school or to the parents — the state court held that such payments to parochial schools is in violation of the federal constitution.

It is now believed that the Supreme Court of the United States failed to rule on the case primarily because of the lack of explicitness in the issues.

If, for instance, the grants had been made to the parents instead of being paid directly to the schools, it is believed the case might have been taken for review by the Supreme Court.

Someday another issue may be raised. It is whether the personal constitutional rights of children attending private schools and of their parents are being infringed. Prof. Francis J. Brown of De Paul University in Chicago writes:

"If there is one thing that the First Amendment was intended to prevent, it is the imposition by the federal government of a civil disability in matters of religious conscience.

"Can there be any doubt that this is precisely what the administration is guilty of in offering educational funds only under conditions repugnant to the individual conscience of millions of the citizenry?"

THE CHILDREN of all faiths, it is argued, have the "personal constitutional right to equal protection of the laws" and their parents — not necessarily the institutions — cannot be denied federal aid just because of religious convictions.

Certainly, whether federal aid is or is not desirable is one issue, but, once a decision has been reached to grant it, can a constitutional distinction be made between parochial schools at one level and sectarian schools at another level?

Can any public schools be given federal aid where any religious observances or teachings now are actually being carried on? This is the question confronting the Department of Justice.

Through The Years

Stone Age?

Despite rockets and atomic power, the human race has not fully emerged from the Stone Age.

In the wilds of Netherlands New Guinea, there are people who have never seen a metal implement. They chip their tools from stone as did the ancestors of Europeans thousands of years ago.

Some New Guineans fight with spears, wear little or no clothing and regard head-hunting as an honorable duty. They sell women in marriage, accepting stone axes or beads in return. Many New Guinea tribesmen have never seen a foreigner and believe airplanes passing overhead are great spirits.

The Dutch government is trying to introduce self - rule to the people of Netherlands New Guinea, the western part of the world's largest island after Greenland. Recently the first elected legislative council was inaugurated at the capital, Hollandia.

Queen Juliana of the Netherlands hailed the ceremony as "the first step on the road that leads to the exercise of the right of self - determination." She added: "May this road prove to be a short one."

No One Ever In Doubt

Only a remote possibility exists that Ohio's flag is going to be changed, despite a proposal in the General Assembly to do so. Legislators are hearing no clamor for a change of design, and they know if they moved in that direction they would hear a clamor to keep their meddlesome hands off the flag now in use.

It made its first appearance in 1901 on the Ohio building of the Pan-American Exposition at Buffalo, though it was not legally recognized until the following year.

The undisputed fact that most Ohioans are not familiar with it would be true of any state flag. But in the instance of Ohio's flag, there is a more important undisputed fact. Those who are familiar with the Ohio flag never have to look twice to know what it is. Its forked pennant design, the white circle and 17 stars signifying that Ohio was the 17th state to enter the Union and the three red and two white stripes have no counterpart. Ohio's flag is unique.

Other state flags may be better suited for hanging on walls, but no other flag, except Old Glory, makes a braver sight atop a mast, whipping in the wind and gleaming in the sun. There is no more reason to think about changing it than to think about changing the name of the state.

The Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

It took a horse only a few minutes longer than a taxi to get across town in New York the other day. But a dog team or guy on a pogo stick can beat 'em both. Getting through a Gotham street from river to river is not a trip, it is a combination saga, safari and experiment in psychiatry.

No man should attempt it unaccompanied by a physician, a nurse, touring philosopher and at least two good books. (One will not be an ample test. Even "Gone With the Wind" can be finished before journey is half over.)

Natives in right mind do not attempt the feat. It is largely tried by visitors, to whom these suggestions are made:

1. Before starting across town leave a letter to nearest relative and send some identification data to Missing Persons Bureau. It will be helpful to have party of friends gather and wish you bon voyage. Two extra dry martinis will establish courageous mood but six are recommended for complete trip.

2. Negotiating the first block, rehearse yourself in patience. Get rid of idea laws against huge trucks blocking street mean a thing. Don't try to leave taxi, crawl under truck and sneak into taxi ahead. It only adds to choas.

3. Do your swearing in second block to get profanity out of system. As you enter third block you can be sure you will have time to shave, change clothes, recite Declaration of Independence and read last six presidential messages on State of Union.

4. Approaching fourth block you must be ready to boost spirits through song. Sing along with choas.

You should have a song sheet with crosstown traffic theme song "It May Be For Years And It May Be Forever."

Other appropriate numbers are "In Sweet Bye and Bye," "Roaming in the Gloaming," "Leave a Light in the Window Tonight," "With a Little Bit of Luck," and "The First Hundred Hours Are the Hardest."

5. Equipment. One oxygen tank, a keg of tranquilizers and two cases of beer. Pemmican will help. If you start crosstown trip in spring, carry winter clothing to be on safe side.

KHRUSHCHEV took U.S. ambassador to Vienna ice show preceding discussion of presidential conference. It set the mood, no doubt.

Drivers Courtesy Week is latest highway special and if any courtesy is observed a great many autoists will cause accidents through sheer amazement.

It is denied that Mrs. Kennedy gave President a four-hole golf course for birthday. But if JFK has been practicing his backswing around the house the First Lady could be excused for such a gift as a safety measure.

The Power Of Faith

by Howard Brodie

"By this shall all men know that ye are my disciples, if ye have love one to another."

Southern ladies inspired Memorial Day when they strewed flowers on the graves of both Union and Confederate dead in 1863, easing the bitterness of the Civil War. Northerners at first glorified Union victory, but their hearts mellowed: "The thought could not but come to us that there were graves lying southward above which bent a grief as tender and sacred as our own. Invisibly we dropped unseen flowers upon these mounds," said Thomas Aldrich. The ceremonies at Gettysburg became a celebration of unity: "The Union has become not merely a physical union of States," Herbert Hoover once said, "but rather a spiritual union in common ideals of our people." Franklin D. Roosevelt said, "It was an inspired prophet of the South who said: 'My brethren, if we know one another, we will love one another' . . . We are all brothers now in a new understanding."

'Negro Movement Killed By Castro'

By Victor Riesel

It came swiftly from the Soviet administered Cuba Radio Mambi. It came, as you would expect, from those who broadcast to Latin America such descriptions of President John Kennedy as "the emperor himself. . . . Illiterate the First . . . a solemn liar . . . that little scoundrel. . . ." and "throw the Kennedys . . . into the sea."

Victor Riesel

The broadcasts from Havana, approved by a Russian "interventor," said baldly that the "Ku Klux Klan is no more, no less, than a department of the U.S. government, such as the U.S. State Department, for instance."

Everywhere across the world the troubled air is filled with Communist contrived venom being poured into our self-inflicted wounds. But Castro and the Caribbean section of the international Communist movement which controls him are the last and least of those who can be gleeful over our self-torture.

The Fidelistas, guided by the Soviets, have destroyed the status and organizational life of the Cuban Negroes — and demeaned them in the effacement.

THIS REPORT comes from none other than Juan Rene Betancourt. It was this learned counsel and author who was appointed "interventor" — authoritative director — of the Federation of Negro Societies in Cuba, in the early hours of the Castro "revolution."

There were 356 Negro workers' and social groups then. Mr. Betancourt was to reorganize the regional federations. He was to call a national convention of Negro societies so they could be reactivated after the disruption of the fall of one government and the coming of new power.

But Betancourt was — and is —anti-Communist. Soon he discovered what this could mean where there is a disciplined set of cadres operating from a central headquarters amid the chaos of a people attempting to readjust itself.

He began reorganizing Negro groups in the province of Pinar del Rio. There he had found 27 societies. Only four were controlled by Communist party members. Yet they so disrupted him that he had to call thrice for a convention.

THE COMMUNISTS first charged he had no authority to summon a parley. After he outmaneuvered them in those early days they warned they would appear with armed gangs. He planted his own guards at the doors.

He prevented the Communists from showing up with either guns or credentials from non-existent Negro groups.

They are predictable, those Communists, and the pattern was repeated in other provinces. But eventually Betancourt did reorganize.

It was still too early for the Soviet cadres to shoot down the opposition. So the Communist press and radio assaulted him.

Finally they flatly announced, after he had visited Castro, that he had turned in his resignation. Actually he had simply gone to report.

THEN THE PARTY moved in after they had resigned for him. They kept the headquarters of the National Federation of Negro Societies operating for some three months.

"Then," said Betancourt, "they distributed the furniture among themselves and abolished the local (in Pinar del Rio). Provincial Federations (of Negro groups) had no better luck. They have all disappeared."

They disappeared as the Communists took over the government itself. The Negro societies no longer were permitted an income. In earlier days they received funds from the government.

In these latter days, the societies found that, instead of receiving money from Havana, they had to contribute to Havana's support.

THE NEGROES now, for example, must, under special directives, even run public dances every Saturday and Sunday. The proceeds at first went to the agrarian reform institute.

But "more recently," the dance money has had to go for "arms, planes and industrialization."

Not only have the Negro workers' and social societies been strangled — their leaders no longer have any status. There are none in any government posts as in the past. "The Cuban Negro," says Betancourt, "is today further removed than ever from the government payroll."

While Castro was wiping out the organized Negro societies and status of individual leaders, he was boasting during his United Nations tour de farce in New York that Cuba was a "terrestrial paradise."

In that Castro paradise no Negro now owns a hotel, a business, a store or commercial enterprise of any kind. Of the 156 Negro societies, virtually all are gone.

"One can truthfully say," says Betancourt, "and this is without the slightest exaggeration, that the Negro movement in Cuba died at the hands of Sr. Fidel Castro."

Nuclear Test Ban

By Raymond Moley

The efforts of well-meaning people to stop nuclear testing have agitated British party controversies and our own government for years.

The result was a so-called agreement to halt tests for an indefinite time. But so far as Russia is concerned, the agreement to stop the tests is worth nothing, and the fear about the tests has been greatly overstressed.

In our well-meaning efforts we have lost a vital advantage.

President Eisenhower probably agreed to the mutual agreement to ban tests because he hoped thereby to usher in a real disarmament program.

President Kennedy has followed the same pattern of wishful thinking and has sent Arthur H. Dean to Geneva in the same forlorn hope.

Some very interesting advice has been made public recently in Chicago, in statments by one of our most competent experts in the field, Francis B. Porzel of the Armour Research Foundation of the Illinois Institute of Technology.

So far as the alarm over the danger of fallout is concerned and the impossibility of detecting cheating by the Soviet, Mr. Porzel repeats what he said at Geneva three years ago:

"The fallout from all testing to date is 10,000 times too small to produce a detectable change in the human body. Fallout radiation is only one per cent of the natural background radiation — the radiation that we are bombarded by all of our lives."

HE NOTES further that he, himself, probably absorbed far more roentgens of radiation during monthly physical tests, from chest X-rays, while working some years ago at Los Almaos than he did working on the site with atomic bomb explosions.

Moreover, he makes clear that an agreement with the Soviet to stop tests is absolutely meaningless. Mr. Porzel pointed out at Geneva in 1958 that he could completely contain a one or two kiloton nuclear explosion in a steel ball 50 feet in diameter with walls only three inches thick, filled with graphite and soot. An explosion in such a container inside a building would not be noticed by people on the sidewalk outside. Nor would scientists in the community who might be watching for the explosion be aware of it.

Thus, we are unable to know whether the Russians are or have been carrying on secret testing, despite the Soviet government's promise to cease.

Test Of Consistency

By David Lawrence

School Practices May Violate Religion Stand

The Kennedy administration now faces the acid test of consistency with respect to its announced willingness to go to the courts to assure civil rights for all citizens irrespective of race or creed or color.

David Lawrence

For, if it is unconstitutional, as President Kennedy has stated, to give federal funds to elementary and secondary schools where religion is taught, then the latest piece of evidence which shows what is happening in a large number of public schools presents a challenge to the Department of Justice.

In the May-June issue of "Religious Education," the official publication of the Religious Education Association — an organization in which all creeds are represented — there has just appeared the results of a survey conducted by R. B. Dierenfield, associate professor of education at Macalester College, St. Paul, Minn.

His article, entitled "The Extent of Religious Influence in American Public Schools," is based on the answers to a questionnaire recently sent to 4,000 public-school superintendents in all parts of the country. Some of the questions and replies are as follows:

Q. Are Gideon Bibles distributed in your school system? Results: 42.74 per cent yes; 57.26 per cent no.

Q. Are baccalaureate services conducted in connection with high school graduation? Results: 86.84 per cent yes; 13.16 per cent no.

Q. Are homeroom devotional services held in the schools of your system? Results: 33.16 per cent yes (all schools in the system); 17.06 per cent yes (some schools in the system); 49.76 per cent no.

Q. Is Bible reading conducted in the schools of your system? Results: 41.74 per cent yes; 58.26 per cent no.

Q. Are religious holidays observed by any kind of activities in the schools of your system: Results: Christmas 87.92 per cent; Easter 57.92 per cent; Thanksgiving 76.75 per cent; others 8.04 per cent.

Q. In your school system are any public school classes held in church buildings: Results: 7.76 per cent yes; 92.24 per cent no.

Q. Are there any members of religious orders teaching in the public schools of your system: Results: 5.7 per cent yes; 94.4 per cent no.

SEVERAL QUESTIONS were asked as to how far teaching about religion should go, and the author's summary reads in part as follows:

"Many of the practices which are employed by school systems to deal with religious influence might be called into question in the light of legal decisions on the subject.

"The American public school cannot be charged with being a godless institution. Religious influence does exist in the schools in varying kinds and amounts, depending on the section of the country and size of community. This report has covered only the highlights of information gathered by the survey. It does provide facts and figures to replace surmise and uncertainty about what public school systems do in handling religious influence."

The survey also indicates that religious influence in public schools plays a larger part in predominantly Protestant sections of the country.

The subject is pertinent today because, in the pending bills before Congress to render federal aid to education, the administration seems to think it's all right to provide government funds for colleges and universities, even though sectarian, but not to such schools at the elementary and high school level.

A FEW DAYS AGO the Supreme Court of the United States added to the puzzlement on the subject by declining to review a Vermont case in which, although a 1915 state law provides that, where there is no public high school in the district, tuition grants shall be furnished for attendance at schools "to be selected by the parents or guardians of the pupil" — and that these tuition payments may be made directly to the school or to the parents — the state court held that such payments to parochial schools is in violation of the federal constitution.

It is now believed that the Supreme Court of the United States failed to rule on the case primarily because of the lack of explicitness in the issues.

If, for instance, the grants had been made to the parents instead of being paid directly to the schools, it is believed the case might have been taken for review by the Supreme Court.

Someday another issue may be raised. It is whether the personal constitutional rights of children attending private schools and of their parents are being infringed. Prof. Francis J. Brown of De Paul University in Chicago writes:

"If there is one thing that the First Amendment was intended to prevent, it is the imposition by the federal government of a civil disability in matters of religious conscience.

"Can there be any doubt that this is precisely what the administration is guilty of in offering educational funds only under conditions repugnant to the individual conscience of millions of the citizenry?"

THE CHILDREN of all faiths, it is argued, have the "personal constitutional right to equal protection of the laws" and their parents — not necessarily the institutions — cannot be denied federal aid just because of religious convictions.

Certainly, whether federal aid is or is not desirable is one issue, but, once a decision has been reached to grant it, can a constitutional distinction be made between parochial schools at one level and sectarian schools at another level?

Can any public schools be given federal aid where any religious observances or teachings now are actually being carried on? This is the question confronting the Department of Justice.

Stone Age?

Despite rockets and atomic power, the human race has not fully emerged from the Stone Age.

In the wilds of Netherlands New Guinea, there are people who have never seen a metal implement. They chip their tools from stone as did the ancestors of Europeans thousands of years ago.

Some New Guineans fight with spears, wear little or no clothing and regard head-hunting as an honorable duty. They sell women in marriage, accepting stone axes or beads in return. Many New Guinea tribesmen have never seen a foreigner and believe airplanes passing overhead are great spirits.

The Dutch government is trying to introduce self-rule to the people of Netherlands New Guinea, the western part of the world's largest island after Greenland. Recently the first elected legislative council was inaugurated at the capital, Hollandia.

Queen Juliana of the Netherlands hailed the ceremony as "the first step on the road that leads to the exercise of the right of self-determination." She added: "May this road prove to be a short one."

Lions Hear UOVDC Aide

County Destined Last In Planning

Although it may need it the most, Columbiana County apparently is going to be the last of four Ohio counties in the Upper Ohio Development Council area to launch a regional or county planning commission, Walter Meyers, executive manager of the UOVDC, told the Lions Club Friday afternoon at the Travelers Hotel.

Meyers reviewed the activities of the UOVDC, particularly in the period between 1956 and 1960, explaining the six-county organization has aided in formation of the Jefferson County Regional Planning Commission.

THE COMMISSION will be launched formally next month with its first project a study of sewage problems, he said.

When regional planning first was discussed, Meyers said he believed Columbiana County would be the first to start a commission, pointing out it may be needed the most here because the county showed the biggest population growth in the 1960 census.

"I'm almost willing to bet that Belmont County will be the next with a planning organization, and Harrison County should be in the formative stage soon," he commented.

Regional or countywide planning is needed because of the major problems existing outside the cities. Planning is needed to provide for orderly growth and provide for adequate sewage, street and water facilities, Meyers declared.

IN CURRENT activities, the UOVDC has been working for the past two years to make a study of wood lots in rural areas so that an organization can be set up to aid owners in market and product knowledge. The organization probably will be launched early next year, Meyers said.

It also is co-operating with the Ford Foundation and Bethany College to carry out a community leadership development program, and also is working with Bethany College to analyze the need for technical and trade schools in the region.

Meyers pointed out that 31 new industries either established plants or acquired land for new facilities in the period between 1956 and 1960, while 41 major existing industries either expanded or modernized their facilities.

The new plants provided 3,000 in-plant jobs and with more now employed in service industries than in manufacturing an additional 6,000 jobs have resulted in other fields, he pointed out.

IN THE SAME period, 10 companies have either relocated or ceased operation with between 450 and 800 jobs lost, Meyers said.

The basic industries in the six-county area were coal, steel and clay but now there has been some diversification which will help stabilize the population and economy of the region, he pointed out.

Because there are not to many key sites remaining for industrial development ("there's lots of land but not all of it is suitable"), the next factor should be opening the region by modern highways.

Highways are needed not merely for travel but to help bolster and hold the region's economy, Meyers said, explaining that studies show many workers commute 25 or 30 miles daily to their jobs.

MEYERS POINTED out the development council was formed following the 1950 census when business and industrial leaders realized there would be a serious decline in the existing basic industries if the population migration continued.

The 1960 census indicates the region is holding its own from a population standpoint with Columbiana, Jefferson, Hancock and Brooke counties showing gains and Belmont and Harrison counties declining.

The area now has stability after a period of 25 or 30 years without any new industries and then a period when there was a decline in the existing basic industries.

HE DISTRIBUTED circulars listing some of the UOVDC's tangible accomplishments since its formation.

Meyers was introduced by E. R. Chandler, secretary - manager of the Chamber of Commerce, who also distributed brochures prepared by the Lake Erie-Ohio River Highway Association pointing up the freeway between East Liverpool and Ashtabula "is the road Ohio needs most of all."

Don Baxter was program chairman. Howard E. Tice, president, presided.

Dave Garroway Quits TV Program 'Today'

NEW YORK (AP)—Dave Garroway, 48, has resigned from his early morning NBC television program, "Today."

Garroway, who headed the two-hour show since it began in January 1952, said Friday he wants to leave Oct. 31, when his contract expires, or earlier if possible.

He has been with NBC for 23 years.

Garroway's wife, Pamela, died last April 28 of an overdose of sleeping pills, leaving him with his daughter, Paris, 17, by a previous marriage, and her son, Michael, 13, by a previous marriage, and their son, David Cunningham Garroway Jr., 3.

Now that his wife is gone, Garroway said, "I feel I must become a better man. I want to be the best father I can. Our family needs each other now more than ever."

Kennedy To Sign Bill Aiding Latin America

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy will sign a $500 million appropriation bill today to start his "alliance for progress" plan for Latin America.

The bill also sets aside $100 million to help Chile rebuild from its 1960 earthquakes.

Kennedy says the $500 million will help with social improvement in Latin America and lead to what be called "a decade of democratic progress."

The bulk of the $500 million is expected to be pledged for loans within the next few weeks or months. Over 200 loan requests—for land reform, housing, water supply and roads—already have been submitted.

State Requests Bids On Guardrail Painting

The State Highway Department will open bids June 27 at Columbus for painting guardrails along several routes in a five-county area.

The project, to be let as one contract, includes State Routes 7 and 45 in Columbiana County. Other roads are in Belmont, Harrison, Jefferson and Tuscarawas Counties.

Auto Dealer Cited On Title

LISBON — A charge of making a false statement in obtaining a duplicate car title was filed Thursday afternoon by County Prosecutor G. William Brokaw against Robert Grove of East Palestine, official of the Valley Motor Sales Co.

Grove of Neely Manor is president of the auto agency which filed an assignment action in Probate Court Thursday in connection with heavy financial liabilities.

The title charge was filed with County Judge James MacDonald by the prosecutor, who said Grove is charged with fraudulently obtaining a duplicate car title.

Grove gave a signed statement to the prosecutor in a conference Thursday at the Courthouse.

Grove at one time was an employe of the Union Commercial Bank.

The charge states that Grove obtained a legal Ohio title on a 1961 auto from an Elwood City firm, then received a $4,000 loan from the First National Bank of East Palestine which apparently did not file a lien notice on the auto.

Grove two days later obtained a duplicate title from the Clerk of Courts title division, claiming the original title had been lost. Using this title, he obtained another loan on the same auto from the Union Banking Co. of Columbiana, which placed a lien on the auto, the charge states.

Atty. D. Barry Dickson, counsel for the auto agency, has been granted authority to handle the firm's assets — estimated at $100,000 — for distribution toward settlement of some $200,000 debts.

Area banks and loan companies which have provided loans on "floor plans" for autos at the firm, have been checking accounts since early this month when irregularities in car titles were revealed, authorities said.

A city bank sent several original titles to the title department at the Courthouse to have liens recorded, and learned that duplicate titles had been issued, with liens recorded on the duplicates, officials said.

One bank attorney said he had never before encountered anything so complicated.

Surprise Indictment In Ratterman Case

NEWPORT, Ky. (AP)—A surprise indictment faces Thomas J. Paisley, Medina, Ohio businessman accused of conspiring with Tito Carinci of Newport to bring about the arrest of George Ratterman in a police vice raid that ended in a sensational trial and dismissal of the charges.

The indictment against Paisley and Carinci came Friday night by the grand jury which charged them with plotting to drug Ratterman and bring about his arrest in a hotel with a strip tease dancer.

He was arrested May 9 in this city notorious for its gambling houses.

Ratterman is a candidate for sheriff, backed by a reform movement pledged to rid Campbell County of gambling and vice.

Awards Presented To Hookstown Cubs

Several awards were presented at a meeting of Hookstown Cub Scout Pack 496 Friday evening at the Mill Creek Presbyterian Church with Joseph Mercer, cubmaster, in charge.

Receiving awards were Karl Karnes, one-year pin; Raymond Scott, Larry Berger, Charles Green and Richard Chambers, wolf badges; Richard Chambers, Charles Andrews and Charles Reed, who also led the flag ceremony, a silver arrow point.

A war dance was presented by Mrs. Isaac Covert's den. Mrs. Martha Stewart's den had an Indian village display and games were led by Mrs. Leona Reed.

The next pack committee meeting will be announced.

Bidding Set On Road Projects In Beaver

Bids for resurfacing some 28,361 feet of roads in Greene and Hanover Townships, Beaver County, will be opened June 23 at Harrisburg, the Pennsylvania Department of Highways announced.

The work calls for resurfacing existing pavement with a bituminous surface 24 feet wide. The project is in the Harshaville vicinity.

Had Waited Appointment

J. D. Silliman Named To Air Force Academy

A Calcutta area youth, Jeffrey Dean Silliman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde W. Silliman Jr. of Vodrey Ln., has received an appointment to the Air Force Academy.

Young Silliman's appointment was announced by Rep. Wayne L. Hays, who said the 1960 Beaver Local High School graduate was selected by the Secretary of the Air Force to fill the appointment as a qualified alternate.

The first from the school district to receive an appointment to a service academy, Silliman will report to Colorado Springs, Col., on June 26.

After graduation from Beaver Local, Silliman enlisted in the Air Force Reserve, took basic training at Lackland (Tex.) Air Base and then was transferred to the Naval Academy Preparatory School at Bainbridge, Md., one of the schools preparing youths to enter service academies.

He has been home since mid-March "sweating out" the appointment.

Interested in science, Silliman was a member of the Math and Science Clubs at Beaver Local and won awards in the county science fair and at the Tri-State Science Fair.

He was a member of the football team at Beaver Local, playing guard and end for four years, was manager of the wrestling team and a member of the Varsity B. Latin Club, Masquers and Junior Classical League.

J. D. SILLIMAN
First From Calcutta District.

Silliman was among the seniors recognized for scholarship and also was treasurer of his Freshman Class. While attending the preparatory school, he was a member of the cross - country team.

Man Suffers Chest Wound From Rifle

Irritated because a bird was pulling out some flowers, an elderly man accidentally shot himself in the chest Friday morning when his .22-caliber rifle discharged as he used it to shove open a door in going to his yard.

Theodore White, 71, of 128 W. 3rd St. remains in "poor" condition today at City Hospital with the wound of the upper left chest, authorities said.

He was found by his wife at 10:35 a.m. Friday when she returned from a trip to Weirton. He was rushed by ambulance to the hospital, which notified police of the accident shortly before noon.

Mrs. White told police she had left home for Weirton at 9:15 a. m. and returned to find her husband sitting on some brick at the rear of the home.

Police learned that White was going into the rear yard to shoot a bird which had been pulling out flowers. As he used the rifle to push the door open, the rifle, containing a birdshot shell, discharged and the pellets struck him in the chest.

White said he was knocked down by the impact and remained there for awhile before managing to sit up.

Judge Sets Probation Check In Home Entry

LISBON — A probation investigation was ordered by Judge Raymond S. Buzzard Friday for Mary F. Walker, 20, of New Springfield, found guilty by a jury on a charge of burglary of the Lawrence Wolfgang home on the Lower Elkton Rd. Feb. 25.

Miss Walker unlatched a lock on the bathroom window, enabling Marshall E. Patracci, 24, and Charles W. Cooper, 21, both of Youngstown, to enter and remove a television set and other property.

Both men have pleaded guilty and asked for probation.

Bond of $2,000 was continued for Miss Walker by Judge Buzzard, pending the probation investigation by Adult Probation Officer Richard Rose.

U.S. OK's Promises Of New Korean Rule

SEOUL, Korea (AP)—The U.S. Embassy said Friday night that the United States "notes with approval" promises made by the new Korean military government. The junta told the Korean people Washington had endorsed its revolution.

A note from Charge d'Affaires Marshall Green to Foreign Minister Kim Hong-il gave the U.S. view. But four large, heavily censored Seoul newspapers played it up as a personal reply by President Kennedy to a May 16 letter from the soldier premier Lt. Gen. Chang Do-young.

FOP-FOPA Carnival Set

Plans were completed for the annual carnival to open Monday at Central Park at a joint meeting of Wellsville Fraternal Order of Police Lodge and its civilian affiliate, FOP Associates Lodge, Friday night in the FOP room in the Odd Fellows Hall.

The Paulson Amusement Co. of Coshocton will provide the rides. They will move in Sunday.

The carnival committee includes John Brown, president, Mike Albaneso, Bill Wucher, Wayne Rose, Jim Elliott and Bernard Ference for the FOPA and Patrolman Robert Wellington, Patrolman Ed James, Assistant Fire Chief Robert Lloyd, Wes Heiney and Deputy Robert Beresford, president, for the FOP.

Beresford and Brown conducted business. The groups voted to purchase a music system for teenage dances held at the Odd Fellows Hall.

Both lodges also voted to send a delegate and alternate to the state conference at Akron July 23-25.

Lunch was served by Gene Clark. Next meeting of the FOP is June 26.

Advanced Atlas Has 2nd Successful Test

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) —An advanced Atlas missile designed for heavier payload and greater range has scored its second straight success on a 5,000-mile test flight.

The flight Friday night is further evidence that the Air Force has solved problems which beset the new Atlas "E" rocket in early test firings.

Five of the first six launchings of the improved missile failed. The trouble was traced to a faulty hydraulics system. The system was modified and on May 12 an Atlas successfully flew the course.

Thieves Steal Wire, Residents Phoneless

SAPULPA, Okla. (AP) — There were no telephone calls for many residents in rural areas around Salpulpa recently.

The reason: No wires.

Creek County Sheriff Dee Ausmus said high-climbing thieves stripped more than 8,000 feet of telephone wire from the poles.

Chester Lions Hold Outing

The initial summer outdoor meeting of the Chester Lions Club was held Thursday night at the clubhouse grounds.

Sayre Graham reported plans are complete for installation of officers and "Ladies Night" at the next meeting June 8 at the Sacred Heart Catholic Church School Hall.

E. R. Moffett of Clarksburg, international counselor, will be installing officer.

Walter Jordan, Jerry D'Angelo, Anthony Bernardi and John Boyd will attend the state convention June 2-4 at Clarksburg.

Richard Mey reported on activities of the Cub Scout pack sponsored by the club and said plans are being made for reorganization.

A report of a meeting of the City Park Commission with city groups to plan an outdoor bazaar for funds for the park was given by Tom Wehner.

Dino Rossi named Richard Parsons, Donald Murray and Mey to plan the next outdoor meeting June 22.

Trustees O.K. Fire Project In Township

Approval to erect hose-drying racks at the Dixonville and LaCroft stations was granted the East and West volunteer fire departments by the Liverpool Township trustees at a meeting Friday night at City Hall.

The racks will cost $200 each. The trustees will provide the materials and the firemen will do the labor.

The trustees also ordered $1 paid each fireman as a retainer fee to comply with state compensation rules. There are 31 registered in the West department and 27 in the East.

Police constables were requested to help keep order during the carnival to be held next week by the West department at LaCroft.

The trustees approved a chipping job — temporary blacktop—on Boring Ln. and Gladys Ave. in LaCroft. Residents are helping on the project.

The trustees were directed by the Ohio Industrial Commission to install a ventilator and another door at the new addition erected on the township garage in LaCroft to meet with state specifications.

G. V. Digman, chairman, presided. Next meeting is June 9.

Bulldozer Blamed For Power Failure

Electric service to customers in the Route 30, State Route 2 and Shepherd's Valley area near Chester was expected to be restored by early afternoon, Walter Jordan, manager of the Chester office of the Monongahela Power Co. said.

Power went off about 8:40 a.m. when a contractor's bulldozer, working on Route 30 in the vicinity of McCullough's fruit stand, ran into a "guy" wire, causing a primary line to break in three different places, Jordan said.

In one span, both primary lines were broken and one line each in two other spans, he said.

The Middle Run and Fairview areas were without power for a short period but it was restored by shifting circuits to the substation.

End Of A Bridge

EATON, Ohio (AP) — Ohio is losing the distinction of having 277½ covered bridges. Commissioners of Ohio's Preble County and Indiana's Union County have agreed to replace an almost 70-year-old wooden covered bridge, half of which is in each state, with a modern steel and concrete span.

Valedictorian Gets Beaver Local Award

Linda Baumgarner, valedictorian, was presented the George M. Van Horne academic proficiency award at the annual Senior Day awards assembly held Friday at Beaver Local High School.

She also was presented the Miami University award and the "Oscar" for the best thespian.

Roberta Shaw and Mary Jo Sturgeon were cited as graduates with distinction. Michael Durbin was presented the Hi-Y award as the outstanding athletic senior.

Senior scholarship test certificates went to Suzann G. McFarland, Mary L. Plate and Miss Sturgeon, who also received the Betty Crocker Homemaker award.

Student Council awards went to Miss Baumgarner, valedictorian, art, and dramatics; Betty Adkins, salutatorian; Wayne Hickman, perfect four - year attendance; Peggy Greenwood, commercial; Gales Strader, agriculture; Roy Collins, industrial arts, and Miss Baumgarner, Susan Nulf, Miss McFarland and Susan Zimmerman, editors.

Barbara Anne Raley and Ronald Ensinger received the Danford Foundation awards and senior bookkeeping awards went to Saundra Lee McKenzie, Ruthanne Cunningham, Barbara Ann Fitzsimmons and Esther M. Bryan.

Peggy Greenwood was cited by the East Liverpool Business & Professional Women's Club as "Miss Secretary."

Girl Finds Dynamite Wired To Car Lights

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Bonnie Peak, 10, discovered dynamite in her father's car Friday. It was wired to explode when the car's lights were turned on.

Arthur Peak, 43, a city refuse worker, said he had been driving the car for almost an hour before the girl found the explosives.

Peak got the girl out of the car and then took it to police who disconnected the dynamite.

Peak was unable to explain where the dynamite came from.

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Cleveland Transit Union has voted to accept a new contract offer that will cost riders an estimated $3 million in a two-year period starting July 1.

County Buys New Cruiser

Columbiana County commissioners Thursday at Lisbon purchased a 1961 Ford police cruiser for the sheriff's department from the Wells Motor Sales of Wellsville on its low bid of $1,900. This includes a 1959 Ford trade-in.

Jack Lytle Motors of Lisbon asked $1,990, with the trade-in, in the only other bid.

The board also made application to the Ohio adjutant general's department of Civil Defense for possession of a Duck amphibious vehicle as the state has stepped out of the CD program.

East Liverpool will take charge of one and the county the other. Both will be kept at East Liverpool and will be manned by trained personnel in case of an emergency.

Travel allowances were authorized for Juvenile Officer Cornelius Csepke who took a juvenile to the Boys Industrial School Monday and for County Treasurer Vincent C. Judge and two deputies who attended a meeting of the Northeast Ohio Treasurers' Association at Smithville Wednesday.

The commissioners' next meeting is Monday from 9:30 a. m. to 4 p. m.

To Close Plant

CLEVELAND (AP) — Wean Equipment Corp., declaring that business "will no longer support manufacturing operations," has announced it is closing its plant here by July 31. The company has employed as many as 350 persons at peak operations, but operations currently are down 45 to 50 per cent, George J. Ridgeway, secretary, reported. Wean will maintain offices here, Ridgeway said, and probably will have some manufacturing done elsewhere. The firm, which is associated with Wean Engineering of Warren, makes high-speed presses and other special-purpose machinery.

Lions Hear UOVDC Aide

County Destined Last In Planning

Although it may need it the most, Columbiana County apparently is going to be the last of four Ohio counties in the Upper Ohio Development Council area to launch a regional or county planning commission, Walter Meyers, executive manager of the UOVDC, told the Lions Club Friday afternoon at the Travelers Hotel.

Meyers reviewed the activities of the UOVDC, particularly in the period between 1956 and 1960, explaining the six-county organization has aided in formation of the Jefferson County Regional Planning Commission.

THE COMMISSION will be launched formally next month with its first project a study of sewage problems, he said.

When regional planning first was discussed, Meyers said he believed Columbiana County would be the first to start a commission, pointing out it may be needed the most here because the county showed the biggest population growth in the 1960 census.

"I'm almost willing to bet that Belmont County will be the next with a planning organization, and Harrison County should be in the formative stage soon," he commented.

Regional or countywide planning is needed because of the major problems existing outside the cities. Planning is needed to provide for orderly growth and provide for adequate sewage, street and water facilities, Meyers declared.

IN CURRENT activities, the UOVDC has been working for the past two years to make a study of wood lots in rural areas so that an organization can be set up to aid owners in market and product knowledge. The organization probably will be launched early next year, Meyers said.

It also is co-operating with the Ford Foundation and Bethany College to carry out a community leadership development program, and also is working with Bethany College to analyze the need for technical and trade schools in the region.

Meyers pointed out that 31 new industries either established plants or acquired land for new facilities in the period between 1956 and 1960, while 41 major existing industries either expanded or modernized their facilities.

The new plants provided 3,000 in-plant jobs and with more now employed in service industries than in manufacturing an additional 6,000 jobs have resulted in other fields, he pointed out.

IN THE SAME period, 10 companies have either relocated or ceased operation with between 450 and 800 jobs lost, Meyers said.

The basic industries in the six-county area were coal, steel and clay but now there has been some diversification which will help stabilize the population and economy of the region, he pointed out.

Because there are not to many key sites remaining for industrial development ("there's lots of land but not all of it is suitable"), the next factor should be opening the region by modern highways.

Highways are needed not merely for travel but to help bolster and hold the region's economy, Meyers said, explaining that studies show many workers commute 25 or 30 miles daily to their jobs.

MEYERS POINTED out the development council was formed following the 1950 census when business and industrial leaders realized there would be a serious decline in the existing basic industries if the population migration continued.

The 1960 census indicates the region is holding its own from a population standpoint with Columbiana, Jefferson, Hancock and Brooke counties showing gains and Belmont and Harrison counties declining.

The area now has stability after a period of 25 or 30 years without any new industries and then a period when there was a decline in the existing basic industries.

HE DISTRIBUTED circulars listing some of the UOVDC's tangible accomplishments since its formation.

Meyers was introduced by E. R. Chandler, secretary - manager of the Chamber of Commerce, who also distributed brochures prepared by the Lake Erie-Ohio River Highway Association pointing up the freeway between East Liverpool and Ashtabula "is the road Ohio needs most of all."

Don Baxter was program chairman. Howard E. Tice, president, presided.

Dave Garroway Quits TV Program 'Today'

NEW YORK (AP)—Dave Garroway, 48, has resigned from his early morning NBC television program, "Today."

Garroway, who headed the two-hour show since it began in January 1952, said Friday he wants to leave Oct. 31, when his contract expires, or earlier if possible.

He has been with NBC for 23 years.

Garroway's wife, Pamela, died last April 28 of an overdose of sleeping pills, leaving him with his daughter, Paris, 17, by a previous marriage, and her son, Michael, 13, by a previous marriage, and their son, David Cunningham Garroway Jr., 3.

Now that his wife is gone, Garroway said, "I feel I must become a better man. I want to be the best father I can. Our family needs each other now more than ever."

Kennedy To Sign Bill Aiding Latin America

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy will sign a $500 million appropriation bill today to start his "alliance for progress" plan for Latin America.

The bill also sets aside $100 million to help Chile rebuild from its 1960 earthquakes.

Kennedy says the $500 million will help with social improvement in Latin America and lead to what be called "a decade of democratic progress."

The bulk of the $500 million is expected to be pledged for loans within the next few weeks or months. Over 200 loan requests—for land reform, housing, water supply and roads—already have been submitted.

State Requests Bids On Guardrail Painting

The State Highway Department will open bids June 27 at Columbus for painting guardrails along several routes in a five-county area.

The project, to be let as one contract, includes State Routes 7 and 45 in Columbiana County. Other roads are in Belmont, Harrison, Jefferson and Tuscarawas Counties.

Auto Dealer Cited On Title

LISBON — A charge of making a false statement in obtaining a duplicate car title was filed Thursday afternoon by County Prosecutor G. William Brokaw against Robert Grove of East Palestine, official of the Valley Motor Sales Co.

Grove of Neely Manor is president of the auto agency which filed an assignment action in Probate Court Thursday in connection with heavy financial liabilities.

The title charge was filed with County Judge James MacDonald by the prosecutor, who said Grove is charged with fraudulently obtaining a duplicate car title.

Grove gave a signed statement to the prosecutor in a conference Thursday at the Courthouse.

Grove at one time was an employe of the Union Commercial Bank.

The charge states that Grove obtained a legal Ohio title on a 1961 auto from an Elwood City firm, then received a $4,000 loan from the First National Bank of East Palestine which apparently did not file a lien notice on the auto.

Grove two days later obtained a duplicate title from the Clerk of Courts title division, claiming the original title had been lost. Using this title, he obtained another loan on the same auto from the Union Banking Co. of Columbiana, which placed a lien on the auto, the charge states.

Atty. D. Barry Dickson, counsel for the auto agency, has been granted authority to handle the firm's assets — estimated at $100,000 — for distribution toward settlement of some $200,000 debts.

Area banks and loan companies which have provided loans on "floor plans" for autos at the firm, have been checking accounts since early this month when irregularities in car titles were revealed, authorities said.

A city bank sent several original titles to the title department at the Courthouse to have liens recorded, and learned that duplicate titles had been issued, with liens recorded on the duplicates, officials said.

One bank attorney said he had never before encountered anything so complicated.

Surprise Indictment In Ratterman Case

NEWPORT, Ky. (AP)—A surprise indictment faces Thomas J. Paisley, Medina, Ohio businessman accused of conspiring with Tito Carinci of Newport to bring about the arrest of George Ratterman in a police vice raid that ended in a sensational trial and dismissal of the charges.

The indictment against Paisley and Carinci came Friday night by the grand jury which charged them with plotting to drug Ratterman and bring about his arrest in a hotel with a strip tease dancer.

He was arrested May 9 in this city notorious for its gambling houses.

Ratterman is a candidate for sheriff, backed by a reform movement pledged to rid Campbell County of gambling and vice.

Awards Presented To Hookstown Cubs

Several awards were presented at a meeting of Hookstown Cub Scout Pack 496 Friday evening at the Mill Creek Presbyterian Church with Joseph Mercer, cubmaster, in charge.

Receiving awards were Karl Karnes, one-year pin; Raymond Scott, Larry Berger, Charles Green and Richard Chambers, wolf badges; Richard Chambers, Charles Andrews and Charles Reed, who also led the flag ceremony, a silver arrow point.

A war dance was presented by Mrs. Isaac Covert's den. Mrs. Martha Stewart's den had an Indian village display and games were led by Mrs. Leona Reed.

The next pack committee meeting will be announced.

Bidding Set On Road Projects In Beaver

Bids for resurfacing some 28,361 feet of roads in Greene and Hanover Townships, Beaver County, will be opened June 23 at Harrisburg, the Pennsylvania Department of Highways announced.

The work calls for resurfacing existing pavement with a bituminous surface 24 feet wide. The project is in the Harshaville vicinity.

Had Waited Appointment

J. D. Silliman Named To Air Force Academy

A Calcutta area youth, Jeffrey Dean Silliman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde W. Silliman Jr. of Vodrey Ln., has received an appointment to the Air Force Academy.

Young Silliman's appointment was announced by Rep. Wayne L. Hays, who said the 1960 Beaver Local High School graduate was selected by the Secretary of the Air Force to fill the appointment as a qualified alternate.

The first from the school district to receive an appointment to a service academy, Silliman will report to Colorado Springs, Col., on June 26.

After graduation from Beaver Local, Silliman enlisted in the Air Force Reserve, took basic training at Lackland (Tex.) Air Base and then was transferred to the Naval Academy Preparatory School at Bainbridge, Md., one of the schools preparing youths to enter service academies.

He has been home since mid-March "sweating out" the appointment.

Interested in science, Silliman was a member of the Math and Science Clubs at Beaver Local and won awards in the county science fair and at the Tri-State Science Fair.

He was a member of the football team at Beaver Local, playing guard and end for four years, was manager of the wrestling team and a member of the Varsity B. Latin Club, Masquers and Junior Classical League.

J. D. SILLIMAN
First From Calcutta District.

Silliman was among the seniors recognized for scholarship and also was treasurer of his Freshman Class. While attending the preparatory school, he was a member of the cross - country team.

Man Suffers Chest Wound From Rifle

Irritated because a bird was pulling out some flowers, an elderly man accidentally shot himself in the chest Friday morning when his .22-caliber rifle discharged as he used it to shove open a door in going to his yard.

Theodore White, 71, of 128 W. 3rd St. remains in "poor" condition today at City Hospital with the wound of the upper left chest, authorities said.

He was found by his wife at 10:35 a.m. Friday when she returned from a trip to Weirton. He was rushed by ambulance to the hospital, which notified police of the accident shortly before noon.

Mrs. White told police she had left home for Weirton at 9:15 a. m. and returned to find her husband sitting on some brick at the rear of the home.

Police learned that White was going into the rear yard to shoot a bird which had been pulling out flowers. As he used the rifle to push the door open, the rifle, containing a birdshot shell, discharged and the pellets struck him in the chest.

White said he was knocked down by the impact and remained there for awhile before managing to sit up.

Judge Sets Probation Check In Home Entry

LISBON — A probation investigation was ordered by Judge Raymond S. Buzzard Friday for Mary F. Walker, 20, of New Springfield, found guilty by a jury on a charge of burglary of the Lawrence Wolfgang home on the Lower Elkton Rd. Feb. 25.

Miss Walker unlatched a lock on the bathroom window, enabling Marshall E. Patracci, 24, and Charles W. Cooper, 21, both of Youngstown, to enter and remove a television set and other property.

Both men have pleaded guilty and asked for probation.

Bond of $2,000 was continued for Miss Walker by Judge Buzzard, pending the probation investigation by Adult Probation Officer Richard Rose.

U.S. OK's Promises Of New Korean Rule

SEOUL, Korea (AP)—The U.S. Embassy said Friday night that the United States "notes with approval" promises made by the new Korean military government. The junta told the Korean people Washington had endorsed its revolution.

A note from Charge d'Affaires Marshall Green to Foreign Minister Kim Hong-il gave the U.S. view. But four large, heavily censored Seoul newspapers played it up as a personal reply by President Kennedy to a May 16 letter from the soldier premier Lt. Gen. Chang Do-young.

FOP-FOPA Carnival Set

Plans were completed for the annual carnival to open Monday at Central Park at a joint meeting of Wellsville Fraternal Order of Police Lodge and its civilian affiliate, FOP Associates Lodge, Friday night in the FOP room in the Odd Fellows Hall.

The Paulson Amusement Co. of Coshocton will provide the rides. They will move in Sunday.

The carnival committee includes John Brown, president, Mike Albaneso, Bill Wucher, Wayne Rose, Jim Elliott and Bernard Ference for the FOPA and Patrolman Robert Wellington, Patrolman Ed James, Assistant Fire Chief Robert Lloyd, Wes Heiney and Deputy Robert Beresford, president, for the FOP.

Beresford and Brown conducted business. The groups voted to purchase a music system for teenage dances held at the Odd Fellows Hall.

Both lodges also voted to send a delegate and alternate to the state conference at Akron July 23-25.

Lunch was served by Gene Clark. Next meeting of the FOP is June 26.

Advanced Atlas Has 2nd Successful Test

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) —An advanced Atlas missile designed for heavier payload and greater range has scored its second straight success on a 5,000-mile test flight.

The flight Friday night is further evidence that th Air Force has solved problems which beset the new Atlas "E" rocket in early test firings.

Five of the first six launchings of the improved missile failed. The trouble was traced to a faulty hydraulics system. The system was modified and on May 12 an Atlas successfully flew the course.

Thieves Steal Wire, Residents Phoneless

SAPULPA, Okla. (AP) — There were no telephone calls for many residents in rural areas around Salpulpa recently.

The reason: No wires.

Creek County Sheriff Dee Ausmus said high-climbing thieves stripped more than 8,000 feet of telephone wire from the poles.

Chester Lions Hold Outing

The initial summer outdoor meeting of the Chester Lions Club was held Thursday night at the clubhouse grounds.

Sayre Graham reported plans are complete for installation of officers and "Ladies Night" at the next meeting June 8 at the Sacred Heart Catholic Church School Hall.

E. R. Moffett of Clarksburg, international counselor, will be installing officer.

Walter Jordan, Jerry D'Angelo, Anthony Bernardi and John Boyd will attend the state convention June 2-4 at Clarksburg.

Richard Mey reported on activities of the Cub Scout pack sponsored by the club and said plans are being made for reorganization.

A report of a meeting of the City Park Commission with city groups to plan an outdoor bazaar for funds for the park was given by Tom Wehner.

Dino Rossi named Richard Parsons, Donald Murray and Mey to plan the next outdoor meeting June 22.

Camp Plans Open House Dedication

Offering an opportunity to inspect the development of the Beaver Creek United Presbyterian Camp at Grimms Bridge, "open house" and dedication ceremony will be held Sunday afternoon.

Improvements include a winterized Retreat Center, a new kitchen and dining hall, which will be used for the first time this camping season.

The new addition is suitable for retreats, conferences over-night, all-day or weekend meetings.

Open house will begin at 2:30 p. m., followed by the dedication ceremony at 3:30 with officials of Mahoning and Steubenville Presbyteries and the Synod of Ohio participating.

During the ceremony, keys to the building will be presented and participating will be the contractor, the chairman of the development committee, the moderators of the sponsoring Presbyteries, the chairmen of Christian education of both, the chairman of the camp trustees and the four sub - committee chairmen.

The two Presbyteries purchased the camp early in 1952. Last year, the Board of Trustees was re-organized and now consists of 10 members from each Presbytery.

The Rev. Mark Allen, of Toronto, chairman of the dedication committee will be in charge.

The service will include invocation, call to worship, Scripture, prayer and benediction. A brief history of the camp will be given.

Camp activities will begin with Senior High June 11-17. The group will include those entering the 10th, 11th and 12th grades.

In addition to study, worship and recreation, the young people will have an opportunity to enter into a camp service project.

Mr. and Mrs. George Reynolds are caretakers.

Army Reserves Officer To Speak At Newell Rites

First Lt. John Kladakis of Weirton, a member of the Army Reserves, will be principal speaker for Newell's community-wide Memorial Day service Tuesday.

The program will begin at 11 a.m. at Memorial Athletic Field near Wells High School. American Legion Post 114 is sponsoring the event. Herbert Eddy is commander.

A selection by the Wells High School band directed by John Larry Clark will begin the program. The welcome will be given by George LaNeve, first vice commander of the Department of West Virginia, and a member of Newell Post 114. The Wells High band will also play the National Anthem.

The Rev. Charles Haddock of the Presbyterian Church will give the invocation. A wreath will be placed at a memorial marker by the auxiliary of Post 114, headed by Mrs. Mae Hupp.

There will be a moment of silence for departed servicemen. Grant District Burial Group will fire a salute, with taps to follow.

City's Patriotic Units To Attend Memorial Rites

Historic Church Plans Memorial Service Sunday

Beaver County's oldest church will honor the memory of men who served their nation in wars beginning with the Revolution when members of the Service United Presbyterian Congregation and guests gather for a special service and ceremony Sabbath afternoon at 2:30.

This special hour substitutes for the morning service, and permits men and women of other churches whose ancestors rest in the John Anderson Memorial Cemetery to attend without missing their own services.

Dr. George Swetnam, historian and the pastor, will preach.

At the conclusion of the worship, there will be the traditional flag-raising ceremony at the armed forces monument in the hillside cemetery. Taps will be sounded by Willis Searight whose grandfather, William Searight, for many years conducted this ceremony until his recent death.

The color guard will be Machinist's Mate 3C Willis Galer and Spcl. 4C Rollo Daugherty.

Proceeds of the collection will go to the fund for perpetual care of the cemetery. Graves of veterans have been decorated by the Aliquippa Memorial Association of the veterans' organizations. Clare Searight is chairman.

Graduates Will Get Church Recognition

Meredith Loos, Willard Mobley and David Reed, graduating seniors, who are members of the First Free Methodist Church, will be recognized during morning worship Sunday.

Pre-registration for Vacation Bible School will be held tomorrow morning. Classes will be held June 5-16.

During the summer months the Saturday CYC meetings will not be held. The final session will be June 14 at 10:15 a. m.

Pastor Will Present Bibles To Graduates

The school will be held from 9 a. m. to noon and the theme will be "Full Speed Ahead." The course is open to children 4-14 and will include stories, music, handcraft and other activities.

Confident Living

By Norman Vincent Peale

Empty The Pockets Of Your Mind

A man came up to me on the street and asked, "Remember me? I'm the man who spoke with you after your speech at Fresno. The one who complained of feeling tired all the time." For a couple of seconds I drew a blank. Then the incident came back to me. "Yes, I remember, but you sure don't look like a tired man today!" He grinned happily. "I've really used that technique you recommended. The one about emptying the pockets of your mind each night at bedtime. It's done me a world of good. I have much more energy, and life has been treating me much better.

DR. PEALE

The first time I met this man I had just finished a talk in Fresno on the subject of "How to have energy and vitality." He approached me and said, "You were talking for my benefit tonight — I hardly have a day that I don't feel all worn out."

"How come?" I asked. "At your age you should be full of energy."

"I have so many worries," he explained. "I'm up against tough competition in my work and I have plenty of problems."

SO I TOLD him about an old tailor who used to make clothes for me years ago. This tailor, a man many years my senior, apparently didn't like the way my suits looked after I had worn them awhile. One day he asked, "Norman, do you take everything out of the pockets of your suit before you hang it up at night?"

I informed him that as a matter of fact I always left everything in the pockets. Then if I wore the same suit the next day, the things I wanted with me were always already there. And if I wore another, all I had to do was shift various objects from the pockets of one suit to the corresponding pockets of the other.

"Your logic is excellent, young fellow," said the old tailor, "but from the standpoint of keeping your appearance good you are in error."

He gave me a little lecture on how things left in pockets pull on the cloth and gradually get the whole suit out of shape. He told me always to empty every pocket.

And my tailor friend went on to add another suggestion: "Another thing, before going to sleep at night you should always empty the pockets of your mind."

It was priceless advice which I have tried to follow ever since. If you sleep with worries, regrets, resentments, fear thoughts or gloom thoughts lurking in the recesses of your mind, they will drain your energy all through the night. Let this happen with frequency and it will sap your physical vitality.

BUT JUST how do you go about emptying the pockets of your mind?

As a first step, when you are ready for bed, repeat the 23rd Psalm or some prayer that induces a quiet mood. Then take a look at your own mental and emotional condition, and consciously discard the negative thoughts or feelings you may have.

Have you been worrying about an unsolved problem? Troubled about some disappointment? Brooding over an incident that has irritated you or hurt your feelings? Simply say to yourself: "I put it in God's hands. I'm going to sleep."

Then use a creative affirmation. There is power in regularly using affirmations — constant emphasis hammers the thought deeply into consciousness and it becomes part of you. So affirm each night: "This feeling I discard. I now let it go. It's now leaving me for which I thank God."

Perhaps there is a problem you will have to tackle again tomorrow. Say, "I put it in God's hands for tonight. Tomorrow I will take it back again, and with His guidance will know how to deal with it." Then skip it and go to sleep.

Or perhaps you have a vague sense of uneasiness, but no clear notion what it is all about. Let your thoughts travel back through the day, reviewing events and experiences, and very likely you will find the source of your mental uneasiness. When you find it, give the episode itself to God and let the feeling go.

THAT IS emptying the pockets of the mind. But you should follow with something more. The mind differs from a suit in that things removed from mind pockets do not always stay out, but sometimes have a stubborn way of jumping back in. To keep them out use another technique, that of replacement. By that I mean, fill those pockets of the mind so full of positive thoughts that there is no room for anything negative.

To the problem that causes fear, bring faith; toward the person who angers you, think love. Then just before sleep fill your mind with some great text, such as Isaiah's "Thou wilt keep him in perfect peace, whose mind is stayed on Thee." In this you can prepare yourself for sleep that really replenishes energy and rebuilds vitality.

The old tailor's advice was good —"Every night always empty the pockets of your mind."

Midland Junior Women's Group Inducts New Officers

Installation of new officers featured the annual presidents' dinner of the Midland Junior Women's Club Wednesday evening in the McGeorge's Restaurant on Route 51. This was the final meeting of the season.

Officers include Mrs. Robert Katich, president; Mrs. Maurice Newman, vice president; Mrs. Eugene Fritz, recording secretary; Mrs. James Vesco, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. Richard Wilton, treasurer.

Mrs. William Lang of Beaver, president of the Beaver County Federation, was the installing officer.

Corsages of yellow carnations were presented the new officers.

Mrs. Lawrence Novak, retiring president, who will automatically serve as second vice president, presented a past president's pin to the new president. Mrs. Donald Dillworth, retiring publicity chairman, presented the retiring president with the club's scrapbook.

Mrs. Charles Smith reported on the two presentations at Awards Day at Midland High School by the club. Miss Barbara Marciniak received the Vogue Sewing Club award and Miss Stella Ordich the commercial award for the highest average.

A picnic was planned for June 25 at 2 p.m. for members and their families at Thompson Park. The committee includes Mrs. Newman, Mrs. Frank Migliore Jr., Mrs. Vesco and Mrs. Katich.

The club made two donations — to the Midland July 4th committee and the Beaver County Cancer Society.

Mrs. Thomas Doyle, special committee chairman, was appointed to purchase tableware.

Several members will attend the Beaver County Junior Workshop June 9 at 8 p.m. at the Christ Lutheran Church at Beaver Falls, sponsored by the Beaver County Junior Council.

The new president will announce standing committees in the near future.

Mrs. Doyle and Mrs. Migliore were in charge of the dinner arrangements. Decorations were spring flowers and tapers.

Next meeting is Sept. 13 at the American Legion Post 481 Home.

Central Methodists To Honor 16 Seniors

The Central Methodist Church of Wellsville will honor 16 members who are seniors at Wellsville High School at morning services at 11 Sunday.

Mrs. Natalie Lewis, president of the WSCS, will make the presentation and the Rev. William Hewitt will speak on "Time to Reverse the Trend."

Mission Sets Renovations

The basement of the Community Rescue Mission on Broadway is being cleared in preparation for a renovation project expected to get underway in the near future, according to Kenneth C. Steen, superintendent.

The basement will be used for recreational activities for underprivileged children of the area. Volunteer work such as carpenters, electricians and cement finishers will be appreciated, Supt. Steen said.

In conjunction with the project, the lot next to the mission will be cleared and used for a playground for the young people.

Supt. Steen and Donald Moore head the project. Committee members will be announced.

Wellsville VFW Plans Memorial

A special memorial service will be sponsored at Lee's Chapel of the African Methodist Episcopal Church at Wellsville Sunday morning at 11 by Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 9285 and auxiliary.

The Rev. William Hodges of Columbus, presiding elder of the Youngstown District, will speak, and remarks will be made by Melvin Boggs, post commander, and Mrs. Beatrice Triner, auxiliary president. The Rev. L. R. Hunter is pastor.

All veterans and veterans groups and auxiliaries are invited, post officials said.

Pastor Will Speak At Cumberland Rites

NEW CUMBERLAND — Charles Jones, minister of the Methodist Nessly Chapel, will be principal speaker for the community's Memorial Day services Tuesday.

The program begins at 10 with a parade from the Veterans of Foreign Wars Post, to Swaney Memorial Library on Court St., where a member of the auxiliary will place a wreath at a stone memorial. A firing squad will sound a volley.

The program will continue at New Cumberland Cemetery. Community ministers also will speak.

The auxiliary Poppy Day event which opened Friday will continue through today.

Church At Clarkson Opens Weekly Series

About 12 attended the first of a series of study meetings at the Clarkson Presbyterian Church annex Wednesday night on the topic, "What Presbyterians Believe."

William McIntyre, student at the Pittsburgh Theological Seminary, is conducting the series to be held Wednesday nights at 7:30.

Seaman George Smith, stationed at the Great Lakes (Ill.) Naval Training Station, is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sylvester Smith.

The mean temperature for an average year in the Bahama Islands is 76 degrees.

Events Set In Churches Of District

The second anniversary celebration of the Junior Choir of the Wellsville First Baptist Church will be held Sunday at 3 p. m. The event was scheduled last Sunday but was postponed because of the weather.

The Youth Fellowship meeting and the evening service Sunday at the Newell First Methodist Church will be canceled because of the baccalaureate service at Wells High School.

The Rev. Ronald Rearic, pastor of the Boyce Methodist Church, will be the speaker at the memorial service Sunday at 2:30 p. m. at the Highlandtown Methodist Church.

Holy Communion will be celebrated at Sunday morning devotions at 11 and at the 8:45 a. m. devotions June 4 in the Ohio View Lutheran Church.

New officers of the WSCS of the First Methodist Church and all circle officers will be installed during the 10:45 a.m. worship Sunday.

Confirmation Set At B'nai Jacob

Confirmation exercises will be held at the B'nai Jacob Synagogue Sunday at 2 p.m. with Rabbi Sidney Rappaport of the Tree of Life Synagogue of Ellwood City officiating.

Jewish practice requires that the confirmation take place during or near the festival of Shavous, otherwise known as the Feast of Weeks or Pentacost.

The festival commemorates the anniversary of the event that took place at Mt. Sinai when the children of Israel received the Ten Commandments.

Thus, confirmation signifies that the young people have achieved their religious maturity, symbolizing their acceptance of Divine Law. The confirmands are Madelon Schlang and Marvin Feldman.

Graduates At Newell Will Receive Gifts

Four graduates of Wells High School, who are members of the First Presbyterian Church of Newell, will be honored and presented a gift at morning worship Sunday.

They are Robert Barnett, Denise Bowen, Larry Hutton and Mary Nease.

Camp Plans Open House Dedication

Offering an opportunity to inspect the development of the Beaver Creek United Presbyterian Camp at Grimms Bridge, "open house" and dedication ceremony will be held Sunday afternoon.

Improvements include a winterized Retreat Center, a new kitchen and dining hall, which will be used for the first time this camping season.

The new addition is suitable for retreats, conferences over-night, all-day or weekend meetings.

Open house will begin at 2:30 p. m., followed by the dedication ceremony at 3:30 with officials of Mahoning and Steubenville Presbyteries and the Synod of Ohio participating.

During the ceremony, keys to the building will be presented and participating will be the contractor, the chairman of the development committee, the moderators of the sponsoring Presbyteries, the chairmen of Christian education of both, the chairman of the camp trustees and the four sub - committee chairmen.

The two Presbyteries purchased the camp early in 1952. Last year, the Board of Trustees was re-organized and now consists of 10 members from each Presbytery.

The Rev. Mark Allen, of Toronto, chairman of the dedication committee will be in charge.

The service will include invocation, call to worship, Scripture, prayer and benediction. A brief history of the camp will be given.

Camp activities will begin with Senior High June 11-17. The group will include those entering the 10th, 11th and 12th grades.

In addition to study, worship and recreation, the young people will have an opportunity to enter into a camp service project.

Mr. and Mrs. George Reynolds are caretakers.

Army Reserves Officer To Speak At Newell Rites

First Lt. John Kladakis of Weirton, a member of the Army Reserves, will be principal speaker for Newell's community-wide Memorial Day service Tuesday.

The program will begin at 11 a.m. at Memorial Athletic Field near Wells High School. American Legion Post 114 is sponsoring the event. Herbert Eddy is commander.

A selection by the Wells High School band directed by John Larry Clark will begin the program. The welcome will be given by George LaNeve, first vice commander of the Department of West Virginia, and a member of Newell Post 114. The Wells High band will also play the National Anthem.

The Rev. Charles Haddock of the Presbyterian Church will give the invocation. A wreath will be placed at a memorial marker by the auxiliary of Post 114, headed by Mrs. Mae Hupp.

There will be a moment of silence for departed servicemen. Grant District Burial Group will fire a salute, with taps to follow.

City's Patriotic Units To Attend Memorial Rites

Historic Church Plans Memorial Service Sunday

Beaver County's oldest church will honor the memory of men who served their nation in wars beginning with the Revolution when members of the Service United Presbyterian Congregation and guests gather for a special service and ceremony Sabbath afternoon at 2:30.

This special hour substitutes for the morning service, and permits men and women of other churches whose ancestors rest in the John Anderson Memorial Cemetery to attend without missing their own services.

Dr. George Swetnam, historian and the pastor, will preach.

At the conclusion of the worship, there will be the traditional flag-raising ceremony at the armed forces monument in the hillside cemetery. Taps will be sounded by Willis Searight whose grandfather, William Searight, for many years conducted this ceremony until his recent death.

The color guard will be Machinist's Mate 3C Willis Galer and Spcl. 4C Rollo Daugherty.

Proceeds of the collection will go to the fund for perpetual care of the cemetery. Graves of veterans have been decorated by the Aliquippa Memorial Association of the veterans' organizations. Clare Searight is chairman.

Graduates Will Get Church Recognition

Meredith Loos, Willard Mobley and David Reed, graduating seniors, who are members of the First Free Methodist Church, will be recognized during morning worship Sunday.

Pre-registration for Vacation Bible School will be held tomorrow morning. Classes will be held June 5-16.

During the summer months the Saturday CYC meetings will not be held. The final session will be June 14 at 10:15 a. m.

Pastor Will Present Bibles To Graduates

The Rev. William Claghorn, pastor of the Chester Westminster United Presbyterian Church, will present Bibles to nine graduating seniors of the Chester High School, who are members of the church, during morning worship Sunday.

They are Matthew Burnquist, Betsy Hobbs, Norma Hoyt, Edwin Jordan, William Mackall Jr., Marian Nichol, Sam Pipes, Kathleen Wright and Susan Miller.

Services Will Honor Yellow Creek Pupils

Graduating seniors who are members of the Yellow Creek Presbyterian Church will be honored during morning service Sunday.

The first in the series of five meetings will begin Friday at 8 p.m. The theme will be "What Presbyterians Believe and Teach."

Vacation School Set At Wellsville Church

Vacation Bible School will open June 5 at the Full Gospel Assembly Church in Wellsville, continuing through June 16.

The school will be held from 9 a. m. to noon and the theme will be "Full Speed Ahead." The course is open to children 4-14 and will include stories, music, handcraft and other activities.

Confident Living

By Norman Vincent Peale

Empty The Pockets Of Your Mind

A man came up to me on the street and asked, "Remember me? I'm the man who spoke with you after your speech at Fresno. The one who complained of feeling tired all the time." For a couple of seconds I drew a blank. Then the incident came back to me. "Yes, I remember, but you sure don't look like a tired man today!" He grinned happily. "I've really used that technique you recommended. The one about emptying the pockets of your mind each night at bedtime. It's done me a world of good. I have much more energy, and life has been treating me much better.

DR. PEALE

The first time I met this man I had just finished a talk in Fresno on the subject of "How to have energy and vitality." He approached me and said, "You were talking for my benefit tonight — I hardly have a day that I don't feel all worn out."

"How come?" I asked. "At your age you should be full of energy."

"I have so many worries," he explained. "I'm up against tough competition in my work and I have plenty of problems."

SO I TOLD him about an old tailor who used to make clothes for me years ago. This tailor, a man many years my senior, apparently didn't like the way my suits looked after I had worn them awhile. One day he asked, "Norman, do you take everything out of the pockets of your suit before you hang it up at night?"

I informed him that as a matter of fact I always left everything in the pockets. Then if I wore the same suit the next day, the things I wanted with me were always already there. And if I wore another, all I had to do was shift various objects from the pockets of one suit to the corresponding pockets of the other.

"Your logic is excellent, young fellow," said the old tailor, "but from the standpoint of keeping your appearance good you are in error."

He gave me a little lecture on how things left in pockets pull on the cloth and gradually get the whole suit out of shape. He told me always to empty every pocket.

And my tailor friend went on to add another suggestion: "Another thing, before going to sleep at night you should always empty the pockets of your mind."

It was priceless advice which I have tried to follow ever since. If you sleep with worries, regrets, resentments, fear thoughts or gloom thoughts lurking in the recesses of your mind, they will drain your energy all through the night. Let this happen with frequency and it will sap your physical vitality.

BUT JUST how do you go about emptying the pockets of your mind?

As a first step, when you are ready for bed, repeat the 23rd Psalm or some prayer that induces a quiet mood. Then take a look at your own mental and emotional condition, and consciously discard the negative thoughts or feelings you may have.

Have you been worrying about an unsolved problem? Troubled about some disappointment? Brooding over an incident that has irritated you or hurt your feelings? Simply say to yourself: "I put it in God's hands. I'm going to sleep."

Then use a creative affirmation. There is power in regularly using affirmations — constant emphasis hammers the thought deeply into consciousness and it becomes part of you. So affirm each night: "This feeling I discard. I now let it go. It's now leaving me for which I thank God."

Perhaps there is a problem you will have to tackle again tomorrow. Say, "I put it in God's hands for tonight. Tomorrow I will take it back again, and with His guidance will know how to deal with it." Then skip it and go to sleep.

Or perhaps you have a vague sense of uneasiness, but no clear notion what it is all about. Let your thoughts travel back through the day, reviewing events and experiences, and very likely you will find the source of your mental uneasiness. When you find it, give the episode itself to God and let the feeling go.

THAT IS emptying the pockets of the mind. But you should follow with something more. The mind differs from a suit in that things removed from mind pockets do not always stay out, but sometimes have a stubborn way of jumping back in. To keep them out use another technique, that of replacement. By that I mean, fill those pockets of the mind so full of positive thoughts that there is no room for anything negative.

To the problem that causes fear, bring faith; toward the person who angers you, think love. Then just before sleep fill your mind with some great text, such as Isaiah's "Thou wilt keep him in perfect peace, whose mind is stayed on Thee." In this you can prepare yourself for sleep that really replenishes energy and rebuilds vitality.

The old tailor's advice was good —"Every night always empty the pockets of your mind."

Midland Junior Women's Group Inducts New Officers

Installation of new officers featured the annual presidents' dinner of the Midland Junior Women's Club Wednesday evening in the McGeorge's Restaurant on Route 51. This was the final meeting of the season.

Officers include Mrs. Robert Katich, president; Mrs. Maurice Newman, vice president; Mrs. Eugene Fritz, recording secretary; Mrs. James Vesco, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. Richard Wilton, treasurer.

Mrs. William Lang of Beaver, president of the Beaver County Federation, was the installing officer.

Corsages of yellow carnations were presented the new officers.

Mrs. Lawrence Novak, retiring president, who will automatically serve as second vice president, presented a past president's pin to the new president, Mrs. Donald Dillworth, retiring publicity chairman, presented the retiring president with the club's scrapbook.

Mrs. Charles Smith reported on the two presentations at Awards Day at Midland High School by the club. Miss Barbara Marciniak received the Vogue Sewing Club award and Miss Stella Ordich the commercial award for the highest average.

A picnic was planned for June 25 at 2 p.m. for members and their families at Thompson Park.

The committee includes Mrs. Newman, Mrs. Frank Migliore Jr., Mrs. Vesco and Mrs. Katich.

The club made two donations — to the Midland July 4th committee and the Beaver County Cancer Society.

Mrs. Thomas Doyle, special committee chairman, was appointed to purchase tableware.

Several members will attend the Beaver County Junior Workshop June 9 at 8 p.m. at the Christ Lutheran Church at Beaver Falls, sponsored by the Beaver County Junior Council.

The new president will announce standing committees in the near future.

Mrs. Doyle and Mrs. Migliore were in charge of the dinner arrangements. Decorations were spring flowers and tapers.

Next meeting is Sept. 13 at the American Legion Post 481 Home.

Central Methodists To Honor 16 Seniors

The Central Methodist Church of Wellsville will honor 16 members who are seniors at Wellsville High School at morning services at 11 Sunday.

Mrs. Natalie Lewis, president of the WSCS, will make the presentation and the Rev. William Hewitt will speak on "Time to Reverse the Trend."

Mission Sets Renovations

The basement of the Community Rescue Mission on Broadway is being cleared in preparation for a renovation project expected to get underway in the near future, according to Kenneth C. Steen, superintendent.

The basement will be used for recreational activities for underprivileged children of the area. Volunteer work such as carpenters, electricians and cement finishers will be appreciated, Supt. Steen said.

In conjunction with the project, the lot next to the mission will be cleared and used for a playground for the young people.

Supt. Steen and Donald Moore head the project. Committee members will be announced.

Wellsville VFW Plans Memorial

A special memorial service will be sponsored at Lee's Chapel of the African Methodist Episcopal Church at Wellsville Sunday morning at 11 by Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 9285 and auxiliary.

The Rev. William Hodges of Columbus, presiding elder of the Youngstown District, will speak, and remarks will be made by Melvin Boggs, post commander, and Mrs. Beatrice Triner, auxiliary president. The Rev. L. R. Hunter is pastor.

All veterans and veterans groups and auxiliaries are invited, post officials said.

Pastor Will Speak At Cumberland Rites

NEW CUMBERLAND — Charles Jones, minister of the Methodist Nessly Chapel, will be principal speaker for the community's Memorial Day services Tuesday.

The program begins at 10 with a parade from the Veterans of Foreign Wars Post, to Swaney Memorial Library on Court St., where a member of the auxiliary will place a wreath at a stone memorial. A firing squad will sound a volley.

The program will continue at New Cumberland Cemetery. Community ministers also will speak.

The auxiliary Poppy Day event which opened Friday will continue through today.

Church At Clarkson Opens Weekly Series

About 12 attended the first of a series of study meetings at the Clarkson Presbyterian Church annex Wednesday night on the topic, "What Presbyterians Believe."

William McIntyre, student at the Pittsburgh Theological Seminary, is conducting the series to be held Wednesday nights at 7:30.

New officers of the WSCS of the First Methodist Church and all circle officers will be installed during the 10:45 a.m. worship Sunday.

Evening services at the Beechwood Free Methodist Church Sunday will not be held because of the baccalaureate services Sunday.

Confirmation Set At B'nai Jacob

Confirmation exercises will be held at the B'nai Jacob Synagogue Sunday at 2 p.m. with Rabbi Sidney Rappaport of the Tree of Life Synagogue of Ellwood City officiating.

Jewish practice requires that the confirmation take place during or near the festival of Shavous, otherwise known as the Feast of Weeks or Pentacost.

The festival commemorates the anniversary of the event that took place at Mt. Sinai when the children of Israel received the Ten Commandments.

Thus, confirmation signifies that the young people have achieved their religious maturity, symbolizing their acceptance of Divine Law. The confirmands are Madelon Schlang and Marvin Feldman.

Graduates At Newell Will Receive Gifts

Four graduates of Wells High School, who are members of the First Presbyterian Church of Newell, will be honored and presented a gift at morning worship Sunday.

They are Robert Barnett, Denise Bowen, Larry Hutton and Mary Nease.

Bringing Up A Family

By GARRY C. MEYERS

Prepare Youth For College Entrance

There was a time when some parents registered their baby at their "Dear Old Alma Mater," feeling assured that by and by he would enter it and graduate. But this is no longer true.

Dr. Garry Meyers

Even parents who make large gifts to a college can't be sure their child will qualify for entering it; or, having entered, will graduate. Yet these parents, assuming their baby has "normal intelligence", may, by bringing the child up well, be able to make such wishes come true. Of course, without any thought or planning about this child's education, he might, on reaching college age, easily be able to enter and graduate, even with honors. But this won't happen to all "normal" or bright children.

AN EMINENT educator recently stated that parents should give no thought about college for their child until he has reached the eighth grade.

But suppose this child by then were lagging, even failing, at school, especially in reading. Suppose he never had learned good habits of mental work. Suppose that when he had homework he didn't go at it faithfully each night before school, or wholly neglected it.

Now, it might, even at this late date, be possible to help this child bring up his arrears, even to earn average or higher grades. But as you can see, the chances of his doing so are slight.

Suppose, instead, this child's parents had cultivated in him good habits of mental work in his many earlier years, so that all through the grades he enjoyed school success.

BEGINNING WITH the baby, provide him with the best possible guidance for his development. Aim that, from his early years, he shall enjoy a family atmosphere of love and security, that he does not have everything he wants right when he wants it, that he learns to wait when he should and to conform reasonably to normal routines and family regulations and gradually learns self-reliance, physically and emotionally — all as foundations for his learning good habits of self-discipline.

Read to him constantly, beginning as soon as he will listen. As early as he is able, require him to do a few regular jobs. See that he is home when the street lights appear.

Find ways to encourage him to win successes at learning from the time he enters school, especially in reading.

SEE THAT he does his homework assignments promptly, faithfully and well. When he has no homework, require that he shall read each day from sources you approve. Bring him up in a reading family.

If you find him lagging in any of his school work, seek ways to help him improve. Consider his work habits day by day.

My bulletins, "Home Helps in Reading, Spelling and Arithmetic" and "Helping Child With Lessons at Home," may be had by sending a self - addressed, stamped envelope to me in care of this newspaper.

Project Planned In Swampy Land

An automatic digging machine will be used in reclaiming a swampy area of a field at the Hancock County Children's Home farm near Pughtown starting Thursday.

Cyrus Spear of Weirton, executive secretary of the Board of Trustees, said the machine will dig 1,600 feet of ditch. He added county residents have been invited to see the machine at work. The board purchased tile from the American Vitrified Products Co. of East Liverpool for draining the field.

The project will cost about $310, but the board will be allotted about $186 from the federal government as part of its aid for conservation. The Children's Home farm recently was selected as the county's "Conservation Farm of the Year."

The Board of Trustees is scheduled to meet June 12. William C. Graham of Chester is president.

Wellsville Service To Dedicate Flag Pole

A new flag pole, donated by William Spires, a World War I veteran, will be dedicated at the opening of Memorial Day exercises Tuesday morning at 8:45 in Wellsville.

The pole is being erected at the Roadside Park at Wells Ave. and Route 45, next to the public drinking fountain.

Spires is erecting a 30 - foot steel pole. He said he had to obtain special permission from State Highway Department officials.

The Ohio State pennant, donated for the day by Ed Pugh, will be run up the pole for the dedication. The American flag will fly thereafter.

Spires urged all residents to display flags Tuesday. He said he will make a count of those in Wellsville.

Claims From Jobless Continue To Decline

Claims for unemployment compensation continued to decline this week at the East Liverpool office of the Ohio State Employment Service.

Harry L. Dinsmore, manager, said 50 fewer claims were processed in the past week than in the week ending May 20. Claims totaled 853 this week against 903 in the previous period.

The claims included 665 regular and 188 filed under the federal extension. In the previous week, there were 725 filed under the state law and 178 under the federal program.

The regular claims the past week included 83 new and 582 continued, and 16 new and 172 continued under the extension program. In the previous period, the regular claims included 59 new and 666 continuing with 21 new and 157 continued on the extended program, Dinsmore said.

662 Cars Inspected

EAST PALESTINE — A total of 662 cars were inspected in a safety check held this week by the Rotary Club at the high school parking lot. The cars were inspected Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday. A total of 115 were found defective. Bad mufflers and lights was the primary cause for rejection.

Bringing Up A Family

By GARRY C. MEYERS

Prepare Youth For College Entrance

There was a time when some parents registered their baby at their "Dear Old Alma Mater," feeling assured that by and by he would enter it and graduate. But this is no longer true.

Dr. Garry Meyers

Even parents who make large gifts to a college can't be sure their child will qualify for entering it; or, having entered, will graduate. Yet these parents, assuming their baby has "normal intelligence", may, by bringing the child up well, be able to make such wishes come true. Of course, without any thought or planning about this child's education, he might, on reaching college age, easily be able to enter and graduate, even with honors. But this won't happen to all "normal" or bright children.

AN EMINENT educator recently stated that parents should give no thought about college for their child until he has reached the eighth grade.

But suppose this child by then were lagging, even failing, at school, especially in reading. Suppose he never had learned good habits of mental work. Suppose that when he had homework he didn't go at it faithfully each night before school, or wholly neglected it.

Now, it might, even at this late date, be possible to help this child bring up his arrears, even to earn average or higher grades. But as you can see, the chances of his doing so are slight.

Suppose, instead, this child's parents had cultivated in him good habits of mental work in his many earlier years, so that all through the grades he enjoyed school success.

BEGINNING WITH the baby, provide him with the best possible guidance for his development. Aim that, from his early years, he shall enjoy a family atmosphere of love and security, that he does not have everything he wants right when he wants it, that he learns to wait when he should and to conform reasonably to normal routines and family regulations and gradually learns self-reliance, physically and emotionally — all as foundations for his learning good habits of self-discipline.

Read to him constantly, beginning as soon as he will listen. As early as he is able, require him to do a few regular jobs. See that he is home when the street lights appear.

Find ways to encourage him to win successes at learning from the time he enters school, especially in reading.

SEE THAT he does his homework assignments promptly, faithfully and well. When he has no homework, require that he shall read each day from sources you approve. Bring him up in a reading family.

If you find him lagging in any of his school work, seek ways to help him improve. Consider his work habits day by day.

My bulletins, "Home Helps in Reading, Spelling and Arithmetic" and "Helping Child With Lessons at Home," may be had by sending a self - addressed, stamped envelope to me in care of this newspaper.

Project Planned In Swampy Land

An automatic digging machine will be used in reclaiming a swampy area of a field at the Hancock County Children's Home farm near Pughtown starting Thursday.

Cyrus Spear of Weirton, executive secretary of the Board of Trustees, said the machine will dig 1,600 feet of ditch. He added county residents have been invited to see the machine at work. The board purchased tile from the American Vitrified Products Co. of East Liverpool for draining the field.

The project will cost about $310, but the board will be allotted about $186 from the federal government as part of its aid for conservation. The Children's Home farm recently was selected as the county's "Conservation Farm of the Year."

The Board of Trustees is scheduled to meet June 12. William C. Graham of Chester is president.

Wellsville Service To Dedicate Flag Pole

A new flag pole, donated by William Spires, a World War I veteran, will be dedicated at the opening of Memorial Day exercises Tuesday morning at 8:45 in Wellsville.

The pole is being erected at the Roadside Park at Wells Ave. and Route 45, next to the public drinking fountain.

Spires is erecting a 30 - foot steel pole. He said he had to obtain special permission from State Highway Department officials.

The Ohio State pennant, donated for the day by Ed Pugh, will be run up the pole for the dedication. The American flag will fly thereafter.

Spires urged all residents to display flags Tuesday. He said he will make a count of those in Wellsville.

Claims From Jobless Continue To Decline

Claims for unemployment compensation continued to decline this week at the East Liverpool office of the Ohio State Employment Service.

Harry L. Dinsmore, manager, said 50 fewer claims were processed in the past week than in the week ending May 20. Claims totaled 853 this week against 903 in the previous period.

The claims included 665 regular and 188 filed under the federal extension. In the previous week, there were 725 filed under the state law and 178 under the federal program.

The regular claims the past week included 83 new and 582 continued, and 16 new and 172 continued under the extension program. In the previous period, the regular claims included 59 new and 666 continuing with 21 new and 157 continued on the extended program, Dinsmore said.

662 Cars Inspected

EAST PALESTINE — A total of 662 cars were inspected in a safety check held this week by the Rotary Club at the high school parking lot. The cars were inspected Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday. A total of 115 were found defective. Bad mufflers and lights was the primary cause for rejection.

Miss Delilah Carol Nicholson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence E. Nicholson of the Y. & O. Rd., became the bride of Charles W. Patterson Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Patterson of Clark Ave., Wellsville, on May 19 in the Oak Ridge Presbyterian Church.

The Rev. Ernest Bacon, pastor, officiated for the 7 o'clock, double-ring ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white sheath with blue bolero jacket and a half-hat with circular veil. She carried a white Bible topped with a spray of lily-of-the-valley. Observing the traditions, she borrowed her mother's cultured pearl earrings and necklace.

Mrs. Naomi Laughlin was matron of honor and wore a white ensemble with white carnation corsage. Robert Raffa of Wellsville was best man.

The mother of the bride wore a spring print and the bridegroom's mother chose a Navy dress. Both wore white carnation corsages.

A reception for 30 followed in the social rooms. The bridegroom served three years in the Army, most of the time in Korea. He is employed by the Beatty Construction Co.

The newlyweds are residing temporarily with the bride's parents.

Ex-Smokers Need Not Gain Weight

Why do pounds tend to pile on when a person stops smoking? The fact that so many former smokers gain unwanted pounds lends credence to the widespread impression that a weight gain is impossible to avoid.

Ida Jean Kain

Let's look at the facts. Food doesn't get more fattening when you stop smoking. What does happen is that taste buds sharpen and food tastes better. Take measures to deal promptly with this sharpened appetite.

To get the right perspective, regard this change in terms of a keener appetite rather than a bigger appetite. There's a difference. The practice of overeating enlarges your food capacity, then it takes more food to fill the capacious space. You need not fall into that fattening trap.

THE SHARPENED appetite, when controlled, levels off in three weeks. Apply nutrition know-how.

However, before we plan meals, let's deal with snacks. Smoking gives oral satisfaction. Snacks provide oral gratification when smoking is stopped. Here we are dealing with habit.

A recognized way to break a habit is through substitution, but make sure the substitution doesn't turn into fattening habit.

When at home munch on crisp celery, carrot slivers, tart apple slices, or crunchy low-calorie wafers. Or dietetic low-calorie hard candy, three calories per candy, can be the crutch. Have a protein pick-up in late afternoon.

In breaking the smoking habit, tension must be reckoned with. Here the application of Elbert Hubbard's nugget of wisdom can be wonderfully effective — "Let motion equal emotion." Walk off your tension — get out and play. If you need help your doctor may suggest a temporary palliative.

Now nutrition know-how: Eat a good breakfast, including protein. Satiety value of food depends on the length of time the food remains in the stomach and the amount of gastric juice stimulated.

Clear soups and broths stimulate the gastric juices, so start lunch and dinner with hot bouillon. Meat has the greatest satiety value of all food — trim off fat.

HAVE A POTATO or a slice of bread, but no seconds on either for they add more calories than satiety. Green vegetables and salads furnish needed bulk. For dessert, fruit provides a sweet finishing taste. A hot beverage gives comfort for no calories.

Summed up, eat three meals a day and plan each meal around a protein food, plus foods that give satisfaction without adding too many calories. And "let motion equal emotion."

Miss Delilah Carol Nicholson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence E. Nicholson of the Y. & O. Rd., became the bride of Charles W. Patterson Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Patterson of Clark Ave., Wellsville, on May 19 in the Oak Ridge Presbyterian Church.

The Rev. Ernest Bacon, pastor, officiated for the 7 o'clock, double-ring ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white sheath with blue bolero jacket and a half-hat with circular veil. She carried a white Bible topped with a spray of lily-of-the-valley. Observing the traditions, she borrowed her mother's cultured pearl earrings and necklace.

Mrs. Naomi Laughlin was matron of honor and wore a white ensemble with white carnation corsage. Robert Raffa of Wellsville was best man.

The mother of the bride wore a spring print and the bridegroom's mother chose a Navy dress. Both wore white carnation corsages.

A reception for 30 followed in the social rooms. The bridegroom served three years in the Army, most of the time in Korea. He is employed by the Beatty Construction Co.

The newlyweds are residing temporarily with the bride's parents.

Miss Phyllis Stoneburner, coleader, presented homemaking badges to Miss Springer, Miss Thornberry, Miss Summers, Sharon Luman, Patty Durham, Debie Weills and Debie McIntosh. Other troop members who earned this badge were Margaret Cawthon, Debie Cox and Debie Robinson.

Miss Thornberry and Miss McIntosh received adventurer badges. Pins for active participation the past year were presented Miss Cronin, Miss McIntosh, Miss Meador, Miss Springer, Miss Summers, Miss Thornberry, Miss Miller, and Miss Durham. Others who earned the award were Miss Cawthon, Miss Fitch, Miss Osborne and Miss Robinson.

Guests introduced were Mrs. Helen Doane, Mrs. George Bourne, Mrs. Ruth Sprouse, Mrs. Francis Stephens, Mrs. Donald Thornberry and Mrs. Charles France. Refreshments were served. The troop will not have regular meetings this summer but will hold various activities each month.

Medical Aide Hired For Beaver Home

BEAVER — Dr. Guy Sugert of Beaver was hired Friday by Beaver County Commissioners to aid his brother, Dr. John Sugert, at the Beaver County Home and Hospital.

Commissioners said aid is needed because of the increased patient load. Dr. Guy Sugert will receive $2,000 for the remainder of this year.

Commissioners urged the State Highway Department to expedite the lighting of the Beaver-Rochester bridge.

The commissioners also completed plans for the Memorial Day holiday at the county park. Roads in the park were to be oiled today and the beach at Brady's Run was to be tilled. They also approved $1,879 for flags for veterans' graves.

Ex-OSU Professor Dies At 76 In Turkey

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Dr. James D. Grossman, 76, former professor and chairman of the department of veterinary anatomy in Ohio State University's College of Veterinary Medicine, has died while on an extensive tour of Europe.

Dr. Grossman, who lives in Westerville, died in an Istanbul, Turkey, hospital after undergoing surgery. He had suffered a brain concussion in a fall in his hotel room last Thursday.

He was on OSU's staff from 1919 until his retirement in 1954.

There was entertainment and dancing. An Akron disc jockey played records and professional talent was on the program.

State's Demands For Hancock Aid Aired At Meeting

Hancock County commissioners conferred for three hours Thursday afternoon with N. H. Dyer, West Virginia health director.

Dyer has been authorized to withhold state funds from Hancock County if its Board of Health does not follow personnel requirements of the State Merit System.

The County Health Department received $2,800 from the state agency this year for operations, while County Court provided $32,000.

Dyer is reported to have asked commissioners to follow the State Merit System policies and name a five - member Health Board and follow merit system salary schedules.

Commissioners said it is not compulsory that they follow the merit system plan. However, there was no ruling made on the proposal. The meeting was held in the Courthouse in New Cumberland.

Faces Indictment

CINCINNATI (AP)—Carl Bobby Roseman, 23, of Cincinnati faces an indictment on a first-degree murder charge in the bludgeon death of Robert Gau, 46, a supply company clerk. Police said Roseman, a laborer, admitted killing Gau and taking a cashbox last April 4 after Gau refused him credit for sand and gravel.

Bettis Explains Stand On Stamp Repealer

State Rep. Warren Bettis (R) said today he voted against a House-approved bill to abolish use of sales tax stamps this week because he questions the savings claimed for the plan and it would eliminate redemption of stamps by benevolent groups such as PTA's and churches.

Bettis said the plan calls for the hiring of additional auditors which will cost the state some $10 million annually, according to one critic of the bill.

He said amendments were made to the bill to satisfy larger department stores, but little if any consideration was given the groups who spend many hours in collecting the stamps and provide a service which cannot be furnished in any other way.

Wellsville FOP Units Will Sponsor Carnival

The annual carnival, sponsored jointly by the Wellsville Fraternal Order of Police Lodge and its civilian affiliate, GOP Associates, will be held Monday through Saturday, June 3.

The carnival is held to finance civic activities such as the public Halloween party and teen - age record hops.

The Paulson Amusement Co. of Coshocton will provide the rides, setting them up at Central Park at 13th St. They are scheduled to arrive Sunday from Sandusky.

Bernard Ference, chairman, said there will be five adult and four children rides. Both lodges also will operate concession stands.

The carnival will be open daily from 6:30 to 11 p.m. Matinee performances will be held Tuesday — Memorial Day — and June 3 at 1 p.m.

Landlocked Pirates

PITTSFIELD, Mass. (AP) — Russell Oickle saw no reason for worry when he parked his 14-foot rowboat on his front lawn in this landlocked city high in the Berkshire Hills. But before the afternoon was over, somebody had stolen the boat right off the lawn.

County's House Members Voted 4 Passed Bills

State Rep. Clarence Wetzel and Rep. Warren Bettis voted in favor of four Ohio House bills which passed this week, and split on a fifth, while State Sen. Arthur Blake and Sen. Edmund Sargus voted together on three other measures which passed.

Bettis and Wetzel supported bills to permit duck hunting on Sunday, providing a 40-hour week for non - teaching school employes, eliminating fees and requiring loyality oaths of Civil Service applicants and to prohibit unfair competition in the dairy industry.

Bettis voted against a bill to abolish sales tax stamps, while Wetzel backed the measure, which passed.

Wetzel voted against bills to permit the PUCO to assess part of railroad crossing signal costs to the public and to raise the limit on non-voted county building debts, both of which passed. He voted in favor of a bill to tighten billboard restrictions on interstate highways. Bettis did not vote on these three measures.

Sargus and Blake voted in favor of bills to permit certification of school administration personnel, to permit the PUCO to overrule local zoning regulations and to reduce the vote needed to pass school levies at special elections, all of which passed.

Merchants To Induct New Officers June 6

The East Liverpool Merchants Association will install new officers at its monthly meeting Tuesday, June 6, at 9:30 a. m. in the Chamber of Commerce office.

Balloting by mail has been under way since a slate of nominees was presented at the May meeting. Friday is the deadline for return of ballots. Don Eckert is the incumbent president.

The ELMA summer program will be discussed and reports will be given on the recent spring outing and Steelmark Days promotion.

English has been adopted as the second language of Indonesia.

Party Honors Class At Taft

A program of round and square dancing and skits highlighted the Taft School's sixth grade party Friday evening. About 34 attended.

James McManus gave a magic show, "Fashions In Magic."

A Maypole theme was used with pastel streamers extending from the pole to the various sides of the room.

gifts were presented by the class to Milton Watson, principal; John Call, custodian, and Mrs. Virginia Futhey, teacher.

Refreshments were served by the mothers of the pupils with Mrs. Sanford Weiner chairman.

The graduates are Billy Ash, William Bartram, Raymond Beadnell, Gary Caruso, Robert Edwards, William Frait, Clyde Gaston, John Gerace, Robert Ibbs, David Kelly, Tommy Mayers, Michael Orr, William Pickin, Danny Smith.

Danny Standley, Jay Welch, Jerry Wood, Nancy Beatty, Pamela Bowersock, Mary Cartwright, Loretta Coburn, Marjorie Coburn, Aline Fisher, Marilyn Green, Vicki Harris, Pamela Lacey, Cheryl Manning, Phyllis McManus, Sherri Miller, Jill Myers, Barbara Rohrer, Margie Siddel, Linda Stoppe and Laura Weiner.

The students will enter the Westgate School in the fall.

Notice To Farmers Slightly Confusing

ELMIRA, N. Y. (AP) — An Extension Service notice, informing poultry farmers of a tour of other farms, was not intended to be a white-tie affair, but some people misinterpreted a note at the bottom. It said:

"Please dress in clothes and foot-gear that you don't wear in your own buildings."

Officials said it was only a method of preventing poultry diseases from being spread.

It takes 10 million tons of peanuts a year to satisfy the world's craving for them.

Seniors Guest Late-Cited For Stop Violation!

SALINEVILLE — Things were really in a dither for a short time at Southern Local's commencement exercises Friday night at Salineville High School — the principal speaker did not arrive on time.

But Dr. Roger M. Shaw, professor of education at Kent State University, had a very good reason — he was stopped by village police for running a stop sign just as he entered town.

Jack Baker, executive head of Southern Local Schools, said he was really beginning to get worried when Dr. Shaw did not arrive.

Shaw was arrested by Police Chief Cleo Mellott at the intersection of Route 39 and E. Main St.

Mellott said Shaw passed him in the cruiser, another car and pulled through the sign in front of two large trucks.

Shaw posted a $7 bond for a hearing Monday night.

Despite the incident and the fact he was 10 minutes late, Dr. Shaw gave what school officials termed an excellent talk on the topic "That's a Diploma, Son."

A capacity crowd of over 500 attended the ceremony. Ruth Ann Davis gave the valedictorian address and Sandra Lee Cole presented the salutatorian address for the 49 graduates.

Seniors Guest Late-Cited For Stop Violation!

SALINEVILLE — Things were really in a dither for a short time at Southern Local's commencement exercises Friday night at Salineville High School — the principal speaker did not arrive on time.

But Dr. Roger M. Shaw, professor of education at Kent State University, had a very good reason — he was stopped by village police for running a stop sign just as he entered town.

Jack Baker, executive head of Southern Local Schools, said he was really beginning to get worried when Dr. Shaw did not arrive.

Shaw was arrested by Police Chief Cleo Mellott at the intersection of Route 39 and E. Main St.

Mellott said Shaw passed him in the cruiser, another car and pulled through the sign in front of two large trucks.

Shaw posted a $7 bond for a hearing Monday night.

Despite the incident and the fact he was 10 minutes late, Dr. Shaw gave what school officials termed an excellent talk on the topic "That's a Diploma, Son."

A capacity crowd of over 500 attended the ceremony. Ruth Ann Davis gave the valedictorian address and Sandra Lee Cole presented the salutatorian address for the 40 graduates.

Spahn Wins 293rd; Cards Lace Bucs; Tigers Tripped

Giants Shade Cubs To Pick Up Full Game

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Southpaw Warren Spahn, beating the Dodgers two times in one season for the first time in 10 years, gained the 293rd victory of his National League career as the Milwaukee Braves rapped Los Angeles 10-2 Friday night. First place San Francisco defeated the Chicago Cubs 3-2 in 13 innings and picked up a full game over both Los Angeles and Pittsburgh, virtually tied for second, when the Pirates were whipped 12-2 at St. Louis.

Philadelphia's game at Cincinnati was postponed because of cold.

Spahn, now 5-3, nailed his sixth complete game while allowing seven hits, three of them bunt singles. The fifth place Braves backing Spahn with four double plays, also had seven hits, but two were home runs. Frank Thomas hit the 200th of his career, a two-run jolt, and the other was a solo shot by Hank Aaron, who was saved by his plastic helmet when hit by a pitch by loser Stan Williams (3-3).

The Dodgers are .003 behind Pittsburgh on a percentage basis, but because of a difference in games played, they trail San Francisco by only 1½ games while the Pirates are two games back of the Giants.

Ken Boyer, after going 15 games without driving in a run for the Cardinals, hit a pair of homers and collected six RBI against the Bucs. He hit a three-run shot that wrapped it up in the first inning against Bob Friend (5-5), who now has lost five in a row as a starter. The Pirates had 10 hits, just one less than St. Louis, but gave up five unearned runs on six errors. Southpaw Curt Simmons (2-3) won it, pitching his first complete game on the eighth try.

The Giants scored a pair of unearned runs in the 13th off reliever Don Elston (5-4) for their sixth in a row over the Cubs. Harvey Kuenn drove in a run for a 1-1 tie in the eighth inning, then singled home the lead run. The clincher scored on an error by outfielder Billy Williams. Sam Jones (4-3) was the winner in his first relief job of the season.

White Sox Send Score To Minors On Option

NEW YORK (AP) — Herb Score, once a million-dollar pitching ace, is back in the minors today, hopeful he can shake the wildness that has been a monkey on his back since he was all but knocked out of baseball four years ago.

The Chicago White Sox, stumbling along at the bottom of the American League, optioned the 27-year-old left-hander to San Diego of the Pacific Coast League Friday night.

"We had a long talk with Herb," said Manager Al Lopez, "and we told him we thought this would be the best thing for him. We feel he has to be someplace where he can pitch every fourth day, someplace where if he gets into trouble, he can stay in and pitch himself out of it.

"We couldn't afford to let him do that up here."

If Score has had one "beef" in the past couple of seasons it has been over the excuses sportswriters have made for him. "I appreciate what they're trying to do for me," he has said, "but I want no alibis. I don't deserve them. I'm just not pitching the way I used to."

The "alibis", as Score chose to call them, concerned, of course, his injury in 1957 — when he was pitching for Cleveland and was struck in the eye by a line drive by Gil McDougald of the Yankees. There was, at first, serious concern over whether he could retain sight in the eye, much less return to the mound.

Before that injury, Score had won 16 games and had led the AL with 245 strikeouts as a rookie in 1955. The following year he won 20 and led the league with five shutouts and 263 strikeouts. It was then that Boston offered a million dollars for Herb.

Bradley Dismisses 2 In Cage Bribe Offer

PEORIA, Ill. (AP) — Bradley University has ordered the dismissal of two basketball players listed by the New York district attorney's office as having rejected bribe offers but failing to report them to authorities.

They are senior Alphra Saunders and sophomore James (Tim) Robinson. Both are Chicago high school graduates.

The action touched off a demonstration at night by 500 students. Ed King, dean of men, was hanged in effigy and the dummy thrown on a huge bonfire. Later six police squad cars blocked off a section of downtown Peoria and broke up a motor cavalcade of 30 to 50 cars of shouting students.

A university source said the two players will be able to take part in next week's final examinations and will receive semester grades, but they will not be permitted to return to the school after June 2.

Palmer Leads By 3 In Indianapolis Golf

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Arnold Palmer, cut off after three rounds of the first "500 Festival" Open Golf Tournament last year, today was in little danger of that humiliation in the renewed $50,000 event.

He led the field with 67-70—137, 5 under par, midway in the frost-bitten tourney over the Indianapolis Motor Speedway course, half of it inside the big track.

Gary Player of South Africa, leading money winner on the U.S. pro circuit, wore four sweaters while shooting his second straight 1-under-par 70. He was 3 strokes off Palmer's pace.

Senators Nip Twins; 3 Tilts Are Called Off

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Los Angeles Angels beat Detroit and seven-game winner Frank Lary 5-4 Friday night on three unearned runs and a tie-breaking double by Earl Averill. The loss cut Detroit's American League lead to three games and hoisted the Angels out of last place, by a half-game over the Chicago White Sox.

Washington defeated the Minnesota Twins 4-3 in the only other game played in the AL. Kansas City-Cleveland, Chicago-New York and Boston-Baltimore were postponed because of rain and cold.

The Angels collected nine hits off Lary, who struck out six, and twice came from behind before Ken Hunt singled and came home on Averill's double in the eighth. Ryne Duren, relieving starter Ronnie Kline after Rocky Colavito's two-run homer had tied it in the seventh, blanked the Tigers without a hit over the last 2 1-3 innings for his first victory in four decisions.

The Senators, just a game behind the fifth place Twins, also came from behind twice, handing lefty Jim Kaat (1-4) his fourth straight defeat on a two-run single by Harry Bright in the sixth inning. Washington now is 2-2 against Minnesota and right-handed rookie Joe McClain (5-3) has pitched both victories, getting this one with a seven-hitter.

Lennie Green of the Twins doubled and extended his hitting streak to 23 games, longest in the majors since Ken Boyer hit 29 for the St. Louis Cardinals in 1959.

IC4A Plans New Try Today After Rain Halts Start

NEW YORK (AP)—After one false start, the IC4A track and field championships will have another try at it today at Randalls Island Stadium.

Trials in 13 events were supposed to be held Friday but a violent rainstorm forced a postponement.

Trials in the broad jump, hammer throw and javelin throw were in progress when the storm hit. So both trials and the 18 finals were postponed.

It was the first time in the 85-year history of the IC4A championships that weather actually interfered.

But it shouldn't make any difference in the final result. Villanova, with every member of last year's winning team back except John Buckley, remained the overwhelming choice.

Penn State, Yale, Maryland and Manhattan will be involved in a four-way scramble for the other top spots.

West Virginia Youth Signed By Pirates

NITRO, W.Va. (AP) — All-around sports star, Darrell Gibson, has signed a baseball contract with the Pittsburgh Pirates.

The 18-year-old athlete will report to the Newport, Tenn., team in the all-rookie Applachian League before June 9. Gibson, all-state back on Nitro's unbeaten football team last fall, was given an undisclosed bonus for signing.

The youth hit .405 this spring and had a 2-1 pitching record for the Wildcats' baseball team.

Present plans call for Gibson to be given a try at second base when he reports to the rookie league.

Demaret, Snead Set For U.S. In Cup Play

NEW YORK (AP)—Golf's cash rewards have become so great that the two top money winners of the game can't afford to risk suspension from the PGA tour to represent their countries in one of the world's outstanding international competitions.

As a result a couple of gay gaffers, a century old today, Jimmy Demaret and Sam Snead, will carry Uncle Sam's colors in the Canada Cup international matches at Dorado Beach, Puerto Rico, next Thursday through Sunday.

Potters' Second Leading Scorer

Miller Accepts Four-Year Scholarship To Toledo U.

Kenny Miller, key rebounder and second leading scorer on the Potter basketball team this past season, has accepted a four-year athletic scholarship to the University of Toledo.

Miller was part of the Potters' one-two scoring punch this past season along with Kenny Cunningham. During his senior year Miller scored 345 points and was named to the honorable mention list on the All-Ohio squad.

The 6-foot cager has unusual jumping ability for his size and was one of the team's leading rebounders.

At Toledo, Coach Eddie Melvin plans to use Miller at a guard spot. "Miller is a real intelligent boy and shows it on the basketball floor," Melvin said.

"He is the style of guard we want. He uses his head out there and is aggressive defensively."

A member of the National Honor Society and president of the student council, Miller received a trophy at the conclusion of the season for being the team's best foul shot.

Miller turned down a similar offer from Duquesne University in favor of Toledo because the Ohio college has a school of engineering.

Miller is the second player off East Liverpool's starting five who has been awarded a four-year athletic scholarship. Cunningham earlier accepted a four-year grant in aid to the University of Cincinnati.

Ray Bigelow, Potter pivot man on the 1959-60 team, is a freshman at Toledo and will be a candidate for the cage squad.

Miller in listing reasons why he picked Toledo said: "Toledo plays a good schedule and Coach Melvin's system is similar to what Coach Harris uses. I think I would stand a better chance to make the team at Toledo and I would rather go to an Ohio school."

Miller broke in to the Potter lineup midway through his sophomore season of 1958-59, and remained in the starting five ever since. Like Cunningham, Miller played his junior high basketball at East Junior.

Track Titles Pinned On Final Events Today

By FRITZ HOWELL
Associated Press Sports Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Talent was so scattered that the winners of Ohio's 54th high school track-field championships probably will be decided today in the final events—Class AA and Class A mile relays.

No one emerged from Friday's qualifiers as a probable king of the cinder stars, and at least a half-dozen schools in each division had a chance today to grab the championships.

While the cold weather was halting all attempts at records in the qualifying races, some interesting incidents popped up in the other sectors of the four-ply spring sports carnival.

Clark Graebner of Lakewood, bidding to become the first to take the tennis singles three straight years since Davis Cupper Tony Trabert did it for Cincinnati Walnut Hills in 1946-47-48, swept over two opponents without losing a game to reach the semi-finals.

Cincinnati Elder, Class AA baseball champion the last three years, was dumped 3-2 by Cleveland South, and the up-staters meet Lima Senior today for the championship. Lima nudged Lancaster 2-1. Baltimore Liberty-Union, the defending Class A king, handed Coldwater its first loss in 20 starts, 7-1, and meets Windham today. Windham smothered The Plains, 14-2.

Akron Buchtel, hoping to become the first Rubber City team to take the golf title since St. Vincent triumphed in the 1927 inaugural, scored a four-man 333 in Friday's first round to tie Kettering Fairmont for the lead at the halfway mark.

Upper Arlington's defending champions were three strokes back. Bob Littler of Athens and Orville Sentman of Fremont Ross toured the 7,120-yard par 72 University course in 77 strokes to lead the medalists.

In Friday's track-field qualifiers Dayton Roosevelt placed in seven events, Cleveland East Tech and Dayton Dunbar in six, and Springfield in five, to pace the Class AA contingent.

But there was a hunch going around that Akron Buchtel might emerge as the big victor. Buchtel got away to a lead Friday as Bill Loue won the discus, only Class AA final of the day, with a 166-foot 6½-inch heave.

Barry Sugden then led the quarter-mile qualifiers, placed in the 220-yard list, and anchored the mile relay team to the best time of the day. In addition, Butchel has talent in the shot put and pole vault—maybe just enough to turn the trick.

Cleveland Glenville's champs of the last two years appeared out of the title scrap.

Paulding's Class A victors of 1960 still had a chance to repeat, qualifying in three events to tie Mount Gilead, Cincinnati DePorres, Burton and Montpelier. Fairport Harbor and Twinsburg led the list with four.

Pleasant of Marion County got the jump on the other Class A teams as three field events were completed Friday. The Pleasant three-man team won the pole vault, tied for second in the same event, and picked up a point for fifth in the shot put for a total of 10 which put it four ahead of the field.

Line Drive Injures Pirates' George Witt

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Pitcher George Witt of the Pittsburgh Pirates will be out a few days because of a severe bruise of the right ankle and a sprained left ankle, suffered in the eighth inning Friday night when he was struck by a St. Louis line drive.

X-rays disclosed no fracture. The right-hander was carried from the field on a stretcher. The drive was hit by Cardinal outfielder Don Taussig.

Carburetion Test Slated At Speedway

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) —It was carburetion test day on the Indianapolis Speedway today, a final shakedown for the 33 daredevil pilots who will defy death or destruction in the golden anniversary 500-mile auto race Tuesday.

Between 30 minutes and an hour, one of the best collections of sleek, snarling machines ever entered in this classic motor event will swirl around the 2½-mile "brickyard" as anxious crews look for failings.

There never has been a fatal accident in this final warmup for the big Memorial Day race, although in 1941 Sam Hanks, now speedway director of competition, flipped when his engine locked up and his car was knocked out of the race. However, Hanks escaped uninjured.

The preliminaries to this year's 500 have been grim with veteran Tony Bettenhausen, trying for his first triumph in 15 starts, killed in a May 11 practice spin. In all, 11 cars hit the wall since the track opened for practice May 1.

Waterford Park Names Turner Medical Director

Dr. A. L. Turner of East Liverpool has accepted the position of medical director of Waterford Park, effective with the opening of racing on July 3.

He has practiced in East Liverpool for the last 40 years and now is associated with his sons, Dr. K. W. Turner and Dr. A. A. Turner.

It is Dr. Turner's plan to retire from general practice and during the summer months handle his duties at Waterford Park.

Mrs. Jane F. Jolly of Glenmoor will continue in her position as track nurse in Dr. Turner's office.

Volleyball Tourney Set For Church Teams

Four teams with a possibility of a fifth entry will participate in the annual Church Volleyball tournament scheduled for the YMCA gym Saturday at 7 p. m.

Last year's champions, First Nazarene Church, have won the first leg on the "traveling" trophy, and will be back in an effort to make it two in a row.

Calvary Methodist, St. John's Lutheran, First United Presbyterian and possibiy Chester Christian Church will enter teams.

All games will be played on a basis of the best two out of three with a trophy and emblems going to the winners.

Bradley Dismisses 2 In Cage Bribe Offer

PEORIA, Ill. (AP) — Bradley University has ordered the dismissal of two basketball players listed by the New York district attorney's office as having rejected bribe offers but failing to report them to authorities.

They are senior Alphra Saunders and sophomore James (Tim) Robinson. Both are Chicago high school graduates.

The action touched off a demonstration at night by 500 students. Ed King, dean of men, was hanged in effigy and the dummy thrown on a huge bonfire. Later six police squad cars blocked off a section of downtown Peoria and broke up a motor cavalcade of 30 to 50 cars of shouting students.

A university source said the two players will be able to take part in next week's final examinations and will receive semester grades, but they will not be permitted to return to the school after June 2.

Palmer Leads By 3 In Indianapolis Golf

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Arnold Palmer, cut off after three rounds of the first "500 Festival" Open Golf Tournament last year, today was in little danger of that humiliation in the renewed $50,000 event.

He led the field with 67-70—137, 5 under par, midway in the frost-bitten tourney over the Indianapolis Motor Speedway course, half of it inside the big track.

Gary Player of South Africa, leading money winner on the U.S. pro circuit, wore four sweaters while shooting his second straight 1-under-par 70. He was 3 strokes off Palmer's pace.

Senators Nip Twins; 3 Tilts Are Called Off

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Los Angeles Angels beat Detroit and seven-game winner Frank Lary 5-4 Friday night on three unearned runs and a tie-breaking double by Earl Averill. The loss cut Detroit's American League lead to three games and hoisted the Angels out of last place, by a half-game over the Chicago White Sox.

Washington defeated the Minnesota Twins 4-3 in the only other game played in the AL. Kansas City-Cleveland, Chicago-New York and Boston-Baltimore were postponed because of rain and cold.

The Angels collected nine hits off Lary, who struck out six, and twice came from behind before Ken Hunt singled and came home on Averill's double in the eighth. Ryne Duren, relieving starter Ronnie Kline after Rocky Colavito's two-run homer had tied it in the seventh, blanked the Tigers without a hit over the last 2 1-3 innings for his first victory in four decisions.

The Senators, just a game behind the fifth place Twins, also came from behind twice, handing lefty Jim Kaat (1-4) his fourth straight defeat on a two-run single by Harry Bright in the sixth inning. Washington now is 2-2 against Minnesota and right-handed rookie Joe McClain (5-3) has pitched both victories, getting this one with a seven-hitter.

Lennie Green of the Twins doubled and extended his hitting streak to 23 games, longest in the majors since Ken Boyer hit 29 for the St. Louis Cardinals in 1959.

IC4A Plans New Try Today After Rain Halts Start

NEW YORK (AP)—After one false start, the IC4A track and field championships will have another try at it today at Randalls Island Stadium.

Trials in 13 events were supposed to be held Friday but a violent rainstorm forced a postponement.

Trials in the broad jump, hammer throw and javelin throw were in progress when the storm hit. So both trials and the 18 finals were postponed.

It was the first time in the 85-year history of the IC4A championships that weather actually interfered.

But it shouldn't make any difference in the final result. Villanova, with every member of last year's winning team back except John Buckley, remained the overwhelming choice.

Penn State, Yale, Maryland and Manhattan will be involved in a four-way scramble for the other top spots.

West Virginia Youth Signed By Pirates

NITRO, W.Va. (AP) — All-around sports star, Darrell Gibson, has signed a baseball contract with the Pittsburgh Pirates.

The 18-year-old athlete will report to the Newport, Tenn., team in the all-rookie Applachian League before June 9. Gibson, all-state back on Nitro's unbeaten football team last fall, was given an undisclosed bonus for signing.

The youth hit .405 this spring and had a 2-1 pitching record for the Wildcats' baseball team.

Present plans call for Gibson to be given a try at second base when he reports to the rookie league.

Demaret, Snead Set For U.S. In Cup Play

NEW YORK (AP)—Golf's cash rewards have become so great that the two top money winners of the game can't afford to risk suspension from the PGA tour to represent their countries in one of the world's outstanding international competitions.

As a result a couple of gay gaffers, a century old today, Jimmy Demaret and Sam Snead, will carry Uncle Sam's colors in the Canada Cup international matches at Dorado Beach, Puerto Rico, next Thursday through Sunday.

Potters' Second Leading Scorer

Miller Accepts Four-Year Scholarship To Toledo U.

Kenny Miller, key rebounder and second leading scorer on the Potter basketball team this past season, has accepted a four-year athletic scholarship to the University of Toledo.

Miller was part of the Potters' one-two scoring punch this past season along with Kenny Cunningham. During his senior year Miller scored 345 points and was named to the honorable mention list on the All-Ohio squad.

The 6-foot cager has unusual jumping ability for his size and was one of the team's leading rebounders.

At Toledo, Coach Eddie Melvin plans to use Miller at a guard spot. "Miller is a real intelligent boy and shows it on the basketball floor," Melvin said.

"He is the style of guard we want. He uses his head out there and is aggressive defensively."

A member of the National Honor Society and president of the student council, Miller received a trophy at the conclusion of the season for being the team's best foul shot.

Miller turned down a similar offer from Duquesne University in favor of Toledo because the Ohio college has a school of engineering.

Miller is the second player off East Liverpool's starting five who has been awarded a four-year athletic scholarship. Cunningham earlier accepted a four-year grant in aid to the University of Cincinnati.

Ray Bigelow, Potter pivot man on the 1959-60 team, is a freshman at Toledo and will be a candidate for the cage squad.

Miller in listing reasons why he picked Toledo said: "Toledo plays a good schedule and Coach Melvin's system is similar to what Coach Harris uses. I think I would stand a better chance to make the team at Toledo and I would rather go to an Ohio school."

Miller broke in to the Potter lineup midway through his sophomore season of 1958-59, and remained in the starting five ever since. Like Cunningham, Miller played his junior high basketball at East Junior.

Track Titles Pinned On Final Events Today

By FRITZ HOWELL
Associated Press Sports Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Talent was so scattered that the winners of Ohio's 54th high school track-field championships probably will be decided today in the final events—Class AA and Class A mile relays.

No one emerged from Friday's qualifiers as a probable king of the cinder stars, and at least a half-dozen schools in each division had a chance today to grab the championships.

While the cold weather was halting all attempts at records in the qualifying races, some interesting incidents popped up in the other sectors of the four-ply spring sports carnival.

Clark Graebner of Lakewood, bidding to become the first to take the tennis singles three straight years since Davis Cupper Tony Trabert did it for Cincinnati Walnut Hills in 1946-47-48, swept over two opponents without losing a game to reach the semi-finals.

Cincinnati Elder, Class AA baseball champion the last three years, was dumped 3-2 by Cleveland South, and the up-staters meet Lima Senior today for the championship. Lima nudged Lancaster 2-1. Baltimore Liberty-Union, the defending Class A king, handed Coldwater its first loss in 20 starts, 7-1, and meets Windham today. Windham smothered The Plains, 14-2.

Akron Buchtel, hoping to become the first Rubber City team to take the golf title since St. Vincent triumphed in the 1927 inaugural, scored a four-man 333 in Friday's first round to tie Kettering Fairmont for the lead at the halfway mark.

Upper Arlington's defending champions were three strokes back. Bob Littler of Athens and Orville Sentman of Fremont Ross toured the 7,120-yard par 72 University course in 77 strokes to lead the medalists.

In Friday's track-field qualifiers Dayton Roosevelt placed in seven events, Cleveland East Tech and Dayton Dunbar in six, and Springfield in five, to pace the Class AA contingent.

But there was a hunch going around that Akron Buchtel might emerge as the big victor. Buchtel got away to a lead Friday as Bill Loue won the discus, only Class AA final of the day, with a 166-foot 6½-inch heave.

Barry Sugden then led the quarter-mile qualifiers, placed in the 220-yard list, and anchored the mile relay team to the best time of the day. In addition, Butchel has talent in the shot put and pole vault—maybe just enough to turn the trick.

Cleveland Glenville's champs of the last two years appeared out of the title scrap.

Paulding's Class A victors of 1960 still had a chance to repeat, qualifying in three events to tie Mount Gilead, Cincinnati DePorres, Burton and Montpelier. Fairport Harbor and Twinsburg led the list with four.

Pleasant of Marion County got the jump on the other Class A teams as three field events were completed Friday. The Pleasant three-man team won the pole vault, tied for second in the same event, and picked up a point for fifth in the shot put for a total of 10 which put it four ahead of the field.

Line Drive Injures Pirates' George Witt

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Pitcher George Witt of the Pittsburgh Pirates will be out a few days because of a severe bruise of the right ankle and a sprained left ankle, suffered in the eighth inning Friday night when he was struck by a St. Louis line drive.

X-rays disclosed no fracture. The right-hander was carried from the field on a stretcher. The drive was hit by Cardinal outfielder Don Taussig.

Waterford Park Names Turner Medical Director

Dr. A. L. Turner of East Liverpool has accepted the position of medical director of Waterford Park, effective with the opening of racing on July 3.

He has practiced in East Liverpool for the last 40 years and now is associated with his sons, Dr. K. W. Turner and Dr. A. A. Turner.

It is Dr. Turner's plan to retire from general practice and during the summer months handle his duties at Waterford Park.

Mrs. Jane F. Jolly of Glenmoor will continue in her position as track nurse in Dr. Turner's office.

Volleyball Tourney Set For Church Teams

Four teams with a possibility of a fifth entry will participate in the annual Church Volleyball tournament scheduled for the YMCA gym Saturday at 7 p. m.

Last year's champions, First Nazarene Church, have won the first leg on the "traveling" trophy, and will be back in an effort to make it two in a row.

Calvary Methodist, St. John's Lutheran, First United Presbyterian and possibly Chester Christian Church will enter teams.

All games will be played on a basis of the best two out of three with a trophy and emblems going to the winners.

Boy Fatally Shot

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—David B. Johnson, 16, was shot and killed Friday night by a 13-year-old companion, Terry Wallace, police reported.

Carburetion Test Slated At Speedway

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) —It was carburetion test day on the Indianapolis Speedway today, a final shakedown for the 33 daredevil pilots who will defy death or destruction in the golden anniversary 500-mile auto race Tuesday.

Between 30 minutes and an hour, one of the best collections of sleek, snarling machines ever entered in this classic motor event will swirl around the 2½-mile "brickyard" as anxious crews look for failings.

There never has been a fatal accident in this final warmup for the big Memorial Day race, although in 1941 Sam Hanks, now speedway director of competition, flipped when his engine locked up and his car was knocked out of the race. However, Hanks escaped uninjured.

The preliminaries to this year's 500 have been grim with veteran Tony Bettenhausen, trying for his first triumph in 15 starts, killed in a May 11 practice spin. In all, 11 cars hit the wall since the track opened for practice May 1.

Tri-State Firemen's Meeting Attracts 48

Forty-eight attended a meeting of the Tri-State Firemen's Association Thursday night in Glenmoor.

A report on the spring fire school held in Wellsville May 7 and 14 was presented by Robert Lloyd, instructor. The average attendance was 150.

Plans were postponed for presenting badges to past presidents of the organization. It was decided to present pins to all past presidents since 1946, instead of only to the presidents since 1959.

Homer Cronin, president, conducted business. Glenmoor firemen served lunch to representatives of the nine departments belonging to the organization. The next meeting will be in August and the date will be announced, Fred Fryman, secretary, said.

Wellsville Parochial Pupils To Hold Picnic

A picnic the afternoon of June 7 will launch the annual summer vacation period for pupils attending the Wellsville Immaculate Conception Parochial School.

Regular classes are scheduled June 5-6, and a half-day on June 7. Awards will be presented at an assembly June 6.

Pupils will return to school June 9 for grades and promotions, Sister Francis Xavier, principal, reported.

The Catholic Mothers will hold the picnic June 7 with the site undecided.

Awards Presented Students During Salineville Assembly

SALINEVILLE — Scholarship, athletic and service awards were presented at the annual Senior Class assembly Wednesday at the high school.

Other awards included activities, Judy Kessler; basketball, Ronald Giannone; football, Ronald Dunlap; band, Mary Hunter; journalism, Linda Clark library, Joyce Jones.

The American Legion essay winner awards were given Sharon Kellison, ninth grade; Mary Mattox and Ray Mundy, juniors, and Ruth Davis, senior. Miss Davis and Mundy also received special cash awards for the best essays.

Mrs. Margaret Maher presented the Ladies Civic Club valedictorian and salutatorian awards to Miss Davis and Miss Sandra Cole.

New members of the National Honor Society recognized included Judy Kessler, Ruth Davis, Sandra Cole, Lynetet Phillips, Virginia Roberts, Mary Hunter, seniors, and Jack Baker and Darla Johnson, juniors.

Bill Burns received a medal for second place in the Columbiana County Science Fair.

Beaver Group Backs Lobbyists' Regulation

The South Beaver County Civic Association endorsed proposed state legislation regulating lobbies at its meeting Thursday night in Beaver.

The group voted the endorsement of House Bill 283 providing for regulation of lobbyists and their activities. Leo O'Mara, president, presided.

Preceding the meeting, 22 members toured the plant of the Beaver Valley Times. The next meeting will be June 29.

Auditor's Office To Make List Of City-Owned Land

City Auditor Lawrence C. Applegate said today he has started compiling a list of all city - owned property to make up a "real property ledger," probably the first complete list of land and buildings to which the municipality holds title.

The ledger will show the location of each piece of property, the dimensions of the lot, the purpose for which the property was obtained and the use to which it now is being put, Appplegate said. The locations will be identified by wards and precincts as well as data on records in the Courthouse at Lisbon, he said.

"A current inventory of property is essential not only from the standpoint of accounting for physical assets, but also as an aid in meeting the requirements of various city departments," Applegate said. "Records of available city-owned land also will help provide accurate information for city planning agencies."

Although the work has just begun, Applegate said his list already shows 36 pieces of city-owned property. In the case of city land being used by private individuals or firms, the auditor said he will determine under what arrangements the land is being utilized — for instance, on a lease basis — and whether the lease payments have been made to date.

State Board Elects Palestine Truck Head

EAST PALESTINE — Kenneth C. Herriott, president of the Herriott Trucking Co., has been elected to the Board of Trustees of the Ohio Trucking Association. He was named during the organization's 43rd annual meeting this week in Columbus.

Gail Herron of Salem, president of the Herron Transfer Co., was re-elected to the board.

Tri-State Firemen's Meeting Attracts 48

Forty-eight attended a meeting of the Tri-State Firemen's Association Thursday night in Glenmoor.

A report on the spring fire school held in Wellsville May 7 and 14 was presented by Robert Lloyd, instructor. The average attendance was 150.

Plans were postponed for presenting badges to past presidents of the organization. It was decided to present pins to all past presidents since 1946, instead of only to the presidents since 1959.

Homer Cronin, president, conducted business. Glenmoor firemen served lunch to representatives of the nine departments belonging to the organization. The next meeting will be in August and the date will be announced, Fred Fryman, secretary, said.

Wellsville Parochial Pupils To Hold Picnic

A picnic the afternoon of June 7 will launch the annual summer vacation period for pupils attending the Wellsville Immaculate Conception Parochial School.

Regular classes are scheduled June 5-6, and a half-day on June 7. Awards will be presented at an assembly June 6.

Pupils will return to school June 9 for grades and promotions, Sister Francis Xavier, principal, reported.

The Catholic Mothers will hold the picnic June 7 with the site undecided.

Awards Presented Students During Salineville Assembly

SALINEVILLE — Scholarship, athletic and service awards were presented at the annual Senior Class assembly Wednesday at the high school.

Other awards included activities, Judy Kessler; basketball, Ronald Giannone; football, Ronald Dunlap; band, Mary Hunter; journalism, Linda Clark library, Joyce Jones.

The American Legion essay winner awards were given Sharon Kellison, ninth grade; Mary Mattox and Ray Mundy, juniors, and Ruth Davis, senior. Miss Davis and Mundy also received special cash awards for the best essays.

Mrs. Margaret Maher presented the Ladies Civic Club valedictorian and salutatorian awards to Miss Davis and Miss Sandra Cole.

New members of the National Honor Society recognized included Judy Kessler, Ruth Davis, Sandra Cole, Lynetet Phillips, Virginia Roberts, Mary Hunter, seniors, and Jack Baker and Darla Johnson, juniors.

Bill Burns received a medal for second place in the Columbiana County Science Fair.

Beaver Group Backs Lobbyists' Regulation

The South Beaver County Civic Association endorsed proposed state legislation regulating lobbies at its meeting Thursday night in Beaver.

The group voted the endorsement of House Bill 283 providing for regulation of lobbyists and their activities. Leo O'Mara, president, presided.

Preceding the meeting, 22 members toured the plant of the Beaver Valley Times. The next meeting will be June 29.

Auditor's Office To Make List Of City-Owned Land

City Auditor Lawrence C. Applegate said today he has started compiling a list of all city-owned property to make up a "real property ledger," probably the first complete list of land and buildings to which the municipality holds title.

The ledger will show the location of each piece of property, the dimensions of the lot, the purpose for which the property was obtained and the use to which it now is being put, Appplegate said. The locations will be identified by wards and precincts as well as data on records in the Courthouse at Lisbon, he said.

"A current inventory of property is essential not only from the standpoint of accounting for physical assets, but also as an aid in meeting the requirements of various city departments," Applegate said. "Records of available city-owned land also will help provide accurate information for city planning agencies."

Although the work has just begun, Applegate said his list already shows 36 pieces of city-owned property. In the case of city land being used by private individuals or firms, the auditor said he will determine under what arrangements the land is being utilized — for instance, on a lease basis — and whether the lease payments have been made to date.

State Board Elects Palestine Truck Head

EAST PALESTINE — Kenneth C. Herriott, president of the Herriott Trucking Co., has been elected to the Board of Trustees of the Ohio Trucking Association. He was named during the organization's 43rd annual meeting this week in Columbus.

Gail Herron of Salem, president of the Herron Transfer Co., was re-elected to the board.

Dr. Bixler To Retire At Muskingum Sept. 1

NEW CONCORD, Ohio — Dr. Lorin E. Bixler, head of the Department of Education at Muskingum College, will retire Sept. 1 after 32 years of association with the college.

He is also the director of the Muskingum Summer School and the college's Placement Service.

Dr. Bixler came to Muskingum in 1929 from Ohio State University, where he was then studying toward his Doctor of Philosophy Degree which he obtained in 1931.

Dr. Bixler is a prominent layman in the Methodist Church and has served on many committees and commissions, including those of state and national level.

Texas Will Elect U.S. Senator Today

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Texans elect a senator today with a possibility of choosing the first Republican to that office from this state since Reconstruction days.

The candidates are William A. Blakley and John G. Tower, both staunch conservatives. Tower, the Republican, led the first primary, and this was quite something for Texas.

Fair weather is expected to bring out a million votes in today's runoff.

Granted Rate Hike

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Utilities Commission has granted the Ottawa Telephone Co. of Putnam County a 32 per cent increase in local service telephone rates. This amounts to a $20,476 yearly increase in revenue. The company had asked for an increase of $34,668. Ottawa Telephone operates about 1,700 telephones in the northwestern Ohio village of Ottawa.

Dr. Bixler To Retire At Muskingum Sept. 1

NEW CONCORD, Ohio — Dr. Lorin E. Bixler, head of the Department of Education at Muskingum College, will retire Sept. 1 after 32 years of association with the college.

He is also the director of the Muskingum Summer School and the college's Placement Service.

Dr. Bixler came to Muskingum in 1929 from Ohio State University, where he was then studying toward his Doctor of Philosophy Degree which he obtained in 1931.

Dr. Bixler is a prominent layman in the Methodist Church and has served on many committees and commissions, including those of state and national level.

Texas Will Elect U.S. Senator Today

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Texans elect a senator today with a possibility of choosing the first Republican to that office from this state since Reconstruction days.

The candidates are William A. Blakley and John G. Tower, both staunch conservatives. Tower, the Republican, led the first primary, and this was quite something for Texas.

Fair weather is expected to bring out a million votes in today's runoff.

Granted Rate Hike

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Utilities Commission has granted the Ottawa Telephone Co. of Putnam County a 32 per cent increase in local service telephone rates. This amounts to a $20,476 yearly increase in revenue. The company had asked for an increase of $34,668. Ottawa Telephone operates about 1,700 telephones in the northwestern Ohio village of Ottawa.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

2 IN MEMORIAM

IN loving memory of HELEN MOORE, who passed away 1 year ago, May 27th. We have lost our darling mother, She has bid us all adieu; She has gone to live in heaven, And her form is lost to view. Oh! that dear one, how we loved her. Oh! how hard to give her up! But an angel came down for her, And removed her from our flock. HER LOVING FAMILY.

3 CARDS OF THANKS

WE wish to express our heartfelt appreciation and sincere thanks for the many kindnesses extended to us during our recent bereavement in the loss of our beloved father, Chris Daniel Ludwig. Special thanks to relatives, friends and neighbors, Dawson Funeral Home, Rev. John Mostoller of First Church of Christ.

Spend Your Vacations at Lake Guilford—
Eastern Ohio's most popular vacation site. May we recommend the following?

(1) This is an all year home with living room, kitchen-dining room, bed room and bath. There is a partial basement with laundry space. Gas hot water heater and gas hot air heat. Excellent water from a 140' well; approved septic tank. This is a lake front lot but on a bank overlooking the lake. There is a 22' x 30' cement block garage large enough for two cars and a shop. This is priced at $11,800 and the owner will finance or will accept a trade.

(2) Another all-year home with very modern kitchen, dining room, living room with fireplace and semi-bath on the first floor; two bed rooms and full bath on second floor. This home has oil heat and is insulated for more comfortable summer and winter living. On out-of-state owner will consider an offer.

(3) This is a summer home that may readily be converted to an all year home. A beautiful lake front lot with excellent well. The home is completely furnished and is priced at only $6800. The owner will finance in part.

(4) Another summer home but this, too, can readily be used all year. There are two fireplaces plus hot and cold water. The place is completely furnished and is priced very reasonably at $9500. The owner will finance with small down payment to reliable party. For complete information on these and other Columbiana County homes, contact

Eastern Ohio's most popular vacation site. May we recommend the following?

(1) This is an all year home with living room, kitchen-dining room, bed room and bath. There is a partial basement with laundry space. Gas hot water heater and gas hot air heat. Excellent water from a 140' well; approved septic tank. This is a lake front lot but on a bank overlooking the lake. There is a 22' x 30' cement block garage large enough for two cars and a shop. This is priced at $11,800 and the owner will finance or will accept a trade.

(2) Another all-year home with very modern kitchen, dining room, living room with fireplace and semi-bath on the first floor; two bed rooms and full bath on second floor. This home has oil heat and is insulated for more comfortable summer and winter living. On out-of-state owner will consider an offer.

(3) This is a summer home that may readily be converted to an all year home. A beautiful lake front lot with excellent well. The home is completely furnished and is priced at only $6800. The owner will finance in part.

(4) Another summer home but this, too, can readily be used all year. There are two fireplaces plus hot and cold water. The place is completely furnished and is priced very reasonably at $9500. The owner will finance with small down payment to reliable party. For complete information on these and other Columbiana County homes, contact

Post Filled By Explorers

Joe Zubay of Campground Rd. was elected new secretary of Boy Scout Explorers Post 7 of East Liverpool at a meeting Thursday night in St. Aloysius Parochial School.

William Bulger, president, conducted business and plans were discussed for attending a conference in Columbus in June and for sponsoring a bake sale.

Eight members will attend the Reed Conference in Columbus June 25-28. Dave Couch was named chairman of a bake sale to be held in the next few weeks.

Members will meet with Zubay in his home tonight at 6 to work on projects. The post was to aid Girl Scouts in cleaning up Echo Dell camp today.

A wiener roast will be held for post members and their dates Thursday at the home of Jack Vincent of Glenmoor. Vincent, an associate advisor, is home on leave from the Navy. Members attending will assemble in front of St. Aloysius school.

The post has agreed to a maximum membership of 15. Next business meeting is Thursday in the school.

Parking Lot Plan Aired By Mayor, Business Group

Five members of the East Liverpool Merchants Association held a luncheon meeting Friday with Mayor Bert H. Goodballet to discuss legislation to convert the Ceramic Theater site into a city-operated parking lot — passed by Council May 16 and now awaiting the mayor's action.

There was a general discussion of the proposal, but the mayor did not indicate what action he intends to take, the ELMA group reported. The merchants association was represented by its downtown improvement committee, one of the principal proponents of the parking lot plan.

The mayor received the legislation Tuesday. He has until late next week to approve or veto the legislation or allow it to become law without his signature. The luncheon meeting was held at Tice's Restaurant. ELMA was represented by Edwin Maloney, Don Eckert, Ralph Finley, Ed Derr and W. Leland Thompson.

Council's legislation calls for the city to purchase the old building for $45,000, then raze it and convert the site to parking at an additional cost of $15,000.

Mrs. Sienerth Heads Rogers Mothers Club

Mrs. Dorothy Sienerth was elected president of the Rogers Elementary School Mothers Club at a meeting Thursday afternoon at the school. She succeeds Mrs. Jack Gumble.

Others named were Mrs. Grace Dailey, vice president; Mrs. Mabel Reeder, secretary; Mrs. Mary Hawkins, treasurer, and Mrs. Patsy Pancake, reporter.

Plans were made for the annual school picnic at noon June 2. Next meeting will be in September.

Health Board Plans Survey At Wellsville

Reports that a few houses in the city are uninhabitable from the standpoint of sanitation were discussed by the Wellsville Board of Health Thursday night in City Hall.

O. Bliss Kessel, city health officer, will investigate. Routine reports were heard. John H. Grafton, chairman, presided. Next meeting is June 29.

Those interested may contact Miss Harriet Mackall, treasurer.

A miscellaneous bridal shower honoring their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. James Laughlin, was held Wednesday night by Mr. and Mrs. John W. Laughlin.

The bride is the former Irene Golba, daughter of Mrs. Stanley Golba and the late Mr. Golba of East Liverpool. Forty attended.

Guests included Mrs. Golba and Charlotte Ferguson of East Liverpool, Mrs. William Graham and daughter of Chester, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Laughlin of Smiths Ferry R. D. 1, Mr. and Mrs. William Foster and son, John of Beaver and Mrs. Tedford McCormick and Mrs. Elmer Thomas of Aliquippa.

Hiscox Heads New Lisbon Jaycee Slate

LISBON — Twing Hiscox of Sunset Dr., affiliated with Summitville Tiles, Inc., was elected president of the Junior Chamber of Commerce at the annual meeting Wednesday night in the conference room at the H. K. Porter Co. plant. He succeeds Glenn Adams.

Others elected were Walter Thomas, vice president; Jack Hill, secretary; Blair Lewis, re-elected treasurer; Dean Rose, director, and Allen Dickey, state director.

Plans were made to work at the swimming pool this weekend to get it ready for the opening on Memorial Day. A drinking fountain, one of the Jaycees projects, will be made ready.

Chester Rites Will Be Held At Locust Hill

The program for Chester's Memorial Day service Tuesday has been completed, Mrs. Jan Dietz, chairman, announced today.

The community service will be held at 10 a. m. at Locust Hill Cemetery. The address will be given by Lt. Cmdr. R. E. Walters of the Navy Recruiting Station in Cleveland.

American Legion Post 121, headed by Anthony Amedeo, is sponsoring the service. Other uniformed groups will participate.

Leading off the program will be National Anthem by the Chester High School band. Amedeo will give the welcome. A vocal quartet from the Sweet Adelines Chapter, Mrs. Dietz, Marjorie Stover, Thea McSwegin and Wilma Laughlin, will sing "If We All Said a Prayer."

The Rev. C. Donald Vogel of the United Presbyterian Church will give the invocation. The high school band will present another selection. Following Lt. Cmdr. Walters' address, the quartet will sing "My Buddy."

Gold star mothers will place a memorial wreath. The mothers will be escorted by members of the Post 121 auxiliary. A firing squad will sound a volley and taps will be played.

Alton C. West, first vice commander, will be master of ceremonies. Sonarman 1C Frank L. Thompson, Navy recruiter, and Hewitt Howard, Americanism chairman of Post 121, are members of Mrs. Dietz's committee.

Other participating units are Lawrenceville Post 163 and auxiliary, VFW Post 6450, Girl Scout Troops 51 and 39, Brownie Troops 28 and 61, Cub Packs 25, 30 and 48, and Boy Scout Troops 26 and 27.

In event of rain, the service will be held in the Post 121 home.

Lisbon Legionnaires Will Decorate Graves

LISBON — Veterans' graves in 14 district cemeteries will be decorated over the weekend by American Legion Post 275.

Vance Brinker, commander, requested information on any veterans' graves which are unmarked or which do not indicate the deceased was in the armed services.

He said some graves are not decorated because the markers have been removed and the Legionnaires are unable to identify them.

His racing cars have flipped over, burst into flames, smashed into walls, but it's all in a day's work!

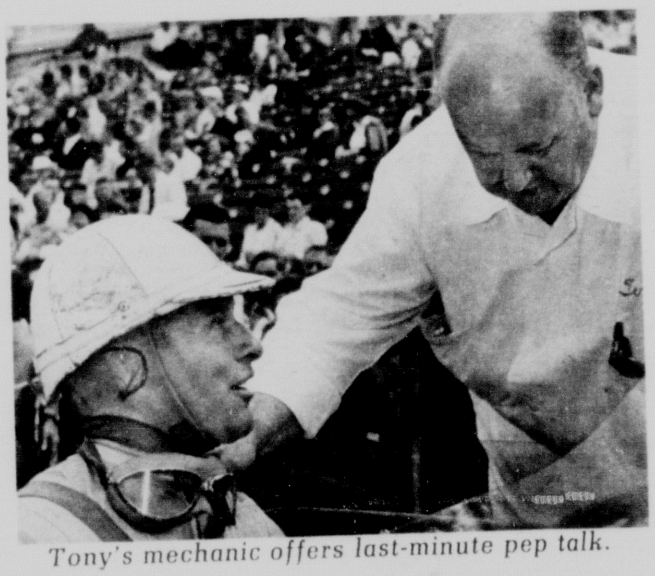
I LIVE WITH DANGER

By TONY BETTENHAUSEN
as told to Bill Surface

IN THE AUTOMOBILE-racing business, they call me "Flip." I've had so many bad accidents that I only count the times I've flipped over. At last inventory, the number was 28. That doesn't include crashing into concrete walls head-on or almost burning up.

Take, for example, the humid Aug. 18, 1954, when I was slowing down to 90 miles per hour on a turn in Chicago's sharply curved Soldier Field. My brakes went out, and I smashed into the concrete wall. I knew nothing about it until I regained consciousness five days later. I guess people think I'm crazy for not quitting racing.

But I've already quit—about a thousand races ago. I'm 44 years old now, and on my 32nd birthday—Sept. 12, 1948—I was just warming up for a midget race at DuQuoin, Ill., when my car burst into flames. I was burned so badly I couldn't get out of bed for three months. I quit racing permanently. But somebody offered me a car about six months later, and I couldn't say "no."



Tony's mechanic offers last-minute pep talk.

Why do I keep driving? First of all, this is the way I feed my wife and four children. And second, automobiles hypnotize me. Ever since I drove an Overland Touring car around our farm at Tinley Park, Ill., when I was nine years old, I've been in love with automobiles and speed. I even tore down the motor at the same age and reassembled it.

When other kids were cheering Babe Ruth, I was idolizing race drivers. After I saw Bill Cummins win the 1934 Indianapolis 500-mile race at the then-incredible speed of 104 mph, I decided I wanted to be a race driver. The fastest one alive.

No matter how dangerous this occupation looks, it is the livelihood I chose.

I consider myself an athlete, the same as baseball players or boxers. I keep in top physical shape. People can't expect me to give up racing any more than a bullfighter would run from the biggest bull or a mountain climber dodge the tallest peak.

In my 24 years of racing, I've faced the green starting flag and won more automobile races than any man alive, and I know that we race drivers aren't terrified, as most people assume. Good drivers know exactly where the real danger is in racing: inexperience and overanxiousness. We prepare for the worst.

Why, if I hadn't been prepared a year ago in the Indianapolis 500, I wouldn't be around for Tuesday's Memorial Day Classic. On the 127th lap, I was running smoothly in fourth place at 155 mph. Suddenly the connecting rod in my car snapped, the engine exploded into flames, and I was barreling straight for a concrete wall.

Instead of panicking, I made the safety moves I've practiced all my life. I stopped the crankshaft to minimize the blaze and rode the burning car into the pits, where they extinguished the blaze without endangering anyone else's life.

Driving a car anywhere—on a race track or a highway—is an important responsibility. If more motorists became accustomed to their cars and prepared for emergencies, then the National Safety Council's estimate of 390 deaths on the highways this weekend would be much lower.

Millions of people will be driving leisurely along the highways this weekend, and those who have heard of me probably think I'm crazy. I'll be fighting wheel for wheel, lap for lap, at breakneck speeds of up to 180 mph this Tuesday in the Indianapolis 500. That's the race in which I also hit a wall at 147 mph in 1958 and crashed into another wall at 147 mph in 1956.

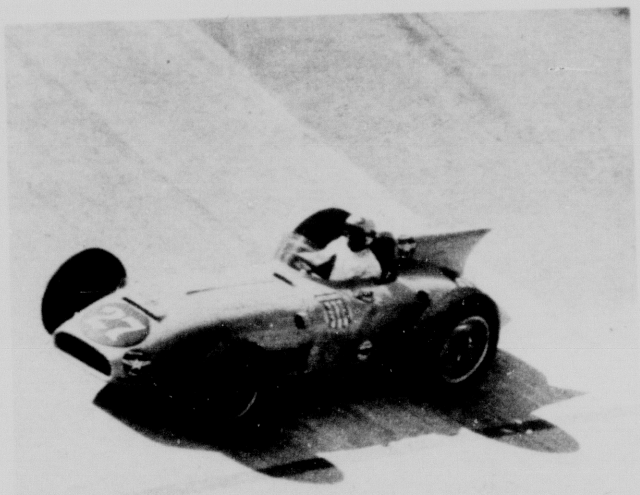
A frequent winner, Tony scores in a 100-miler.



Rounding banked turn, Tony shows his stuff.

I know I could crash into another wall; and I've seen my friends die. But I use what I figure is the most important safety precaution in the world: I never relax. But on the highway, drivers will be daydreaming, laughing, recalling their holiday, or listening to music or their favorite baseball team. They aren't worried about the other driver. That's the danger. One little slip and you've hit another car head-on or you've been sideswiped.

With my record of racing accidents, people might think I shouldn't be giving advice. I had a driver friend who was killed because he wore a shoulder harness I'd warned him against. I lost another friend on a race track because he wouldn't fasten his safety helmet. He always said, "Bettenhausen, don't worry about me. You're the only guy who ever rolls over."

But when I roll over, I've learned it doesn't hurt to be prepared.

His racing cars have flipped over, burst into flames, smashed into walls, but it's all in a day's work!

I LIVE WITH DANGER

By TONY BETTENHAUSEN
as told to Bill Surface

IN THE AUTOMOBILE-racing business, they call me "Flip." I've had so many bad accidents that I only count the times I've flipped over. At last inventory, the number was 28. That doesn't include crashing into concrete walls head-on or almost burning up.

Take, for example, the humid Aug. 18, 1954, when I was slowing down to 90 miles per hour on a turn in Chicago's sharply curved Soldier Field. My brakes went out, and I smashed into the concrete wall. I knew nothing about it until I regained consciousness five days later. I guess people think I'm crazy for not quitting racing.

But I've already quit—about a thousand races ago. I'm 44 years old now, and on my 32nd birthday—Sept. 12, 1948—I was just warming up for a midget race at DuQuoin, Ill., when my car burst into flames. I was burned so badly I couldn't get out of bed for three months. I quit racing permanently. But somebody offered me a car about six months later, and I couldn't say "no."

Tony's mechanic offers last-minute pep talk.

Why do I keep driving? First of all, this is the way I feed my wife and four children. And second, automobiles hypnotize me. Ever since I drove an Overland Touring car around our farm at Tinley Park, Ill., when I was nine years old, I've been in love with automobiles and speed. I even tore down the motor at the same age and reassembled it.

When other kids were cheering Babe Ruth, I was idolizing race drivers. After I saw Bill Cummins win the 1934 Indianapolis 500-mile race at the then-incredible speed of 104 mph, I decided I wanted to be a race driver. The fastest one alive.

No matter how dangerous this occupation looks, it is the livelihood I chose.

I consider myself an athlete, the same as baseball players or boxers. I keep in top physical shape. People can't expect me to give up racing any more than a bullfighter would run from the biggest bull or a mountain climber dodge the tallest peak.

In my 24 years of racing, I've faced the green starting flag and won more automobile races than any man alive, and I know that we race drivers aren't terrified, as most people assume. Good drivers know exactly where the real danger is in racing: inexperience and overanxiousness. We prepare for the worst.

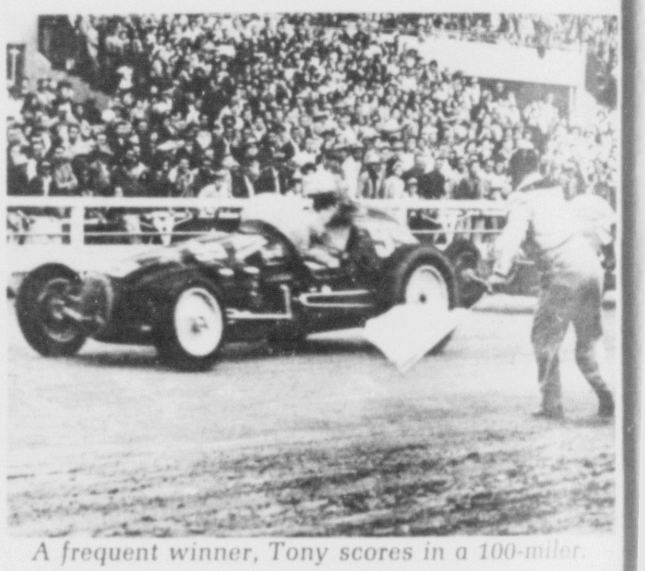
Why, if I hadn't been prepared a year ago in the Indianapolis 500, I wouldn't be around for Tuesday's Memorial Day Classic. On the 127th lap, I was running smoothly in fourth place at 155 mph. Suddenly the connecting rod in my car snapped, the engine exploded into flames, and I was barreling straight for a concrete wall.

Instead of panicking, I made the safety moves I've practiced all my life. I stopped the crankshaft to minimize the blaze and rode the burning car into the pits, where they extinguished the blaze without endangering anyone else's life.

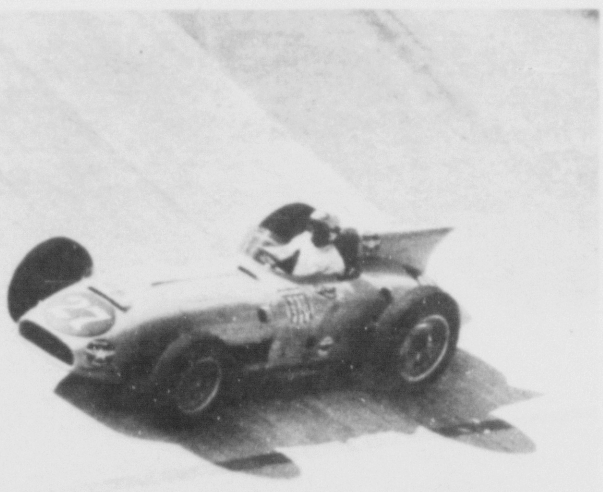
Driving a car anywhere—on a race track or a highway—is an important responsibility. If more motorists became accustomed to their cars and prepared for emergencies, then the National Safety Council's estimate of 390 deaths on the highways this weekend would be much lower.

Millions of people will be driving leisurely along the highways this weekend, and those who have heard of me probably think I'm crazy. I'll be fighting wheel for wheel, lap for lap, at breakneck speeds of up to 180 mph this Tuesday in the Indianapolis 500. That's the race in which I also hit a wall at 147 mph in 1958 and crashed into another wall at 147 mph in 1956.

Believe me, I'd much rather be on the Indianapolis Speedway—or any race track—than on the highway.



A frequent winner, Tony scores in a 100-miler.



Rounding banked turn, Tony shows his stuff.

I know I could crash into another wall; and I've seen my friends die. But I use what I figure is the most important safety precaution in the world: I never relax. But on the highway, drivers will be daydreaming, laughing, recalling their holiday, or listening to music or their favorite baseball team. They aren't worried about the other driver. That's the danger. One little slip and you've hit another car head-on or you've been sideswiped.

With my record of racing accidents, people might think I shouldn't be giving advice. I had a driver friend who was killed because he wore a shoulder harness I'd warned him against. I lost another friend on a race track because he wouldn't fasten his safety helmet. He always said, "Bettenhausen, don't worry about me. You're the only guy who ever rolls over."

But when I roll over, I've learned it doesn't hurt to be prepared.

Taste PALL MALL... so GOOD! GOOD! GOOD!

Good-looking, Good-tasting, Good-smoking Pall Mall!

·IN HOC SIGNO VINCES·

Why does Pall Mall taste so good, good, good? Because Pall Mall's famous length of fine, good-tasting tobacco travels and gentles the smoke naturally—makes it mild —but does not filter out that satisfying flavor. That's why Pall Mall tastes so good! good! good! Never too strong. Never too weak. Always just right!

Outstanding...and they are Mild!

HERE'S WHY SMOKE "TRAVELED" THROUGH FINE TOBACCO TASTES BEST

1 You get Pall Mall's famous length of the finest tobaccos money can buy.

2 Pall Mall's famous length travels and gentles the smoke naturally. Travels it . . .

3 Over, under, around and through Pall Mall's fine, good-tasting tobaccos—and makes it mild!

WHITE HOUSE EXCLUSIVE!

BEHIND THE SCENES WITH PRESIDENT KENNEDY

Come into the White House and follow JFK's daily routine in these intimate candids taken by one of his favorite photographers

Photographs and Text
By JACQUES LOWE

ON MONDAY, May 29, President John Fitzgerald Kennedy will celebrate his 44th birthday. I first met Mr. Kennedy in 1958. Through a series of photographs I took of the Robert Kennedy family, I was asked to take portraits of Mr. and Mrs. John F. Kennedy and their daughter Caroline for their Christmas card that year.

Subsequently I joined the Kennedy campaign as photographer, and in that capacity I covered the primaries, the convention, and the Presidential campaign. During those arduous months, I came to know the then-Senator and his staff very well.

While I recorded the President's working days for this FAMILY WEEKLY feature, two factors stood out strongly: the almost superhuman size of the office and the little change that had taken place in Mr. Kennedy's personality.

The President retains a good-humored informality that surprises and delights everyone he meets. Startling his staff at first by dropping in unannounced to see whether everything was running smoothly, dialing his own phone, and putting an end to the custom that even his immediate staff rise when he enters a room, the President is still the genial and unceremonious person that he was as a young Senator. And he is still a pleasure to photograph.

In private secretary Evelyn Lincoln's office, President and Press Secretary Salinger confer. Very energetic, the President often carries on business in staff's offices.

At 8:30, two hours after the last visitor leaves, the President still dictates letters in oval study. After 13-hour day he announced, "Well, I think I'll go home now. Good night, Jacques," and went to dinner.

After sit-down conference, President holds impromptu session with Secretary of State Rusk and Assistant Secretary of State for U.N. Affairs Harlan Cleveland. Many of these brief meetings are held standing or walking.

Photographer Jacques Lowe stands at President's shoulder as Mr. Kennedy examines photographs. Lowe has photographed Kennedys for four years.

Creamy Pink Punch

The deep pink color and flavor of maraschino cherries in this punch are complemented by a pale pink peppermint-flavored frost.

TO PREPARE: 25 MIN. TO FREEZE PEPPERMINT FROST: ABOUT 2 HRS.

- ¼ cup (2 oz.) crushed striped peppermint candy
- ¾ cup marshmallow cream
- ½ cup boiling water
- ½ cup very cold water
- ½ cup nonfat dry milk
- 2 tablespoons lemon juice
- ¾ cup maraschino cherry sirup
- ⅓ cup chopped maraschino cherries
- 1 large bottle (about 3 cups) sparkling white grape juice, chilled

1. To make peppermint frost—combine candy, marshmallow cream, and boiling water. Stir until candy is dissolved; chill.

2. Pour the cold water into a mixing bowl; add nonfat dry milk and whip until soft peaks are formed, 3 to 4 min. Add lemon juice and continue whipping until stiff, 3 to 4 min.

3. Fold peppermint-candy mixture into whipped nonfat dry milk. Turn into a refrigerator tray and freeze until firm.

4. To serve—mix cherry sirup and cherries in a chilled punch bowl. Blend in sparkling white grape juice and float scoops of peppermint frost on the punch. If desired, garnish each serving with a whole maraschino cherry. About 12 servings

Note: The amount of peppermint frost is sufficient for a double recipe of the punch.

Cherry-Chocolate Cake

GOOD FOR FREEZING

This rich chocolate cake, flecked with cherries and nuts, is equally glamorous and flavorful frosted with Cherry Pink or Browned Butter Frosting.

TO PREPARE AND FROST: 1 HR. TO BAKE: 35-40 MIN.

- 3 sq. (3 oz.) unsweetened chocolate, melted and cooled
- 1 cup coarsely chopped pecans or black walnuts
- 1 cup red maraschino cherries, well-drained and finely chopped
- 6 tablespoons cherry sirup
- 3½ cups sifted cake flour
- 2½ teaspoons baking powder
- 1 teaspoon baking soda
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 1 cup butter or margarine
- 1½ cups sugar
- 2 eggs, well beaten
- 2 cups thick sour cream

1. Grease bottoms only of set of 4-tier round cake pans (9-in. pan; 7¼-in. pan; 5½-in. pan; 3¼-in. pan). Line bottoms with waxed paper and lightly grease paper.

2. Have ready the first four ingredients.

3. Sift flour, baking powder, baking soda, and salt together; set aside.

4. Cream the butter until softened. Add sugar gradually, beating well after each addition.

5. Add beaten eggs in thirds, beating until light and fluffy after each addition.

6. Beat in the cooled chocolate.

7. Combine the sour cream and cherry sirup.

8. Alternately add dry ingredients in fourths, sour cream mixture in thirds, to creamed mixture, beating only until smooth after each addition.

9. Blend in the chopped nuts and cherries. Turn batter into the 4 pans, filling each two-thirds full.

10. Bake at 350°F 35 to 40 min., or until a wooden pick or cake tester inserted in center of cake comes out clean.

11. Remove to cooling racks and cool 10 min. Remove from pans, peel off paper, and cool layers completely.

12. Frost and decorate cake with Browned Butter Frosting or Cherry Pink Frosting (see photo).

A Wit's End

Let others, when the party's done
And they are home in bed,
Berate themselves for chances missed
And gems of wit unsaid.

I'm sleepless, taut. Beneath the sheets
My burning face is hid—
Not for the things I didn't say
But for the things I did!

A Hollywood press agent sat disconsolately on a park bench. A friend spotted him and came over to ask what the trouble was. "I've been fired," the press agent said. "My client, Heaven la French, said I gave her a bad press."

The friend was surprised. "But didn't you give the newspapers that sensational front-page story about her poodle swallowing all her diamonds?"

"That's why she fired me," the press agent said. "She claimed people would think she had only enough diamonds to fill a poodle!"

Two sportsmen arrived at a small town in the wilderness for a week's fishing and shopped for guides. They found one fellow asking $25 a day.

"Say, you look familiar," said one fisherman. "Weren't you our guide for hunting a couple of years ago?"

"That's right," said the outdoorsman.

"But you charged $50 a day for hunting. How come your price is half that now?"

"Well," the guide replied, "during the fishing season nobody ever mistakes me for a fish."

"Your wife asked me to pick you up."

The boss prided himself on knowing all of his employees personally, so one morning he was taken aback to see a new man in the payroll department, studiously filling envelopes with money.

"And where did you get your financial training, young man?" the boss asked.

"Yale," the man said.

"Excellent!" the boss exclaimed. "And what's your last name?"

"Yackson!" was the reply.

Browned Butter Frosting

TO PREPARE: 30 MIN.

1 cup butter or margarine
9 cups sifted confectioners' sugar
½ cup whipping cream
1½ tablespoons vanilla extract

1. Melt butter in a heavy skillet over medium heat; continue heating, stirring frequently, until butter is light golden. Pour into mixing bowl.
2. Gradually beat in the sugar and enough cream to make frosting of spreading consistency. Beat in the extract.

About 4 cups

Cherry Pound Cake

CONVENIENCE FOOD RECIPE | GOOD FOR FREEZING

2 1-lb., 1-oz. pkgs. pound cake mix
⅓ cup chopped red maraschino cherries (about 15 cherries, drained)

1. Prepare set of 4-tier cake pans (see Cherry-Chocolate Cake, step 1).
2. Prepare cake mix as directed on package. Fold cherries into batter. Turn batter into the 4 pans, filling each about two-thirds full.
3. If temperature indicated on package is 350°F, bake 30 to 40 min., if 325°F, bake 40 to 50 min., or until a wooden pick or cake tester comes out clean when inserted in center of layers. Cool and remove cake from pans (see Cherry-Chocolate Cake, step 11).
4. Frost and decorate cake with Cherry Pink Frosting (see photo).

About 20 servings

Cherry Pink Frosting

TO PREPARE: 20 MIN.

1½ cups butter or margarine
8 cups sifted confectioners' sugar
¼ cup maraschino cherry sirup

1. Cream butter until light and fluffy.
2. Alternately add sugar and cherry sirup, beating until smooth after each addition.
3. Add a drop of red food coloring if a deeper pink color is desired.

About 4½ cups

Sunny Lemon Punch

TO PREPARE: 25 MIN.

2 cups sugar
2 cups water
1½ cups strained lemon juice, chilled
4 teaspoons grated lemon peel
2 qts. ginger ale, chilled
2 cups cream
1 pt. lemon sherbet
1 pt. orange sherbet

1. Combine sugar and water in a saucepan; stir over low heat until sugar is dissolved. Increase heat and bring to boiling; boil 10 min. Chill.
2. To serve—pour sirup into a chilled punch bowl. Blend in lemon juice, peel, ginger ale, and cream.
3. Top with small scoops of sherbet. Serve immediately. About 24 servings

A Letter to a Man Giving Up Religion

An eminent clergyman answers those who, shaken by the mysteries of life, say: "I can no longer believe, but I will practice goodness; that is enough in itself"

By HARRY EMERSON FOSDICK

Dear Mr. Brown:

In reply to your letter, let me say first that I am especially interested in what you write because, in spite of the so-called "religious boom" now widely advertised, your statements represent a not-uncommon attitude. You are going to give up religion. You find the idea of a good God intellectually indigestible in the face of the staggering mystery of this vast universe. You have tried to retain your faith, but the insoluble mystery of life in this huge and often dreadful universe has swamped it.

So you propose to give up religion and to content yourself simply with goodness. Friend, haven't you forgotten something: that goodness is the most mysterious thing in this mysterious universe?

I can imagine some ministers saying, in answer to your letter, that you are wrong because no one can be good unless he is first of all religious. I am not saying that. I am saying that when you face genuine goodness, whether in a believer or an unbeliever, you run headlong into life's deepest mystery and into all the basic questions of religion.

Beauty and integrity of character, Dr. Schweitzer's self-sacrificial dedication, Helen Keller's indomitable courage, supremely the life and quality and influence of Jesus—that is not simple. Or, even in us ordinary mortals, the sense of duty which made Mark Twain's Huckleberry Finn say that conscience "takes up more room than all the rest of a person's insides"—that is not simple. That demands an explanation, and in the long run, if you really think it through, you have to choose between two explanations.

One is that goodness is an accident in a material universe with no mind behind it, no purpose running through it, and with nothing to account for it except protons and neutrons going it blind—the cosmos itself a "gigantic accident consequent upon an infinite succession of happy flukes."

The other explanation is that goodness is not an accident but a revelation, a disclosure of something everlastingly so, light from a central sun, living water from an eternal fountain. As the New Testament puts it: "He who does good is of God."

That first explanation seems to me incredible. A magician may get rabbits out of a hat, but no magician can ever get a character like Christ from the mere fortuitous play of atoms any more than he can toss type into the air and have it fall by physical gravitation into the score of Handel's "Messiah." It takes more than physical accident to produce integrity of character, fidelity in friendship, sacrifice in service, courage and sportsmanship in difficulty, genuine goodness rising at times to great heights of moral heroism.

When, therefore, you write me that you are giving up God and are going to content yourself with goodness, I am sure that you are oversimplifying the matter. You still have the universe on your hands. You still face the question that will not down: is a good life the chance product of a merely physical cosmos, or is it a revelation of the Eternal?

I wish I knew more than your letter tells me about why you are getting rid of your religion. There is plenty of intellectually and morally bad religion that you may well get rid of.

I am told that Gandhi was once asked to name the greatest enemy Christ faces in the modern world, and after a moment's pause he answered, "Christianity."

That is rather rough, but we Christians would do well to face up to the truth in it. It may be that religious faith has been presented to you in terms that have insulted your intelligence and disgusted your conscience. All right! Get rid of that! But if you are going out for a good character, remember that goodness—Christ's, for example—raises the basic question in one's philosphy of life: is goodness an accident or a revelation?

The High Cost of Goodness

You are a young man, and I am now in my 80s. You write about living the good life as though you could blow on your hands and do it. That is not my experience. Right living in this kind of world is a challenging affair. It costs self-discipline, self-sacrifice, self-control, courage to refuse conformity and to stand up against popular wrongs.

During the Civil War a Yankee commodore was put in charge of a blockade on the Mississippi with strict orders to allow no cotton to pass down the river. Some speculators tried to release their cotton by bribing the commodore. They visited him at his headquarters and promised him a price to let two barges through. Without looking up from his desk, he refused. They raised the price, and he answered with a sharp, "No!" Then they raised it again, making the bribe a larger one, and the commodore leaped from his chair, seized his tempter by the collar, and threw him out the door. "Out with you!" he shouted. "You are getting too near my price!"

I do not know what your moral problems are, but I am sure that you have a lot of them, like the rest of us, and that sometimes your tempters get too near your price. For myself, I am thankful that, in trying to live a good life, I do not have to picture myself in a universe with no intelligence behind it, no purpose running through it, no ultimate meaning in it, no available resources of eternal goodness to back me up.

To go further, goodness is not only a matter of right action but of bravely enduring and surmounting trouble. Abraham Lincoln's greatness of character came out when catastrophe faced him, when he was steady in a shaken time, magnanimous in a vindictive time, when the worse the situation became the more of a man he proved himself to be. One way or another, it is true with all of us that the ultimate test of character comes when trouble comes, when some battering shock befalls us and the question presented to our goodness is not so much whether we will do a right deed as whether we can stand up with integrity of soul under what life does to us.

You seem to think of Christ's goodness in terms of His golden rule. I cannot avoid thinking of His goodness in terms of His cross. When you are as old as I am, you will have seen many admirable characters but none so moving as those who, in the face of life's tragedy and injustice, its cruelty and pain, have revealed such greatness of soul that they have become the world's saints and saviors. Goodness is not merely a matter of morals but of morale.

Furthermore, goodness involves recovery from moral failure. Sin isn't just a word; it is a stupendous fact in every life, and all of us face crises in our experience when we need to repent, to be forgiven, to be "transformed by the renewing of our minds."

Jesus' story of the Prodigal Son applies, one way or another, to every one of us. That boy started by saying, "Give me"—"Give me the share of property that falls to me"—but when he came back from the far country, humiliated and penitent, he had changed his tune. "Make me," he said to his father. "Make me as one of your hired servants, only make me different from what I have been." Staging a comeback like that is about the toughest of assignments. It involves repentance, confession, forgiveness, restitution, reconciliation.

Recover Your Faith in God

You see what I am trying to say. A good life is not simple—especially when one has done something that makes a long uphill climb necessary if one is to recover rectitude and integrity. I have seen many magnificent comebacks from moral abysses —alcoholism, vice, criminality, or what-you-will—but I never saw one that did not involve a recovery of faith in God.

From the tone of your letter, I am sure that you will not stop where you are. You are not the first person to give up religion. There was a youth who called himself an atheist. He rebelled against his inherited religion so vehemently that once, when his family took him to church, he made a disturbance and was publicly rebuked. Who was that youth? You never would guess, unless by chance you knew. It was Robert Browning, who afterward wrote:

I say, the acknowledgement of God
in Christ,
Accepted by thy reason, solves for thee
All questions in the earth and out of it.

Yes, that Robert Browning.

So, I am hoping that you, too, will come through to a faith that will alike create and sustain the goodness you dream of.

That is rather rough, but we Christians would do well to face up to the truth in it. It may be that religious faith has been presented to you in terms that have insulted your intelligence and disgusted your conscience. All right! Get rid of that! But if you are going out for a good character, remember that goodness—Christ's, for example—raises the basic question in one's philosphy of life: is goodness an accident or a revelation?

The High Cost of Goodness

You are a young man, and I am now in my 80s. You write about living the good life as though you could blow on your hands and do it. That is not my experience. Right living in this kind of world is a challenging affair. It costs self-discipline, self-sacrifice, self-control, courage to refuse conformity and to stand up against popular wrongs.

During the Civil War a Yankee commodore was put in charge of a blockade on the Mississippi with strict orders to allow no cotton to pass down the river. Some speculators tried to release their cotton by bribing the commodore. They visited him at his headquarters and promised him a price to let two barges through. Without looking up from his desk, he refused. They raised the price, and he answered with a sharp, "No!" Then they raised it again, making the bribe a larger one, and the commodore leaped from his chair, seized his tempter by the collar, and threw him out the door. "Out with you!" he shouted. "You are getting too near my price!"

I do not know what your moral problems are, but I am sure that you have a lot of them, like the rest of us, and that sometimes your tempters get too near your price. For myself, I am thankful that, in trying to live a good life, I do not have to picture myself in a universe with no intelligence behind it, no purpose running through it, no ultimate meaning in it, no available resources of eternal goodness to back me up.

To go further, goodness is not only a matter of right action but of bravely enduring and surmounting trouble. Abraham Lincoln's greatness of character came out when catastrophe faced him, when he was steady in a shaken time, magnanimous in a vindictive time, when the worse the situation became the more of a man he proved himself to be. One way or another, it is true with all of us that the ultimate test of character comes when trouble comes, when some battering shock befalls us and the question presented to our goodness is not so much whether we will do a right deed as whether we can stand up with integrity of soul under what life does to us.

You seem to think of Christ's goodness in terms of His golden rule. I cannot avoid thinking of His goodness in terms of His cross. When you are as old as I am, you will have seen many admirable characters but none so moving as those who, in the face of life's tragedy and injustice, its cruelty and pain, have revealed such greatness of soul that they have become the world's saints and saviors. Goodness is not merely a matter of morals but of morale.

Furthermore, goodness involves recovery from moral failure. Sin isn't just a word; it is a stupendous fact in every life, and all of us face crises in our experience when we need to repent, to be forgiven, to be "transformed by the renewing of our minds."

Jesus' story of the Prodigal Son applies, one way or another, to every one of us. That boy started by saying, "Give me"—"Give me the share of property that falls to me"—but when he came back from the far country, humiliated and penitent, he had changed his tune. "Make me," he said to his father. "Make me as one of your hired servants, only make me different from what I have been." Staging a comeback like that is about the toughest of assignments. It involves repentance, confession, forgiveness, restitution, reconciliation.

Recover Your Faith in God

You see what I am trying to say. A good life is not simple—especially when one has done something that makes a long uphill climb necessary if one is to recover rectitude and integrity. I have seen many magnificent comebacks from moral abysses —alcoholism, vice, criminality, or what-you-will—but I never saw one that did not involve a recovery of faith in God.

From the tone of your letter, I am sure that you will not stop where you are. You are not the first person to give up religion. There was a youth who called himself an atheist. He rebelled against his inherited religion so vehemently that once, when his family took him to church, he made a disturbance and was publicly rebuked. Who was that youth? You never would guess, unless by chance you knew. It was Robert Browning, who afterward wrote:

I say, the acknowledgement of God
in Christ,
Accepted by thy reason, solves for thee
All questions in the earth and out of it.

Yes, that Robert Browning.

So, I am hoping that you, too, will come through to a faith that will alike create and sustain the goodness you dream of.

"LORD, TEACH US TO PRAY"

Long before Christ came upon the earth, men were resorting to prayer for divine help.

Realizing the power of prayer, the people of Israel prayed often in appeal for God's blessings and in gratitude for His favors. Almost everyone, in fact, instinctively feels the need for prayer—especially in times of danger and emergency.

It might seem, therefore, that everyone knows how to pray... that the form, language and objectives of prayer are not important . . . that God will listen as readily to the prayers of the unreligious as to those of the devout. Some will undoubtedly say, "nobody need tell us how to pray."

And yet the Apostles, watching as Jesus prayed, became aware for the first time of the mighty power of a proper prayer. They could see on the Savior's face as He prayed, the reflection of a great inner peace and refreshment.

So they said to Jesus: "Lord, teach us to pray!"

And Christ replied: "Pray thus . . . Our Father, Who art in heaven, hallowed be Thy name

"Thy kingdom come, Thy will be done, on earth as it is in heaven.

"Give us this day our daily bread,

"And forgive us our debts as we also forgive our debtors. And lead us not into temptation, but deliver us from evil."

The words of the Lord's Prayer, of course, are enshrined in the hearts of Christians everywhere. Yet Christ, in giving us this most beautiful prayer of all, did not tell us to "pray this". What He said was: "Pray thus".

He meant that we must pray with the realization that God is truly our Father . . . that His name shall be revered as no other . . . that His will is to be done here and hereafter . . . that we are to be truly sorry for our injustices to others, and forgiving of those who injure us . . . and that we are to avoid sin.

People who question the value of prayer will often say they have tried it and "it didn't work." They mean by this, of course, that God did not grant the things for which they prayed. With a better understanding of proper prayer, they would realize that an appeal for God's favor is only one of various kinds of prayer . . . and that God does not grant every favor we ask.

Proper prayer is not merely a petition for blessings. It is also an expression of our love, devotion and gratitude to God . . . our acceptance of God as our Father . . . a submission of our wishes and our will to His wishes and will.

The words of many beautiful prayers are readily available, but the important thing is to understand the true meaning of proper prayer. A special pamphlet on prayer will be mailed to you upon request. It will come in a plain wrapper—and nobody will call on you. Write for Pamphlet FM-59.

Carbon costs you money. A tiny bit extra on a vital engine part can waste a tenth of the gasoline you buy, cost you 50 cents or more every time you fill up. Why is this so?

Carbon hurts your engine. It increases roughness. Fouls spark plugs. Runs up repair bills.

Gulf gasolines control carbon. Gulf's exclusive refinery processes refine out dirty-burning, deposit-forming elements.
